GIRL SWIMS CHANNEL

Gertrude Ederle Triumphant

New York Maid First of Sex to Cross Grim Waters of Straits of Dover

Nineteen-Year-Old American Breaks World's Record by Accomplishing Feat

BY JULIA HARPMAN

KING'S DOWN (Eng.) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—The world's champion woman swimmer is a champion of her sex tonight.

Young, sturdy, young Gertrude Ederle, who jumped ashore on Kings Down beach, the final point of many search lights, at 9:39 o'clock tonight, she had established a world's record for the torturing English Channel swim by just one minute less than two hours.

She is the first woman to accomplish the crossing of the cold, whirlpool filled, rough waters of the Straits of Dover. And she had performed the gruelling feat in 14 hours and 31 minutes under almost the most adverse conditions possible at this season, beating the previous record of 16 hours and 33 minutes hung up by Enrico Tiraboschi, the Argentinian star.

SIXTH TO SUCCEED

Of the many scores of swimmers who have attempted the spanning of the 21 miles of sea that separate France and England, she is the sixth successful one to succeed and in doing so has left by tremendous speed, set a mark for the crossing that veteran channel swimmers agree may quite possibly stand for all time.

However, had conditions been half-way favorable, channel experts believe she would have made the swim in something under the amazing time of 12 hours.

The little 19-year-old daughter of Henry Ederle, German-born, prosperous butcher, took off from Cape Gris Nez at 7:05 a.m., French "summer" time, corresponding to daylight saving time in some sections of the United States. Her start was at 1:05 p.m., eastern standard time; her triumphant finish at 9:39 that time. At that very instant conditions generally favorable, but not ideal. Trudie Ederle had encountered vicious conditions and for more than half of her racking journey she battled tumultuous seas, whipped on by a gale-like, adverse wind and that became mountainous as she neared the English Coast.

With an amazing show of pluck and endurance atop her splendid swimming form that, from early girlhood had gained her many titles, she overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

But once complaining, except that her advisers continually urged her

BALKAN WAR THREATENS

Ultimatum Sent to Bulgaria

Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Greece Demand Safety on Frontiers

Combined Armies to March Across Borders Unless Guarantees Given

VIENNA, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Three ultimatums of identical wording will be delivered at Sofia to the Bulgarian government tomorrow by the ministers of Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Greece. The three states demand that the Bulgarian government prevent the raids of the comitadji, disband the Macedonian organization and take measures to assure the safety of the frontiers.

Should the demands not be complied with, the Jugo-Slavian, Rumanian and Greek forces will invade Bulgarian territory. This information was received by the Belgrade newspaper Vreme, which is supposed to be in close touch with the Jugo-Slav Foreign Office.

BELLIGERENT NOTES

This probably is the strongest and most belligerent note addressed to any European power since the World War.

In an official communique Foreign Minister Marko Nintchitch mitigates the reports about the impending demarche, denying its ultra-aggressive character. At the same time an official bulletin declares that all three notes will be sent to the League of Nations.

Throughout Central Europe the people are watching the growing war clouds with the greatest anxiety. It is feared that the Balkan conflict may spread to wider precincts.

As Italy is heavily involved in the Balkans, neither France nor England can pretend disinterestedness in the eventuality of war. Significant, however, is the move of the Rumanian government in concentrating large contingents of troops on the Bessarabian frontier as reported this morning. This, obviously, is a precaution against an attack from Russia.

SWORDS RATTLING

Another interesting side light is the trip of the Hungarian Minister of the Interior, Ivan Rakovsky, to Transylvania to visit the former Hungarian Foreign Minister, Count Nicholas Banffy who recently assumed Rumanian citizenship. This is said to be connected with the long-maturing plans for a Rumanian-Hungarian rapprochement.

With the possibility of war, with Bulgaria, friendship with Hungary would be invaluable to Rumania, as

Accusations in Colombia House Futile

BOGOTA (Colombia) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Efforts to discredit the outgoing administration of President Pedro Nel Ospina are seen in the accusation before Congress by Representative Veas of participation in the oil pipe line recently constructed by the Tropical Oil Company from Barranca and Bermeja to Cartagena at a cost of $40,000,000.

The efforts have proved futile for it was shown that under the circumstances, in the face of bitter political opposition to the steps taken, it was the only arrangement that could have been made to carry through successfully the most important project in the country.

Dr. Mendez will be inaugurated president of Colombia tomorrow.

UTAH HORSE RACING LAW HELD LEGAL

Existence of Pari-Mutuel Betting Ruled Not Factor by State Supreme Court

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—The Supreme Court of Utah today upheld the Redd horse racing law, enacted two years ago. The decision holds the act is legal and that horse racing is not a game of chance. The case went up to the Supreme Court from the District Court on an adverse decision against the Utah Horse Breeding and Racing Association, brought by the city, in which the pari-mutuel system was attacked as gambling.

The Supreme Court holds that the pari-mutuel element is not a factor in the case. On this phase the decision reads. "The real bone of contention here is the conducting of horse racing under pari-mutuel system. The pari-mutuel system performs no function in determining the game. The result of the race is determined by the race itself and not by any machine or device. Everything being equal, the fastest horse will be the first to reach the goal."

The decision concludes "that having found that horse racing under the pari-mutuel system is not a game of chance, and not inhibited by the question of whether it shall be authorized by law is purely a matter of legislative policy, a rightful subject of legislation."

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 6. (AP)—A racing meet will be held at the State Fair Grounds, with the opening date Labor Day, and lasting for about 30 days, continuing through State Fair Week, it was announced today after the decision of the State Supreme Court which held the Redd racing bill constitutional.

Japanese Pair Tied and Robbed by Bandit Duo

AUBURN, Aug. 6. (AP)—Reminiscent of the early days are the exploits of two or more modern "bad men" who held a couple captive this morning and robbed two places in the Penryn and Loomis districts.

It was at the Shemezu place near Penryn that the couple were held captives. Two men entered the couple's bedroom brandishing pistols. Both Shemezu and his wife were bound to the bed with the bedding. The robbers then made themselves at home, took $14 in cash, a gold watch and left in Shemezu's car.

Previous to this visit the bandits looted another Japanese ranch-house near Penryn and still earlier held up G. Hira at his home near Loomis. All of the visits were in daylight hours.

VOTERS SLAP EVOLUTIONIST

Tennessee Beats Scopes's Counsel and Deposes Judge; Gov. Peay Leads for Renomination

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Dr. John R. Neal, senior counsel for John T. Scopes in the evolution trial at Dayton, and Judge John T. Raulston, fundamentalist and presiding judge at the Scopes trial, were among the defeated candidates in yesterday's State primary and county elections.

Dr. Neal was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Governorship, but was far outdistanced by his two opponents. Returns tonight accounted for only 1224 votes polled for him. Judge Raulston, Republican, was defeated in the judicial election in the Eighteenth District by Leslie R. Duir of Jasper. Duir is a minister's son.

LIBERAL PROGRAM

Dr. Neal made his primary campaign on a liberal program favoring referendums on prohibition and the opening of motion-picture theaters on Sundays. He also favored repeal of the antievolution bill, which Gov. Peay signed and Hill McAllister, the other opponent, sponsored when it was up for enactment.

Walter White, the Republican candidate for Governor, also took an active part in the Scopes trial as prosecutor for Rhea county, where the trial was held.

Unofficial returns tonight from 1842 of the 2195 precincts showed Gov. Peay holding a lead of nearly 5000 votes over State Treasurer Mc-Allister for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Peay had 87,653 votes and McAllister, 82,687.

OTHER RESULTS

Gov. Peay, who took the leadership early today as reports from the rural districts drifted in, maintained his advantage as additional returns were received from the outlying sections and the mountain districts.

Headquarters of both candidates, however, issued equally optimistic statements tonight. The Democrats will be opposed by Walter White, Republican nominee, who had no contest in the primary.

On the face of unofficial returns, Finis J. Garret, minority house leader, was renominated in the Democratic Congressional primary in the Ninth District and B. Carroll Reese won the Republican nomination in the First District, the only two Congressional contests.

LATE OKLAHOMA RETURNS ADD TO LEADS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 6. (AP)—Belated returns from Tuesday's primary election, straggling in tonight, served only to increase the pluralities of the various nominees.

Defeat of Charles D. Carter, veteran Representative from the Third Oklahoma District was the chief concrete development of the day. Mr. Carter today conceded defeat for the Democratic nomination by a margin of 1300 votes and wired congratulation and promise of support to his youthful opponent, Wilburn Cartwright of McAlester. Cartwright, a former State Senator, is 33 years of age. Mr. Carter has served in Con-

DARK HORSE SENATE CHOICE

Iowa Republicans Select Sioux City Attorney to Succeed Cummins When Deadlock Threatens

DES MOINES, Aug. 6. (AP)—David W. Stewart, a Sioux City lawyer, is the choice of the Republican party of Iowa for the unfinished United States Senate term of the late Albert B. Cummins. He will go before the voters in the November election as the candidate for the short term, while Col. Smith W. Brookhart, the party's primary nominee, will run for the full six-year term.

Stewart was nominated late this afternoon on the third formal ballot of the party's special convention. His selection was hailed on all sides as a happy compromise between the forces of Col. Brookhart, who sought the short-term nomination for their leader, and the group of party "regulars" who went into the convention determined to block the Brookhart boom and if possible to nominate a man who had stood close to Senator Cummins during the latter's long service.

STRENGTH SURPRISING

The unexpected strength of Stewart proved a surprise to all factions working for other candidates. He left his home in Sioux City yesterday with little thought of going before the convention and the Woodbury county delegation launched a boom for him only this morning, more as a complimentary move than in the hope of success.

But as the voting progressed and the candidates whose names have been before Iowa voters on numerous occasions in the past failed to rally the strength anticipated the delegates began looking about for a man who would break what appeared to be an approaching deadlock, and Stewart, the outsider and a comparative youngster in Iowa politics, proved to be the man.

Stewart himself was so surprised that he scarcely realized he had stepped into a convention without an organization, except the local support of his own county, and defeated men like Brookhart, Burton E. Sweet, former Congressman Charles J. Bradshaw of Des Moines; Howard J. Clark, Des Moines; former Governor N. E. Kendall, Col. George French of Davenport, Dan Turner of Corning, and H. O. Weaver of Wapello—all veteran campaigners.

AIDE TO COOLIDGE

Stewart, a graduate of the University of Chicago law school and a former school-teacher and athletic coach, is head of the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce. He has been interested in municipal politics in his home city and managed the Coolidge campaign in the northwestern

THE WAR OF THE KILLERS

Two more victims of the desperate war between Los Angeles hijackers and rum smugglers have been dropped by gangsters' bullets. The dead men lived in momentary expectancy of their fate yet they scorned to run away from it. The killers in turn expect to "get theirs."

The secrets of this feud between the underworld gangs constitute a unique phase of crime in America. "The Rum Runners," a series of articles on the liquor traffic in Southern California being published in the Sunday Times, gives the inside story of the war. Tomorrow's article will deal with the identity of the smuggler chiefs.

MORE HEAT PROMISED

Chicago Suffers From Weather

Three More Die, Making Total of Sixteen in Short Period

Relief Promised Texas; Kansas Temperature Continues High

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—More hot weather; lots of it!

Such was the weather man's prediction. Despite the relief afforded Chicagoans late yesterday, before the day was over they were mopping the perspiration once more.

Three deaths from the heat occurred today. Atop a loop-bound motor bus Nathan Simon, 60 years of age, collapsed and died within a few minutes. Patrick McGonigle collapsed while at work on the second floor of a building under construction. He fell to the ground, fracturing his skull, and died at a hospital. Joseph Urbanick, 71 years old, a laborer employed by the city, died supposedly from heart disease superinduced by the heat.

These deaths bring the total for the last three days to sixteen.

"The trouble is," Prof. Henry J. Cox of the Weather Bureau explained, "Chicago happens just now to be in between two heat waves of even greater intensity than the one she is experiencing. The discomfort is increased by the excessive humidity of the atmosphere."

The heat wave west of the Mississippi was even more intense than here. Hot winds swept the State of Kansas and scores of deaths were reported, one in Kansas City. A new record for the year was established at Kansas City, where the thermometer stood at 100. Salina led the State with a reading of 109. Sixteen points in the State reported readings of 100 or above. A water shortage was seriously threatened.

There were also hot winds in Texas and Oklahoma. The highest point in the latter State was 106 at Tulsa. Fort Worth led in Texas with a temperature of 102.

RELIEF PROMISED POINTS IN TEXAS

DALLAS, Aug. 6.(AP)—Prospect of some relief from heat permeating Texas for the past few days was held out today, when the weather bureau promised thundershowers. No deaths assigned to heat have been reported thus far but a few prostrations have occurred.

Exact reports of today's temperatures were not available but indications are that the hundred-odd marks reached yesterday in several cities were repeated today.

HEAT AND CHOLERA KILLING CHINESE

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6. (AP)—It is unofficially estimated that 1000 Chinese are dying daily from cholera and the excessive heat. With the epidemic at its peak, today was the hottest day in thirty years. The temperature reached 102.2 Few foreigners are affected.

One Flyer Dead, Other May Die in Dual Crash

RANTOUL (Ill.) Aug. 6. (AP)—One flyer was killed at Chanute Field here today and another who flew to his assistance crashed down beside him, receiving injuries expected to prove fatal.

First Lieutenant C. E. Partridge, Chicago, was flying at a height of 500 feet when his biplane went into a tail spin and fell.

Flying Cadet Harold C. Wilson of Selfridge Field, Michigan, flew his plane to Partridge's assistance, went into a side slip at the same place and altitude, and crashed less than 150 yards away. Wilson was taken from the wreckage unconscious. Partridge was dead when extricated.

Lieut. T. R. Wolf, Chicago, Wilson's passenger, was injured seriously.

Bermuda Gale Halts Harbor Ferry Traffic

HAMILTON (Bermuda) Aug. 6. (AP) A gale, which began yesterday afternoon, at times reaching hurricane velocity, is sweeping Bermuda today.

A few small pleasure craft in the harbor have been swamped and ferry service between Hamilton, Paget and Somerset has been stopped.

Some damage was caused to building operations under way on the Hotel Princess and power and telephone service in the outlying sections has been impeded.

ANASTASIA'S MILLIONS IN SAD PLIGHT

Leeds Riches Dwindled at Death of Princess to Mere $2,500,000 in Gems

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—The $40,000,000 inherited by Anastasia, Princess of Greece, on the death of her husband, William B. Leeds, the "tin-plate king," had dwindled at her death, Aug. 29, 1923, to slightly over $2,500,000, chiefly invested in gorgeous jewelry, it was revealed today when an accounting was filed by the United States Trust Company, coexecutors with Mrs. Margaret Stewart Green of Mont Clair, N. J.

Set against the total amount of 2,582,331 were debts, administration and other expenses amounting to nearly $1,000,000. Litigation, taxes and insurance in connection with the importation of the Leeds pearls, which sold for $800,000, alone amounted to $280,777.

The chief beneficiaries under Anastasia's will are Prince Christopher of Greece, her second husband, and Mrs. Margaret Stewart Green, who receives the residuary estate, including jewelry.

The principal jewelry mentioned consists of a pearl necklace with forty-three pearls which sold for $720,000; the larger necklace with sixty-seven pearls, which sold for $800,000 and an emerald and diamond collar which brought $643,275.

The latter blazing piece was the adornment which Princess Anastasia, it is said, was requested not to wear at the court of King George of England.

William B. Leeds of Oyster Bay, Princess Anastasia's son, who married Princess Xenia of Greece, received no substantial provision under the will, it being explained he was amply provided for. He received $7,000,000 under the will of his father.

It was generally rumored the Princess had spent $10,000,000 financing the return of King Constantine to the Greek throne.

GANGSTERS AGAIN ADD TO SCALPS

Chicago Policemen Facing Wall of Silence as Two Bootleggers Go to Death

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Gangland went gunning again late last night and today, with the result that two additional scalps hang on the tepee and the police are up against the usual impenetrable wall of silence.

Today's victim was John "Mitters" Foley, bootlegging pal of Ralph Sheldon and quite as picturesque a gunman as his chief. Foley was driving slowly in his car when four killers in a large automobile swept down upon him and filled his body with slugs from a sawed-off shotgun. Evidently he had sensed his impending fate, for he was in the act of leaping from his car en the deadly fusillade opened. He managed to stagger to a vacant lot, where he died.

Foley died as he had lived—by violence. Until he entered the bootlegging business he was a slugger for labor unions. His brother admitted this evening that Foley was business agent for the Ice Cream Drivers' Union but also carried a side line of beer running.

The man slain last night was Milan Dylick of Hazel Crest and the police believe he paid the penalty for giving information against bootleggers. Dylick was shot through the heart as he sat at an open window of his home. His wife and four children witnessed his death.

HANDS OFF IN MEXICO

Coolidge Policy Announced

President Feels Conflict of Church and State Purely Domestic Matter

Spokesman Also States Stand on Reported Soviet Plan to Send Commission

PLYMOUTH (Vt.) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—President Coolidge made known today a policy of hands off with relation to the conflict between Church and State in Mexico.

The only question that concerns this country, in his opinion, is the protection for American citizens. He feels Mexico is dealing with purely a domestic matter, he does not contemplate interference because of sympathy with either of the contending divisions of the southern republic.

President Coolidge's announced policy, made by an official spokesman, follows the petition of the Supreme Council, Knights of Columbus, yesterday, asking the President and State Department to put an end to this ignominious contempt which has been shown by Calles for Americans' appeal and to resolutely demand protection for American citizens.

According to the spokesman, the President has received no reports of offenses against Americans in Mexico in connection with the conflict between the government and the church. The President cannot speak for the State Department, the spokesman added, explaining that the Department is the proper place for the lodging of such protests.

He believes it would be improper for this government to step in unless there would be some violation of treaty obligations. There was no reference in the spokesman's remarks to the Knights of Columbus petition, but it was assumed the President had read it in the morning papers.

RUSSIAN REPORTS

The Presidential spokesman today commented on reports that the Russian government is contemplating sending a commission to the United States to pave the way for recognition by this country. It was emphasized that not only has the President heard nothing of the reported desire of the present regime in Russia to settle or recognize its debt, but that the present situation between the two countries calls for no negotiation.

The soviet government, it was pointed out, passed an ordinance repudiating the Russian debts. If the Russian government now wishes to deal with the United States, the President feels all it has to do is to repeal this ordinance. He thinks any advance negotiations are unnecessary and the inference in the remarks today was that they could accomplish nothing.

FISHING EXCURSION

This morning the President decided to try in his old home surroundings the fisherman's luck which has been with him in the mountains, and accompanied by E. W. Starlin of the secret service detail, he went to Piney Brook, which flows through Piney Hollow, where the first Colonial settlers who came to the Plymouth district built their cabins. The brook cuts along the base of the mountains within a few hundred yards of the Plymouth cross roads.

Mr. Coolidge wore a business suit, white collar and straw sailor hat. When he reached Piney Brook he cut a long willow stick, which it was assumed he intended to use for a pole, but apparently changing his mind he took a rod brought by Starlin. It was his first fishing excursion to Piney Brook since the holidays from Black River Academy, which he attended as a boy.

The President had fair luck, making several catches, but all the fish pulled from the brook were small and were tossed back. Cameramen were not permitted to make pictures of the fishing scene and a group of picnickers with cameras who sought

MEXICAN SHOWDOWN ASKED

American Ambassador's Note Calls for Facts on New Petroleum Laws

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6. (AP)—Ambassador Sheffield has delivered a new United States note with reference to Mexico's petroleum and land laws to the Mexican Foreign Office, it was learned today from circles close to the Foreign Office. The American Embassy has refused to affirm or deny the existence of the note.

In well informed circles it is believed that a revival of the discussion may mark the last word of the United States before the departure of Ambassador Sheffield on August 13 for a vacation in the United States. It is thought that the purpose of the note is to get the final cards on the table to put the Ambassador in a position to take up the matter with President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg.

STATE DEPARTMENT SILENT ON MEXICO NOTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—State Department officials refused to comment on the most recent communication sent to Mexico City in connection with the prolonged diplomatic discussion of the new Mexican petroleum and land laws. It had been expected for some time, however, that the department would forward such a communication to be presented at the Mexican Foreign Office by Ambassador Sheffield before he started home on his annual leave next week.

The last communications with the Mexican government in relation to land and petroleum laws as they affect the rights of American citizens in Mexico were exchanged nearly four months ago. At that time it was indicated that the discussion had resulted in a relatively satisfactory understanding as to the major points involved, but there remained a few minor questions to be threshed out.

Since than the Mexican government has promulgated a decree supplementing the regulations originally put out for the enforcement of the new oil law.

Presumably, the American point of view with regard to it is included in the communication Ambassador Sheffield has presented to the Foreign Office.

It was made clear at the department that the new note has nothing to do with the religious crisis in Mexico and is confined strictly to a discussion of American rights which are or might be jeopardized by the petroleum and land laws.

OVERTURES IN MEXICAN CHURCH WAR COLLAPSE

Intermediaries Are Unsuccessful in Efforts to Bring Government and Catholics Together

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6. (AP)—Both in Mexico, the efforts of would-be peace intermediaries having failed, apparently are prepared for an indefinite endurance contest. The propaganda campaign is being continued, but it is much more apparent on the side of the government supporters who, under the leadership of the regional Confederation of Labor and political groups, are touring the nation, addressing the people and issuing literature with the object of convincing the men and women of the country that the government's attitude is the proper one.

The newspapers are extremely cautious. They do not touch on the religious situation editorially, and print only meager news items, the proprietors fearing arrest or closure of their plants.

Catholic leaders announced they would not have a representative tonight at the Mexico City Theater when a government supporter talked on the religious question. Heretofore these debates have been drawing great crowds, government officials and leading Catholics presenting their respective arguments, and the government broadcasting the speeches of both sides. It is understood that the decision of the Catholic leaders not to debate tonight was taken because of an belief that the debates might lead to clashes. Government representatives spoke, nevertheless, the "debate" becoming merely a presentation of the government's side.

General speculation is centering on how long the economic boycott designed by the League for the Defense of Religious Freedom, can continue, and how serious it can become. From many sections of the republic, reports have come in that Catholics are making only the most necessary purchases, in the hope of compelling the government to revise the religious regulations. Many business houses, whose business already was depressed before the religious situation developed, say that they are beginning to feel the reduction or cessation of purchases.

CHURCH RETURNED

Gen. Aanaya, military commandant in Puebla, reports that Father Juan Marin, a Catholic priest in charge of the Church of Santa Ines, notified the authorities of his readiness to adhere to the government's religious regulations and register with the municipal authorities. Thereupon it was ordered that his church be returned to him.

Puebla dispatches say that unknown persons have robbed the Church of San Francisco, one of the richest churches in the State of Puebla. The thieves took gold and silver ornaments, the church vessels, candlesticks and other valuable articles, said to be worth many thousands of pesos.

DOZEN PERSONS KILLED

About a dozen persons have been killed in recent clashes in various parts of the republic growing out of the religious situation, according to reports received by the Mexican episcopate.

The episcopate's information is that five Catholic civilians and several soldiers were killed at Guadalajara Tuesday in a battle in front of a church which Federal troops were occupying; that two persons were killed and another was wounded outside the church of Jesus at Guadalajara in a clash between Catholics and police. At Tlajomulco, a small town near Guadalajara, there was a similar clash in which several persons were killed, but no details are given. In another village, Cuvula, it is reported that a crowd killed the district judge, who was attempting to make an inventory of the treasures of the parish church.

CHURCH PERSECUTION IN MEXICO DENIED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6. (AP)—An opinion that advantage has been taken of the sensational side of the religious situation in Mexico, and that only one aspect of the problem has been presented was expressed here tonight by Aaron Saenz, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Mexico, in connection with answers to written questions submitted to him by newspaper men.

"There is no persecution on the part of the government," the statement read, "but the attitude of a subversive character that the different religious elements have been assuming in Mexico has compelled the government to enforce what the provisions of the Mexican law establish on this question, starting with the fundamental principle of absolute separation between the church and the state.

"The government of President Calles has been entirely and absolutely devoted to an intense reorganization, facing the solution of important national problems.

LAWS NOT RECOGNIZED

"In the midst of these circumstances the high dignitaries of the Catholic Church have publicly refused to recognize the present constitution and have publicly urged the people to disobey it. This unexpected attitude on the part of the Catholic Church has compelled the government to act in an energetic manner in order to uphold the principle of authority and to enforce the constitution of the country.

"The closing of Catholic churches has not been ordered by the government, but by the church itself. Therefore, if religious services have been suspended, it is owing exclusively to the attitude of the church. A very evident proof that the government does not persecute religion, is the fact that there are other religions in Mexico which have met with no conflict or difficulty because the followers of other religions are complying with the laws of Mexico while the Catholics pretend to direct their activities toward the establishing of a political state of affairs to oppose the laws of the country."

QUESTIONS SUBMITTED

Several of the questions submitted to Senor Saens, and the written answers to them follow:

"When do you believe the Catholic Church will accept the government's decrees?"

"I do not know when the Catholic Church will accept the government's regulations, but I can assure you that as soon as the laws of Mexico, which as far as religion is concerned, were enacted in 1857 to 1859 and which were known as the Law of Reform are obeyed and complied with, there shall be no further remaining conflict. The government wishes only respect for the laws, with no interest whatsoever for any particular creed or religious principle.

"The government respects all religious creeds and does not interfere with any, allowing all to be practiced in so far as they comply with existing laws."

"Does confiscation of church property mean that the government will dispose of it in some other way?"

"In Mexico, there has been no confiscation of any church property, because such property does not exist. Ever since 1857, all of the churches have been maintained as the property of the state, the government allowing the various religions the use of these churches for the exclusive practice of their creeds."

"It has been reported that the church position has been inspired by the Russian soviet government. Do you believe this to be the case?"

"I do not even consider it necessary to answer this question, because it is so absurd that no one can possibly compare or connect the affairs of Mexico with the soviet government of Russia."

Senor Saens arrived in San Francisco early today, accompanied by S. Manuel Reachi, Mexican Consul, and two secretaries. He said that his visit is of a strictly private nature and for the exclusive purpose of taking a rest.

DEMAND RIGHTS GUARANTEED THEM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Catholic bishops and priests in Mexico are demanding the rights guaranteed to Mexicans under the National Constitution of that country, Father John J. Burke, secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said in a statement today.

Referring to reports that the bishops had appealed to President Calles for restoration of their citizenship, Father Burke said the reason was apparent, adding:

"What are the civic rights denied to Mexican bishops and priests? They are denied the liberty of speech, press, of assembly and petition, equality before the law and trial by jury, the right to prosperity either as individuals or as corporations, the right to vote and hold office. They are denied the right to exercise their profession, excepting under sufferance and by executive clemency of not only Federal officers, but of every village authority.

"In the enjoyment of what little law leaves to them, they are harassed in countless ways.

TYRANNICAL PROVISIONS

"To refer only to the decrees published during July by Calles, the native-born Mexican priests are subjected to the following tyrannical provisions:

"'The civil authority usurps the right to determine the qualifications right to determine of one entering the ministry.

"'Requires a priest teaching in an incorporated public school to teach only laical ethics, etc.

"'Makes it a criminal offense for a priest to found a primary school without authority from the civil authorities.

"'Requires that a private school be subject to the vigilance of the civil authorities in all matters of curriculum, textbooks, teaching personnel, etc.

"'Makes it a criminal offense for priests to live in community.

"'Establishes a censorship over the spoken word of the priest, whether uttered in public or private.

"'Abridge for the priest the right of assembly.

"'Nenies credit for studies made by the priest in a seminary.

"'Denies the freedom of the press.

"'Subjects all acts of public worship to a censorship exercised by the civil authority.

"'Prescribes the kind of clothes which priests may wear.

"'The civil authority usurps the right to commission the rectors in charge of parish churches.

"'By confiscating all buildings used as churches, schools, benevolent institutions, parishes, rectories, etc. and denying the right to acquire others, reduces the exercise of the religious ministry to absolute dependence upon the clemency of the Federal and village officials, and,

"'Subjects the minister to the tyranny of every village authority in Mexico.'" to get a snap of the President were requested by secret service men to refrain from attempting it. They complied with the request.

GATHERS BERRIES

While the President was fishing, Mrs Coolidge, accompanied by James Haley of the secret service, went to Herbert Moore's pasture near Plymouth and gathered a quart of blueberries which were used for pie. She wore a light-checkered dress and walked through the fields with an easy swinging stride, obviously pleased with the outing.

A group of small children from Detroit and Boston pushed past the line of tourists at the Cilley store this morning and Mrs. Coolidge's attention was attracted when Angus McCauliey, deputy sheriff, called them back. She talked with the children and showed off Prudence Prim, her white collie. Mr. Coolidge let it be known today he will remain in Plymouth until Monday. He will go directly back to the White Pine camp in the Adirondacks. He is anxious to attend services Sunday afternoon in the little Plymouth church, directly across the road from his boyhood home.

MINISTERS SIFT MEXICAN STRIFE

American Protestants and Priests Hold Parley

Investigators Seeking Light on Calles's Stand

Episcopate Questioned on Significance of Law

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6. (Exclusive) Mexico's religious issue, which threatens serious trouble as a result of the break between the Catholic authorities and President Calles's government, was discussed for two hours last night in a "frank, open and unbiased" manner between a delegation of Mexican priests, headed by Bishop Pascual Diaz, secretary of the Mexican Episcopate, and thirty-two American men and women investigators who are here with the approval and help of the government to gain "first-hand knowledge of the political, industrial, educational and religious conditions."

The party, headed by Dr. Alva W. Taylor, national executive of the Social Services Commission, Church of Disciples of Indianapolis, Ind., has been here the past eight days during which time the members have interviewed Cabinet Ministers, government officials, prominent Mexican and foreign business men.

They plan upon their return to the United States to disseminate such information as is gained here in universities, newspapers, pulpits, public forums and lecture halls. The party is being welcomed by the Mexican government which has detailed a number of officials to aid the members in gathering the desired information. Seven of the group are Protestant ministers of various denominations who were granted special permission by President Calles to enter Mexico. There are no Catholics in the party.

TWELVE QUESTIONS

Twelve questions were presented to Bishop Diaz by Dr. Taylor. To the first question, "In what respect do antireligious clauses in the constitution make the existence of the church impossible?" was made the reply in substance that the constitution attacks the church's divine origin, its objective, its priests and its property as well as all those means which the church enjoys in all civilized countries to sustain its existence. The constitution explicitly disowns any recourse to the courts on the part of the church and authorizes Federal authorities to interfere in matters of cult and discipline. This was followed by a lengthy explanation of the various paragraphs of Article 130 to which the church objects.

The second question reads:

"From the letter of the Archbishop (Mora Y Del Rio of Mexico,) we understand that certain acts ordered by God are made criminal by law. What are these acts?"

Bishop Diaz replied that compliance with our religious oaths made obligatory by the laws of God; public worship approved by God and ordered by Him, and religious teachings, that duty of parents to educate their children in the truth of Catholic dogma and Christian morality have all been penalized as crimes."

The third question dealt with the status of present political leaders in the Catholic church, asking if they had been excommunicated.

AUTOMATICALLY OUSTED

The episcopate, the answer says, has not applied any special excommunication, but certain persons who have violated the canon law are excommunicated automatically.

The fourth question asks if Catholic children are forbidden to attend public schools; its answer is that ecclesiastical law forbids attendance at any school where moral or religious perversion is known to exist.

The fifth question relates to certain police regulations posted in churches; the sixth, how many church schools are closed and how many children thus are deprived of education. About fifty schools, averaging 150 pupils each, it is answered, with the addition that if all the schools are closed as threatened, 2,500,000 children will be affected. Answering the seventh question, it is declared virtually all ecclesiastical property has been confiscated.

The eighth question asks what Catholic citizens can do, legally, to bring about a change in the modifications. The answer is, that President Calles might be convinced he has exceeded the powers of his office, and that the constitution may be amended by the methods the constitution provides. The ninth asks how many priests and nuns were deported; it is answered that 300 priests have been deported and thirty nuns, though 500 have virtually been forced to leave the country.

"How many priests, nuns and laymen have been imprisoned?" is asked in the tenth; the answer given is, two bishops (of Hueuetla and of Tacambaro) two or three priests, no nuns, and for a brief time many laymen though most have been freed on ball.

The eleventh asks why the church does not desire priests to register; the answer is that registering makes them responsible to the civil authorities in regard to religious discipline, which cannot be subordinated to laic power.

The twelfth asks how it is possible for the church to function under such conditions; the answer given is that it is not possible under the present constitution.

In addition to the written questions and answers, each point was discussed orally between Bishop Diaz and the investigators, leaving few phases of the conflict untouched.

Call for Aid by Vessel Heard at Naval Station

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Naval Communications Bureau tonight reported the receipt of an SOS call from the steamer Antonio, somewhere off Bermuda.

All broadcasting stations were ordered shut down until definite location of the distressed vessel could be established.

The Antonio, a British vessel of 3168 net tons, sailed from Hampton Roads August 3, for St. Vincent, Cape Verde.

The gale of hurricane proportions was sweeping Bermuda today, interfering with shipping.

FIRE DESTROYS FACTORY

OAKLAND, August 6. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin virtually destroyed the plant of the Sulmock Furniture Company here last night. The plant occupied an entire block. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

BRUSH FLAMES TRAP FIVE

Last Seen Between Main Blaze and Back Fire; Ranches and Club Lodges Periled

LIVERMORE, Aug. 6. (AP)—Five men are thought to have been trapped by a brush fire that is raging uncontrolled fifteen miles southeast of here. When last seen the men were between the main blaze and a back fire started in an effort to check it. The fire broke out last night in dry grazing land. It already has burned 12,000 acres and is menacing hunting lodges of the Pines Club and several ranches in the eastern section of Alameda county.

The blaze is being fought by 100 men. It is described as the worst in the county in twenty years.

SIX MILES OF TIMBER BURNED

REDDING, Aug. 6. (AP)—An area six miles long and a mile wide has been burned over by a fire that was nearly under control tonight four miles west of Weed. The principal damage was the destruction of two barns and some fencing. Three hundred men are fighting the blaze.

FOREST RESERVE FIRED BY INCENDIARY

SAN FRANCISCO, August 6. (AP)—The torch of the incendiary has set the Klamath National Forest aflame in nineteen places, the headquarters of the United States Forest Service reported here today, and hundreds of fighters have been called out to keep these fires in check.

Other fires were burning in the Shasta, California, Tahoe and Stanislaus national fertsts, and two great conflagrations were reported outside the national forest areas. One of these outside fires swept the settlement of Priest, near the Hetch Hetchy Valley, yesterday, but was reported under control today.

The Klamath fires are at Camp and Ulatt Horn Creeks and along the Deer Creek ridge, which is in the Yreka section. They are expected to combine into two great fires, and the Forest Service has ordered out an airplane from San Francisco and another from Eugene, Or., for patrol work.

In the Shasta forest a fire near Deetz was reported under control by the Forest Service, after sweeping over 6000 acres. There were 350 men still holding the line there. This fire has destroyed ranch property valued in excess of $10,000. There is a new fire on Doney Creek, outside the forest area.

In the Tahoe forest the Sagehorn Creek fire has been controlled after sweeping 2500 acres, and the fire between Goodyear and Downieville in that forest was also under control.

A fire north of Upper Lake in the California forest was still out of control today after burning for two days. In the Stanislaus forest the Bower Cave fire was controlled after burning over 3000 acres.

District Forester Show and Assistant District Forester Deering, in charge of the Forest Service headquartres here, left for the California forest today to direct fire-fighting activities there.

The incendiarism in the Klamath, is said by the Forest Service to be due to the practice of white and Indian settlers to burn off brush land to aid grazing. These incendiaries usually select the time of year when the fires will be most widespread and destructive.

SUN OBSCURED BY SMOKE OF FIRES

THERMOPOLIS (Wyo.) Aug. 6. (AP) Smoke from the forest fires in Montana and Idaho has swept over Central Wyoming to such a degree that the sun was practically obscured here today.

TUOLUMNE FIRE PUT UNDER CONTROL

MODESTO, Aug. 6. (AP) — After wiping out the old mining town of Priest at the summit of Priest Hill, leaving nearly 100 persons homeless, in addition to doing damage estimated at $10,000 to Hetch Hetchy property, the stubborn brush fire, which has razed hundreds of acres of land in Tuolumne county, was brought under control today. Unless the wind shifts the blaze was expected to be extinguished by tonight. The property loss at Priest, which includes the burning of a fifty-room hotel, is estimated in excess of $30,000.

The head works and Penstock of Priest reservoir, which supplies water for Moccasin Creek powerhouse, a part of San Francisco's power system, and several Hetch Hetchy buildings nearby were burned, according to reports received here by Pacific Gas and Electric Company officials.

Eighteen houses and a garage were destroyed yesterday at Priest as well as the famous old hostelry.

For a time Big Oak Flat was threatened. Fanned by a brisk wind and burning on a six-mile front, the flames ate their way to the back yards of Big Oak Flats residences.

SPREAD OF FIRE IN TRUCKEE HALTED

RENO (Nev.) Aug. 6. (AP) — The eastward sweep of the fire north of Truckee was halted last night by the force of 200 men from Hobard Mills under the forest rangers, but the flames broke through the barrier and this morning were within 500 yards of the southern shore of Independence Lake. A twenty-acre experiment plot of the Forest Service, representing the labor of fifteen years, was destroyed.

RESIDENTS IN FLIGHT BEFORE FIRE

TACOMA (Wash.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Hopes of saving the town of Ashford, Mt. Rainier National Park terminal of the Tacoma Eastern Railway, virtually abandoned by residents who loaded all possible belongings into freight cars which moved them to National, hung today upon the railway's tank cars and fire-fighting equipment which were standing by, just outside the town.

FORESTS IN NORTH CLOSED

PORTLAND, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Almost 2,500,000 acres of national forest land in Oregon and Washington have been closed this summer as an emergency forest fire measure, according to a forest service statement just issued. The statement gives as reasons for these closures—"the extremely dry conditions starting early in the season, the large number of lightning fires, and the need for preventing man-caused forest fires."

Only areas of specially high fire hazard have been closed, which is relatively only a small portion of the total national forest area of 23,000,000 acres in the two States. In Oregon, 38,000 acres have been closed to smoking, 2880 acres to camping, and 149,800 acres to all forms of use except under special permit. The total area closed in Oregon is 190,680.

Closures in Washington are; to smoking, 88,155 acres; to smoking and camping, 6960 acres; to all use except under special permit, 2,196,732 acres; total, 2,246,847 acres. Total for Oregon and Washington is 2,437,527.

The largest single closed area is the Chelan national forest in Washington. The entire forest, 1,914,672 acres, is closed, with the exception of certain designated camp sites. Other national forests in Washington having closed areas are: Snoqualmie, Olympic, Columbia, Colville, Rainier, Wenatchee, and Mount Baker. In Oregon, closing orders have been issued for parts of the Cascade, Santiam, Mount Hood, Deschutes, Wallowa, and Umatilla national forests.

In closing these national forest areas to public use the forest service acts under authority of trespass regulations of the United States Department of Agriculture and violations are prosecuted accordingly, it is said. Closing orders remain in effect until the end of the fire season. The forest service statement urges that persons planning to visit any of the national forests listed get in touch with the local supervisor or ranger to find out the exact location of the closed areas.

PUDDINGSTONE DAM CAMP THREATENED

SAN DIMAS, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—A brush fire which for a time threatened to destroy the construction camp at the county's Puddingstone Dam project was reported today by Deputy Warden Carter who was in charge of watchers stationed at the scene, following a two-hour battle late yesterday.

The fire, which spread over thirty acres of underbrush in the foothills one-quarter of a mile south of the dam, was spotted by the San Jose lookout who immediately reported it to Mr. Carter A crew of fifteen men was immediately dispatched to the scene and soon had the flames under control.

MONTANA AND IDAHO FIRES CHECKED

MISSOULA (Mont.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Although several fires spread through the forests of Montana and Idaho during the night, and others combined to cause more dangerous conflagrations, reports to forestry headquarters here today indicated that the lines were being held on all sectors.

The two largest fires on the Flathead Forest, now burning over 50,000 acres, were said to be causing the most concern, and crews were being concentrated in an effort to hold the control trenches. Two other fires in the Flathead region were reported spreading, while six smaller blazes had been checked.

During the day fighters on the Kaniksu Reserve succeeded in getting control of the dangerous Quartz Creek conflagration. Seventy-five thousand acres are burning on this forest.

Flames crossed the divide from the Pend Oreille into the Kootenai reserve last night, and are reported spreading, although a desperate fight to hold them within control lines is being waged.

Wind drove the Collins Creek fires in the Clearwater Forest into Green Timber, extending the area now burning to 10,000 acres.

FIVE MINE EMPLOYEES ENTOMBED

Rescuers Work Without Halt to Free Victims of Slide in Kentucky Shaft

PADUCAH (Ky.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Rescue crews worked without let-up tonight to release five miners entombed in the Hudson Zinc and Spar Company's mine near Salem, Ky., thirty-five miles from here. The miners were trapped twenty-four hours ago when a great mass of earth slipped through an old cut above an abandoned working. The men were imprisoned on the 150-foot level and seventy-five feet from the mouth of the mine.

Belief among miners here tonight was that the rescuers probably would be able to reach the entombed men by tomorrow morning. No indication has come from the interior of the mine that gives hope that the men still are alive.

Rescue crews are handicapped by water which flooded the mine shaft immediately after the earth slide.

The entombed men are Roy James, 32 years of age; George Padillo, 35, B. B. Wilson, 25; Randolph Cobb, 22; Harry Watson, 24. All but Watson are married.

Two other miners, Alton Grisson and Dewey Wiggins, were in the mine at the time of the slide, but escaped.

JAIL-BREAK PLOT FOILED BY GUARDS

Chicago Prisoners Give Up Improvised Weapons as New Attempt Fails

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP) — Another prison-break attempt was believed averted at the Cook County Jail tonight, when a corps of guards, acting on a tip, descended on Tier No. 3 and seized dozens of improvised weapons.

A double guard had been posted prior to the raid, to prevent the prisoners from disposing of the implements, but the weapons were tossed in a shower at the raiders' feet and the ownership of none was discovered.

Spoons whetted to razor edges, and a number of saws comprised the assortment which greeted the arrival of the guards.

part of the State in the last national election.

Addressing the convention after his nomination Stewart declared the Republican party should be the medium through which the Midwest should seek desired legislation and predicted that a united effort through that party for economic readjustment would meet with success. If elected, he pledged he will support the principles of true Republicanism. He termed himself "a very humble successor" to Senator Cummins, "the greatest man Iowa ever has given to the nation."

Before the convention set out to choose the party's nominee, the thousand delegates paid a touching tribute to the memory of the venerable Cummins, who died a week ago today.

A resolution praising his character and describing him as an outstanding champion of public rights whose life was a refutation of the idea that the youth of this generation did not face equal opportunity to reach great heights that prevailed years ago was read by James B. Weaver, Des Moines. The audience then stood in silence for the sounding of taps. The band played "Nearer, My God to Thee."

DEMOCRATS NOT ACTIVE

The Democratic party of Iowa will not nominate a candidate for the unexpired term of Senator Cummins, the State Central Committee announced tonight. Unless an independent files, Mr. Stewart will have to opposition.

The State Central Committee decided unanimously not to make a nomination for he short term, but to concentrate o nthe candidacy of Claude R. Porter of Des Moines, full-term nominee of the party, who is to oppose Col. Brookhart.

COLORADO REPUBLICAN NOMINEES CHOSEN

DENVER, Aug. 6. (AP)—United States Senator Rice W. Means and Charles W. Waterman, weredesignated ner e today by the Republican State Assembly as candidates for the Senate in the September primary election. Waterman received 788 votes of the Assembly's total of 1042, and Means the remainder. One hundred and ten votes are necessary for designation as a party candidate.

Oliver H. Shoup of Colorado Springs, former Governor, received 741 1-2 votes as candidate in the gubernatorial primary and will contest for nomination with John F. Vivian, Federal prohibition administrator for Colorado, New Mexico and Utah, and Carl G. Milliken, Secretary of State, who received 190 1-2 and 100 votes, respectively.

Colorado Democrats meet here next week in their nominating assembly, with former Gov. William E. Sweet, seeking designation as the party's candidate for the United States Senate.

Waterman is regarded as the regular party candidate and has been close to the Coolidge administration. He served as Coolidge's preconvention manager in Colorado two years ago and has been active in administration affairs as counsel of the President's Oil Conservation Board. He has been defeated twice in Republican primaries as a candidate for the Senatorial nomination.

'Biggest Elk's' Widow Follows Him to Grave

WAYCROSS (Ga.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Forty-eight hours after the death of her husband W. T. Brinson, who weighed 600 pounds and who had the reputation of being "the biggest Elk in the world," Mrs. Lucia M. Brinson, his widow, died here today.

She had been unconscious since the time of her husband's death. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow.

CRAZED SON SLAYS MOTHER

Maniacal Attack Leaves Young Engineer Idiot; Admits Torturing His Parents

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Richard C. Bearse, a 30-year-old mechanical engineer, slew his mother by torture early today during a maniacal attack that apparently left him an idiot. He was found sitting beside the mutilated body of his parent with whom he had lived alone for fourteen years since she was divorced from the Treasurer of Hampden county.

The police have been unable to learn any reason for the tortures which brought death from shock, but the young man muttered rambling phrases about taking out his mothers's eyes because they did not look right and of rending her body to purify her soul.

CALLS ON GIRL

Bearse, who is a graduate of Northwestern University and had been a star basketball player in high school, had not previously shown signs of mental lapse. He called on a young woman last evening, returning home after midnight. Whether he became enraged at his mother over a personal affair or was mentally unbalanced through worry over his parent's health has not been learned.

The police have not yet found the implement with which the son tortured his mother.

A plea of not guilty to a charge of murder was entered for him in court today. Alienists will report on his condition.

A neighbor, hearing screams from the Bearse house, called the police at 6:30 this morning. The police investigated, found the house dark and silent, and returned. An hour later the neighbor reported again that she heard screams. The police hastened back to the house and burst in. Bearse sat on the kitchen floor beside the body of his mother.

WANTED TO RELIEVE HER

"She died twice in the night and I revived her once," he said. "I arrived at my mother's house at about 11:30 or 12 o'clock last night after spending the evening with my friend. Mother was not feeling well when I arrived, so I got her a drink of water. She said her lips were burning. I got her some cough drops and then I threw water over her. She had been sick for a long time and I wanted to relieve the pain.

"Her eyes looked bad so I took them out," he said. "To wash away her sins," was the reason he gave for his fearful mutiliation.

Mrs. Bearse was 55 years of age. She married Fred S. Bearse in 1891 and her son was born in 1899. In 1812 she obtained a divorce. Her husband continued to contribute to her support.

CLOUD OF WAR OVER BULGARIA

it always has feared attacks from this quarter in case of war on another front.

The greatest element of danger, however, is in the temper of the Jugo-Slav people who have been rattling the sword and want to use it. The sentiment being voiced with increased intensity in Jugo-Slavia is that there is no used in referring the country's troubles to the League of Nations when one has a perfectly good army to settle trouble on one's own account.

AUTO CRASH KILLS CHILD

BANK THIEF ESCAPES IN EVERGLADES

Convicted Robber Flees While Leading Officers to Mythical Florida Cache

ORLANDO (Fla.) Aug. 6. (AP)—[illegible] Tracy, convicted bank robber and member of the famous Ashley gang, escaped late today at St. Cloud from officers who accompanied him into the Everglades where Tracy promised to unearth a cache of $110,000 in stolen Liberty bonds.

Posses scoured the countryside last night while officers from adjoining counties were rushed to aid in the search.

The Orlando Sentinel was advised that the bonds to which Tracy led the officers were of a foreign issue and worthless.

Reports to the Sheriff's office here said the party was returning from the Everglades and had stopped at St. Cloud when Tracy asked to be allowed to go inside the home of a relative. A guard accompanied him, but Tracy left the living-room, went to the bath and escaped before the guard could follow him.

Tracy was serving a ninety-nine-year sentence for the murder of a negro taxicab driver. Tracy's familiarity with the surrounding countryside will facilitate his remaining in hinding for days, officers believe.

Omer K. Benedict, former prince and more recently postmaster at Tulsa, was the Republican nominee for Governor on the face of a lead of more than 4000 over W. J. Cline, State Senator from Enid, with 40 precincts out of the 3180 in the State yet to be heard from.

Henry S. Johnson of Perry, president pro tem of the State Senate, seemed certain of nomination as the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. His lead over W. M. Darnell, Texas county farmer, had grown to 16,000 when all but 287 precincts had been reported.

KANSAS RETURNS RENDER RACES CLOSER

TOPEKA (Kan.) Aug. 6. (AP)—The few votes added today to the totals tions of Tuesday's primary in Kansas served only to draw closer the opponents in undecided races. Tonight this evening showed ex-Gov. Davis seeking the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination, leading Donald Muir of Anthony by barely 500 votes, as down during the day from a majority of more than 1000 on overnight totals.

The figures tonight on the Democratic Gubernatorial race from 2500 of the State's 2641 precincts gave Davis 29,384 and Muir 28,876.

FRANCE DELAYS DEBT PACT TALK

Debaters to Meet Monday Instead of Today

Hostility to Poincare's Plan Given as Cause

Parliament Will Insist on Safeguard Clauses

PARIS, Aug. 6. (AP)—Hostility to Premier Poincare's proposed move to ask for ratification of the debt agreements with the United States and Great Britain, expressed in the parliamentary lobbies today, has caused the government to postpone discussion of the pacts in a ministerial council tomorrow as was planned. Instead, the Ministers will meet Monday.

M. Berenger, Ambassador to the United States, who negotiated the war debts agreement, has delayed his departure for the United States, set for tomorrow, until the situation is straightened out by ratification. He said today he expects ratification before the close of the present session.

M. Poincare's original intention, it is said, was to get the pacts through this morning, was to get the foreign affairs and senate finance and foreign affairs committees to name "rapporteurs" to bring in recommendations for ratification of both agreements as soon as the Senate and Chamber, sitting at Versailles Tuesday as a national assembly, has made the Premier's sinking fund bill an organic law of the land.

FIRST CHANGES PLAN

However, the opposition of the Premier's so-called Republican Union bloc—remnants of the old Left bloc—which is represented in the Cabinet by Minister of Pensions Hirtz, caused the Premier to change his mind.

M. Poincare, even with his presidency on Parliament and public opinion, should venture to bring up ratification of the debt agreements as a unit, it is conceded on all sides that they can be adopted only with reservations. It is pointed out that parliament will insist on the adoption of safeguard and transfer clauses such as the Washington agreements probably will take the form of complementary letters attached to the original Berenger-Mellon pact.

Some parliamentary circles today said it was said that the best the Premier can hope for now is to get the Chamber and Senate committees to report out the debt accords favorably, then adjourn Parliament and call for actual ratification in the autumn.

APPEAL PLANNED

In any case, the "Republican Union" group, comprised of the members of a number of parties of the center, have let it be known that they intend to press for a resolution designed to make an appeal to the American people for insertion of a safeguard clause in the Washington agreement if the government brings up the debt question.

The resolution would reaffirm France's willingness to pay her debts, but would embody reservations to prevent the payments with France's capacity to pay. In this connection the Journal des Debats says it would be best, as a last resort to ratify with formulating reservations which would remind the United States Senate of its own methods."

An unofficial note given out today declares:

"The government's viewpoint with regard to the debts has not varied from that expressed in the ministerial declaration, and in the Premier's address in the Chamber and Senate concerning France's financial resources, the government expects it will be brought about by the measures already taken, in which our creditors are just as interested as ourselves."

SHRINE OF OLD SOUTH IN ASHES

Fire recently destroyed the historic southern dwelling "Ravensworth," home of Gen. Robert E. Lee in Fairfax county, Virginia, fifteen miles from the capital. The mansion was built in 1785 and contained priceless Lee relics which were lost in the blaze. The ruins are shown in the picture.

CANDIDATES CLOG GEARS OF ARIZONA

State and County Clerks Overwhelmed as Belated Petitions Pour In PHOENIX, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Tomorrow is the last day in Arizona for filing nomination petitions and the Secretary of State and every county clerk are being overwhelmed with belated papers. For Senator the only Republican candidate is the incumbent, Ralph H. Cameron, opposed by Carl H. Hayden, Democrat, with Charles H. Rutherford, Democrat, announced but not yet filed.

Petitions have been filed in the gubernatorial contest on behalf of E. S. Clark and Thomas Maddock, Republicans, and E. E. Ellinwood, G. W. P. Hunt and J. J. Cox, Democrats. For the House of Representatives the Democratic voters will have primary choice of Lewis Douglas, Frank J. Duffy, A. A. Betts, Thomas Walton and H. A. Davis, while petitions are understood to be in circulation for Mrs. Allie Dickerman, postmaster of Tucson, for the Republican nomination for Congress.

Secretary of State Kerby will keep his office open till midnight for the last arrivals. It is expected that candidates for a number of the State offices will be selected by the Republican State committee after its organization in September. Especially noted is a grand scramble for Democratic nominations to the Legislature, with an attempt clearly visible to control both houses by a majority favorable to Gov. Hunt and the high-line element of the party. There are nine candidates for Democratic nomination for Sheriff in this county to oppose A. J. Moore, Republican incumbent.

WAGE SUIT COURT LOSS HURTS POOR

Small Claims Tribunal Needed for Working Folk, Commissioner Says

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6. (Exclusive) Labor Commissioner Mathewson today expressed the belief that the small-claims courts, where suits involving $50 or less are settled without cost, have disappeared in Los Angeles and Long Beach and that laboring people are suffering hardships because of inability to settle small claims for wages and other suits.

The loss of the small-claims courts has come about through the establishment of the municipal court system, Mathewson explained in a letter to Atty.-Gen. Webb, in which a ruling on the status of the courts is sought. The two cities are the only ones to take advantage of the statute passed by the Legislature providing for the municipal court system in place of the justice courts.

It has been informally ruled by the county counsel in Los Angeles county that the new municipal courts do not have the obligation of conducting small-claims cases. The only alternative is to employ a lawyer to present the case before the Superior Court, according to Mathewson.

Numbers of complaints of the situation have been received by the Labor Commissioner's office. Mathewson stated that if the law does not provide for the small-claims courts, special legislation will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature to establish them again.

Federal Cutter Limps into Port After Smash-up

BOSTON, August 6. (AP)—The United States Coast Guad Cutter 130 came into port today with a three-foot hole in her starboard side and her fore and main masts missing as a result of a collision with a barge fourteen miles off Boston Light.

Her crew of eight men had worked the emergency pumps for four hours while she fought her way back to port. Her captain, R. E. Taylor, and Boatswain's Mate Edward Boten narrowly escaped serious injury when the barge stove through the side of cutter just aft of the bunks in which they were sleeping.

INQUIRY IN RUM DEATHS POSTPONED

Dry Agents Who Shot Three to Death Following Raid to Have Private Inquest

HOMESTEAD (Fla.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Officials had not completed their preliminary investigations surrounding the shooting to death on Cape Sable Road yesterday of three homestead men by six Federal prohibition agents, and a Coroner's inquest into the circumstances was postponed late today until tomorrow.

The postponement disappointed many persons over whom Sheriff's deputies and Federal officers preserved order. Long before the hour for the inquiry crowds gathered in the yard of the City Hall here and officials were apprehensive lest some disorder occur. The public likely will be excluded from the hearing tomorrow, it was announced.

A heavy guard will be placed about the Dade County Courthouse at Miami, where the Coroner's inquest will be called. The six agents who engaged in the gun battle with the homestead trio left tonight for Miami. They were under the leadership of C. W. Standau, who led the party on the Everglades liquor raid that terminated in the shooting as the agents were en route back to Miami along the Cape Sable highway.

J. H. Lee, acting Federal prohibition director for Florida, and Harry Deatley, legal adviser, were said to be on their way to Miami tonight from Tampa to attend the inquiry.

STRANDED STEAMSHIP ABANDONED

Coast Guard Assists in Returning Crew of Norlina, Ashore Off Mendocino

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6. (AP)—The marine department of the Chamber of Commerce announced today that the steamship Norlina, ashore off Horseshoe Point, Mendocino county, has been abandoned. The crew is returning to San Francisco on the Coast Guard patrol boat Shawnee and the tug Sea Salvor.

The Coast Guard patrol boat Cahokia is assisting in returning the crew here. Reports received here said that one of the crew was receiving hospital treatment on the Cahokia.

Heavy swells were reported to be pounding the big vessel, flooding her engine-room and opening up wide seams amidships. Arrangements were made to remove the cargo of 400 tons of miscellaneous freight.

A preliminary investigation by Capt. W. R. Kennedy of Lloyds has absolved Capt. John Soderlum from blame for the wreck. The investigation will be continued, however.

The Norlina is almost alongshore on a bed of jagged rocks and with but little floating room even if she were salvaged.

Guatemalan ex-President's Son Arrested

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Charged with selling drugs, Humberto Barrios, 28 years of age, writer and reputed to be a son of a former President of Guatemala, was held in $5000 bail today for a hearing Monday.

Although detectives said Barrios's father was President of Guatemala for eight years and was assassinated about twenty years ago, members of the Guatemian Consulate staff here said his mother is not the President's widow, whom they say they know. They said that while the Guatemalan government had assisted him and his mother financially, it was for humanitarian reasons.

MANUFACTURERS PAY FEDERAL COURT FINES

CLEVELAND, August 6. (AP)—A Federal Court fight of almost two and a half years duration against forty-eight members of the American Malleable Castings Association and forty-seven large malleable iron casting companies was terminated today when eighty seven defendants appeared before Federal Judge Westenhaver, entered pleas of nolo contendere and were fined $2500 each.

OLD "WILL" OF HOPKINS FILED

Ancient Document Offered in San Francisco Court

Forms New Factor in Fight on $300,000,000 Estate

Purports to be in Writing of Early Californian

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—A document, yellow with age and written in terms couched in the diction and apparently in the hand of an ignorant day laborer of by-gone years, which purports to be a fifty-two-year-old holographic will of the late Mark A. Hopkins, early Californian, was filed today in the Superior Court here. News of the discovery of the supposed will was published in the San Francisco Chronicle and the Los Angeles Times several days ago.

Mark Hopkins died in 1878, leaving an estate then valued at more than $20,000,000, which is said to have increased in the hands of its beneficiaries and their heirs until its present value is estimated at approximately $300,000,000.

With the asserted will, naming 137 persons scattered throughout fifteen States as heirs-at-law, was filed a petition for probate signed by Percy B. McCandless, a San Jose lathing contractor. McCandless set forth in his petition that he is a grandson of the late Martin Hopkins, one of the new heirs-at-law named in the purported will, whom McCandless described as a brother of Mark Hopkins not participating in the distribution of his estate.

The document presented by McCandless is declared to have been written in San Francisco by Hopkins on Christmas Day, 1874, four years prior to his death, and names as legatees fourteen persons mainly relatives then living in North Carolina. More than 100 of the heirs-at-law named in the petition filed by McCandless are descendants of these persons now resident in the Southern State.

The matter was set to come up for hearing before Judge Dunne on the 30th inst.

HISTORY OF WIDOW OF HOPKINS IS TRACED

LAWRENCE (Mass.) Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Mark Hopkins, widow of the California pioneer whose "lost will" is reported to have been found, married the late Edward P. Searles, wealthy resident of Methuen, a suburb of Lawrence. Mr. Searles inherited her fortune and at his death in 1920 the major part of his fortune went to Arthur T. Walker of New York City.

In 1881 Searles traveled to California for his health and as an interior decorator did some work for Mark Hopkins's widow. Later she had him design and supervise the building of Kellogg Terrace, her summer home in Great Barrington, Mass. Although she was twenty years his senior, they were married in Trinity Chapel, New York, November 8, 1887.

Mrs. Searles died July 21, 1891, and her will was contested by her adopted son, Timothy Hopkins. The dispute was compromised, however, and Searles received a large share in the estate. A part ownership in the Southern Pacific Railway was included and the estate was administered by the law firm of Stillman and Hubbard, New York attorneys and bankers.

State Armories as Fight Arenas Held Unlawful

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6. (Exclusive) State armories cannot be leased or rented for boxing contests or for other private purposes, Atty.-Gen. Webb ruled today in an opinion to Adj.-Gen. Mittelstaedt.

Webb holds there is nothing in the law "which could be interpreted as conferring any authority upon the Adjutant General to rent or lease such property to private individuals."

In the absence of a statute conferring authority, Webb declares that the Adjutant General, Governor, State Board of Control or any other State agency cannot rent or lease armories to private parties.

Church Workers Direct Efforts to Lure Youth

LAKE GENEVA (Wis.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Bringing the fine arts, particularly music and pageantry, more vividly into the field of religion, in order to intensify religious worship and attract the eyes of youth toward church enterprise, is the theme of a conference here of church leaders from twenty-five States.

The three-day meeting, under the auspices of the International School of Religious Education, planned to discuss methods "to checkmate the subtle movement of jazz, which seems to be invading the sanctuary, and to clean up on church drama and pageantry so that it is no longer out at the knees, with disheveled hair and worn shoe heels."

Preachers, choirmasters, organists, dramatic directors and other church workers are in attendance, with the program under the direction of Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University.

Hunan Province Capital Taken by Wu's Aide Again

CANTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Changsha, capital of Hunan Province and pawn of China's armed factions, again has changed hands. The southern troops which occupied the city on July 17, last, have been driven out and completely routed by the northern invading armies. The losses were heavy but no exact estimate is at hand.

When the Hunan troops, supported by the Canton government, took Changsha from the northerners they drove Marshal Wu Pei-Fu's commanding general back to Yochow, also in Hunan Province. Here he made new plans and awaited reinforcements with the results just reported.

AGRICULTURAL HEAD REPORTS

Hecke Shows Departmental Revenue Gain

Points Phenomenal Growth in Farm Interests

Praises Governor's Demand for Business Standard

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6. (Exclusive) Business policies injected into the State Department of Agriculture by Gov. Richardson have resulted in the last three and a half years in making the department 59.37 per cent self-supporting, according to a report presented to the Governor today by George H. Hecke, director of the department.

Prior to the advent of Gov. Richardson and the application of strict business principles, the department was self-supporting only to the extent of 40.09 per cent, says Hecke. The good showing by the department adds the report, also is due to the elimination of political influence and adoption, with Richardson's approval of constructive agricultural laws.

Hecke declares there has been increase in the cost of maintaining the Agricultural Department due to the phenomenal growth and development of the agricultural interests of California "by reason of new problems arising and because of the importance attached to the agricultural interests of the State by Gov. Richardson."

The total expenditures of the department for the three and a half years have been $3,467,401, as compared with expenditure of $1,984,402 during the previous three and a half years. Much of the increased expense, Hecke explains, has been offset by the increase in the income from self-supporting functions of the department.

For the biennium ending June 30, 1923, the expenditures for the function of the department not classed as self-supporting were $1,214,907.83, with an income of $214,158.35 for the biennium ending June 30, 1925. The expenditures for these functions were $1,118,355.29, with an income of $256,949.53. Some of the new functions resulting in increased work of the department for which special appropriations were provided by the last Legislature were citrus white fly eradication, canning-fruit standardization and plant quarantine, as well as additional work due to the administration of the Agricultural-Mineral Act. There has been material increase in the work of the department in the shipping-point inspection service and the cattle-protection service with corresponding increase in revenue.

During his administration Gov. Richardson has not permitted political influence or political purposes in any way to interfere with the administration of the State Department of Agriculture, but has insisted that all appropriations should be made strictly on the basis of the requirements of the agriculture industry, that special commodities should be supported by the producers of such commodities, rather than by tax-payers as a whole, and that the department be conducted on a strictly business basis.

Cane Field Fire Kills Thirteen in South Africa

CAPE TOWN (South Africa) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Thirteen persons perished in a remarkable cane-field fire on the Illovo sugar estate at Natal yesterday. The origin of the fire is not known, but, fanned by a twenty-mile-an-hour wind, it spread rapidly. Many workers were trapped in the fields and seriously injured.

Within a few hours five miles of blaze swept the country and the firefighters were unable to estimate its progress. Before it burned itself out 2000 acres of cane were destroyed. The fire advanced from the Illovo River and jumped the Amanzimtoti River. Five farms were demolished and three Europeans escaped the fire by lying behind a bank of wet sacks. This was the worst and most disastrous cane fire in the history of Natal.

This Pig Blind So His Market Comes to Him

DETROIT, Aug. 6. (AP)—Blind pigs that serve meals and lunches have become so numerous here, according to the Detroit branch of the National Restaurant Association, that the police department has been asked to do something about it.

At the present time, according to the findings of a committee appointed by the association, there are 17,000 blind pigs in Detroit.

The committee charges that 99 per cent of the blind pigs are either selling or giving away food to their customers and that they are feeding from five to six times as many as the 2000 restaurants and hotels of the city.

Machinist Held by Grand Jury in Girl's Death

STOCKTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—The San Joaquin county grand jury late today returned an indictment charging George Pound, 23 years of age, machinist, with murder in connection with the death of Nina Breakey, 15.

DIVIDEND PROMISED TO RIVERBANK DEPOSITOR

MODESTO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Charles La Bree, receiver, has announced that the First National Bank of Riverbank will pay 30 cents on the dollar to depositors who lost money when the bank failed last December. The dividend, which amounts to $20,000, will be paid half to Riverbank depositors and half to out-of-town depositors. Payments will start Monday. The First National Bank failed, it is asserted, due to the frenzied financial manipulations of C. L. Flack, chairman of the board of directors, who has been missing since December. Nothing has been heard of Flack since that time.

Slashed Throat Fails to Halt This Fisherman

SAN RAFAEL, Aug. 6. (AP)—The case of Edward Forsythe, a fisherman, remains a puzzle to attendants at the Cottage Hospital here.

Forsythe was carried in yesterday with his throat slashed from ear to ear as a result of an automobile accident. Twelve stitches were taken in the wound.

"Through?" inquired the injured man at the last stitch. Upon being assured they were, Forsythe, whom, surgeons believed more dead than alive, fought of all restraining efforts and drove away in his automobile.

JAPAN FLOOD SUBSIDES

Rice Crop Loss Reported Heavy; Many Lives Lost

TOKIO, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Far Eastern situation is improving. The latest reports from Akita say the flood in the prefecture of that name is subsiding. The casualties were relatively few. The rice-crop loss is place at 2,000,000 yen.

The Korean floods also have subsided, but have left many homeless. The number of dead is placed at from fifty to seventy-five. The damage will reach several million yen. The floods were in Kogendo Province.

Floods in the vicinity of Hankow, China, on the Kangtze River, have taken 3000 or more lives and driven 250,000 farmers from that section. The latest report from that region was yesterday, when conditions were very bad.

NATIONALIST CHINESE WILL TAX FOREIGNERS

CANTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Nationalist (Canton) government has warned all foreign firms that they are subject to industrial taxes the same as Chinese, notwithstanding so-called treaties to the contrary. Non-compliance will entail trial and punishment on conviction in government courts.

PATROLMAN KILLED IN CAFE ROBBERY

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. REVIVAL FOR GARROTE

Ancient Death Instrument to be Used for Cuban Slayer

HAVANA, Aug. 6. (AP)—The garrote, ancient instrument of death, is shortly to be called into use in Cuba for the second time in twenty years, President Machado having signed the death warrant in the case of Hernan Pena. Convicted of murdering Mayor Ascensio Villalon of Santiago de Cuba several years ago, Pena will be sent to the garrote within twenty-four hours after his official notification, which is expected to be made at midnight tonight.

KIDNAPING CHARGES FILED

WENATCHEE, (Wash.) Aug. 6. (Exclusive.)—Kidnaping charges have been filed against William King, Bernard McGaven and Willard Davis who are said to have confessed that they held up Virgil Gorman with a gun near Wenatchee and forced him to drive them a hundred miles into Okanogan county.

GIRL'S SLAYER LIKE FATHER

Witnesses Tell of Scenes in Seattle Murder

Parent of Victim Charged With Her Death

"Star Witness" Fails to Give Damaging Evidence

SEATTLE, Aug. 6. (AP)—Luke S. May, a private detective popularly supposed to be the State's star witness, testified here today at the trial of Wallace Cloyes Gaines, charged with murdering his 22-year-old daughter, Sylvia, and gave no evidence tending to incriminate the accused man. It was stipulated, however, that May will be recalled for further testimony and cross-examination was waived.

After May had completed an investigation of the case June 29 and had examined clothing of Gaines, Prosecutor Colvin announced he was convinced Gaines was the slayer. It was then reported that May had found blood stains on Gaines's clothing. No mention of such stains was made in May's testimony today.

He testified that hair found on a blood-stained rock near the scene of the crime was apparently from Miss Gaines's head and that her garments were stained with blood. His testimony was concluded a half-hour before the regular court adjournment time.

KILLER "LIKE GAINE"

Three witnesses who preceded May declared that a man they saw the night of the killing near the shore of Green Lake, where Miss Gaines's body was found physically resembled Gaines.

Bryant Brady testified that he was walking around the lake on the night of June 16, when Sylvia was killed, an that h eheard a "chopping sound" as he approached a grove of trees in which the girl's body was found.

"I saw a man on the shore of the lake, kneeling in the grass," he said, "and he was watching me—he followed me with his eyes. I walked on for a bit and then looked back. I was unable to see the man, but I could hear him moving. As I stood he ran out on the path on which I was walking and told me to keep moving—called me a vile epithet and added: 'Fast—or I'll kill you.'"

He said the man had no accent, but a well-modulated American voice. Brady testified that the man he saw was about five feet nine inches tall and slight of build.

HAD GAINES'S BUILD

He was asked whether Gaines resembled the man on the lake shore, and answered: "He was a man of approximately his height and physical build—not facially, I could not see well enough for that—but the same build."

Miss Odessa Gaskill was next summoned to the witness stand and explained that she and Dwight Kaulum passed the same spot as Brady a few minutes later. She said a man crossed the path ahead of them and went down to the lake shore and that her escort called to him: "What's the matter, kid?"

"He answered," she testified, "'Oh, it's just a drunk,' and then added in a very irritated voice to somebody else, 'shut up, Jack, or the cops'll hear us.' Then I heard him throwing rocks in the water, or that's the way it sounded—and then two groans very distinctly, and several smaller ones. In stature the defendant resembles the man I saw. Yes, Gaines and the man I saw are almost identical in build."

Kaulum substantiated Miss Gaskill's story. He testified that he observed the man's physical build and that "in stature" Gaines resembled the man.

ARRESTS IN HALL CASE IMMINENT

Five Warrants Declared Issued in Investigation of Pastor-Singer Murder

SOMERVILLE (N. Y.) Aug. 6. (AP)—The revived investigation of the Hall-Mills murder mystery continued its spectacular course today with threats or arrest and questioning of witnesses.

State Senator Simpson, functioning as a special deputy Attorney-General, and Capt. Lamb, State troops' officer active in the investigation, said warrants for five persons had been issued. Both gave names, but their lists did not agree. Justice of the Peace Sutphen, said by Senator Simpson and Capt. Lamb to have issued the warrants, would not confirm these statements.

Six witnesses were examined. Four of these were brought to the headquarters of State troopers and were questioned by Senator Simpson. Two others were brought in after Senator Simpson's departure for Jersey City. State troopers would not say whether any of the witnesses had been arrested. Senator Simpson said that the questioning revealed nothing new.

TARIFF WAR ENDED BY FRANCE AND GERMANY

NEW PROVISIONAL ACCORD OPENS WAY TO DEFINITE COMMERCIAL PACT

PARIS, Aug. 6. (AP)—The provisional commercial accord just concluded by France and Germany ends what has amounted to a sporadic tariff war between the two countries, the previous accords having been merely partial. The new one pens the way to the conclusion of a definite commercial pact.

The signature of the new accord is regarded here with special significance, it being considered an indication that Germany, which previously had hesitated to commit herself on account of the instability of the franc, now is convinced that France at last has started on the path to the rehabilitation of her money.

The accord provides for mutual customs advantages. It also continues a partial application of the agreement reached in July of last year concerning the exchange of commodities between the Sarre region and Germany.

GERMANS TEST NEW MOTOR GAS

Carbureted Hydrogen Will Run Zeppelin

Fuel Held Advantageous Due to Low Weight

American Aviation Officials Watch Developments

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Aviation officials here are following closely the experiments of German Zeppelin builders with a new gas which they plan to substitute for benzine as a fuel for their super-Zeppelin, to be constructed soon.

The new fuel, described in consular advices as carbureted hydrogen gas, is held to be superior to other liquid fuels because of increased economy and efficiency and virtual elimination of the danger of explosion.

Another advantage is that its weight is the same as that of atmosphere and therefore no loss of weight or balance of the airship results as the gas is consumed. Heretofore it has been necessary to equip lighter-than-air craft with compensating devices, such as the water-recovery apparatus on the Shenandoah and Los Angeles, to maintain the ship's weight as the fuel is consumed. In the absence of such devices it is necessary to valve out the lifting gas of the dirigible. A costly procedure.

One form of the new gas has been found by Zeppelin officials to function satisfactorily in the Mayback motors with which the super-Zeppelin is to be equipped. Only alteration of the carburetor is needed to adjust the motors to the new fuel.

Produced after three years of experiment by a Zeppelin physicist, Dr. Lempertz, the gas, entirely successful, is expected to change materially the construction of lighter-than-air craft because the reduced weight of the fuel will produce a new condition of weight bearing. The gas is 700 times lighter than benzine, and one cubic meter of it develops 25 to 30 per cent more efficiency than a kilogram of benzine.

Zeppelin officials declare the new gas will reduce the strain on the framework of a ship aloft and should increase the cruising radius. The fuel is impractical for heavier-than-air craft because planes could not carry the necessary amount of gas in several large containers.

Application has been filed for a patent on the gas in this country.

The super-Zeppelin, to be known as the LZ-127, will be similar in size to the Los Angeles, but slimmer. It will carry five Mayback motors of 42 horse-power each, and will be completed late in 1927.

COPYRIGHT MUSIC FEES HELD LEGAL

Antitrust Law Delver Declares, However, Radio Use Not Considered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Investigation of the system employed by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers in collecting license fees in copyrighted music has revealed no violation of the anti-trust law, the Department of Justice announced today.

William J. Donovan, assistant to the Attorney-General, who directed the investigation, announced, however, that no decision has been reached in reference to the licensing of radio broadcasting stations by the society.

In a letter to Gene Buck, president of the society, he said the department has decided "that there is no reason to proceed against the society on account of its requiring licenses for the public performance of copyrighted music from the proprietors of motion-picture houses, restaurants, hotels, dance halls and similar places, where copyrighted music is publicly performed for profit."

In regard to licensing of radio broadcasting stations, Mr. Donovan said, "It is deemed advisable to await the clarification of the law regarding radio and possible action by the legislative branch before taking a position in that feature of the case."

FARM BODY INDORSES ROAD WORK

Agriculture Organizations Want Highway System Fixed by Legislation

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6. (AP)—The heads of three State agricultural organizations—the California Farm Bureau Federation, the California State Grange and the California Farmers Union—meeting here today, adopted a stand toward State highway construction and maintenance, in which it was held the highway system must be subjected to definite and fixed limitations by legal enactment, and that money expended in the future must be definitely allocated to the highway system as it exists today, with consideration being given to both primary and secondary systems and the territory served by each.

A proposal to take an appropriation of $5,000,000 a year from the State Treasury for the next twelve years for highway purposes, which is favored by the Automobile Club of Southern California, was opposed unless the money is definitely known to exist before the appropriation is made.

ENGLISH PROGRAM OF EMIGRATION FAILURE

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)— England's present emigration program has failed, at least, in so far as Canada is concerned. During 1925 the total of empire migration was 62,886, compared with 223,520 in 1913, while the increase in Britain's population for the same period was 2,481,000. According to Lieut.-Col. Amery, Colonial Secretary, lack of training for emigrants is one cause of the failure. It is pointed out that the exhaustion of savings in the old country is putting migration beyond the reach, financially, of suitable people.

ASKS JAPAN TO DEVELOP INDUSTRIES

Premier Wakatsuki Urges Trade Progress as Solution of Population Problem

TOKIO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Development of industry, and not emigration, will solve Japan's most serious population problem—an increase of approximately 750,000 a year, Premier Wakatsuki told 5000 of his political adherents in a speech recently at Sendai.

"Nature has not been very bountiful to Japanese in the matter of territory," said the Premier, "and it is necessary that we overcome our deficiencies. It can not be expected that all of the surplus population will find homes in foreign lands, though the countries with spare territory receive our emigrants with open arms.

"The solution may not be found in emigration. The most important thing, then, is for us to build up and develop industries that will give work and food to our people. This fact must hold first place in the policy of any administration."

STORM PERIL CAUSES RETURN OF DIRIGIBLE

LAKEHURST (N. J.) Aug. 6. (AP)—The dirigible Los Angeles hurried back to her hangar here ahead of schedule today on advice that there was a possibility of storms along the Atlantic coast, after completing radio compass tests with New England stations yesterday.

Soviet Chiefs Alarmed Over Revolt Threat

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Differences between soviet leaders have resulted in alarming conditions in the Russian army and navy, according to a dirpatch from Reval, broadcast by the French official wireless station at Bordeaux and picked up by the New York World.

The World quotes the dispatch as saying the soviet commissioner and residents of Moscow are alarmed over the spirit of the fighting services following the circulation of attack on the present executive committee, by Gregory Zinoviefi, head of the Communist Third Internationale.

Numerous arrests in Moscow garrisons are reported and Menjinski, the newly appointed chief of secret police, has been empowered to arrest all Communists, "however situated."

Leaders of the fleet at Cronstadt have been summoned, the dispatch adds.

Chinese Doctor Under Arrest in Operating Case

BOSTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Dr. Ensang W Cheng, Harvard medical school graduate who was born in Honolulu of wealthy Chinese parents, was arrested at his summer home in Scituate today charged with performing an illegal operation on a young undergraduate of the Sargent School for Physical Education in Cambridge. The girl is in a serious condition at a hospital.

Dr. Cheng attended the Honolulu schools and then entered the University of California. After three years he came here and completed his studies at the college and medical school. Nineteen years ago he was said to have married a white girl prominent in Berkeley society. She obtained a divorce in 1914 on grounds of deceit.

BAD CHECK SUSPECT ESCAPES FROM JAIL

STOCKTON, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Peter Anderson, 43 years of age, arrested here last week and turned over to Sheriff Joe Zwinge of Calaveras county to answer to bad check charges, has escaped from jail at San Andreas. Sheriffs of all Mother Lode and Interior California counties are conducting a search for the man.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

WAR DECLARED ON WHITE ANTS

Wooden Buildings in Pasadena Badly Damaged

Many Cases of Destruction by Insects Discovered

Jewels in City Office Are Found Partly Eaten

PASADENA, Aug. 6.—All buildings in Pasadena having wood in their construction are menaced and in some cases even threatened with collapse if the present inroads of a huge army of white ants are not stopped, according to the startling statement today of Walter Putnam, chief of the municipal building inspection department.

The information came out today when it was discovered that records of the city assessor's office stored in a vault in the City Hall have been already damaged, and totally destroyed in some cases, by the insect pests. Remaining documents were moved to places of safer keeping following the discovery.

During the last two months, many cases of serious undermining of frame-building construction have been discovered, according to Putnam. The situation, which has been growing more acute during recent years, has now reached the point where vigorous counter-action must be taken to prevent actual danger, he said.

Previous belief was to the effect that the ants confined their herbivorous appetites to fences and similar low types of construction, but in tearing several buildings recently on account of street-widening projects, actual destruction was discovered in heavy foundation timbers.

The damage was at first attributed to dry rot, but closer inspection showed that large areas in the timbers had been literally devoured by the ants. One peculiarity of the termites is that they appear to prefer hard wood. Redwood, the hardest type known, is said to be the only wood they will not attack.

The white-ant problem is new to Southern California, the building code said, but has existed for years in the Philippines and has more recently become a menace in New Orleans and other parts of the country. The best method so far discovered for checking the ravages of the termites, and one that is declared to be nearly effective, is to keep all contact wood off the ground, he said.

Though Putnam has not heard of any "ant menace" in near-by cities, he plans to communicate with other building departments to gather all information available.

Huge Acreage in Ventura County Changes Hands

VENTURA, Aug. 6.—One of the largest real estate transactions of Ventura county for the year, and one of greatest importance to the Simi Valley was consummated when E. H. Silver of Burbank purchased from H. J. Crink the latter's holdings at Santa Susana, including the townsite and the 410 acre adjacent thereto.

The new owner, who has already taken possession of his purchase, plans to develop the property intensively and build in the upper end of the valley a modern city. Mr. Silver said he considered Santa Susana as the strategic location for a trading center of considerable importance.

VAN NUYS CANNERY SWAMPED BY PEACHES

VAN NUYS, Aug. 6.—Fifteen carloads of freestone peaches have been canned during the week in the Van Nuys cannery from Exeter. The plant has just opened its first runs of the season, and next week it is stated that runs will be made on cling peaches, to the rate of about three cars a day. All are to come from San Joaquin Valley points.

There are now about 200 persons employed at the cannery, and the number will be increased next week. It is expected that packing of the Los Angeles Valley tomatoes will be started within a short time. The cannery has enough peaches coming from Tulare county to keep it running all through the month of August, it is stated.

Orchardists in the valley are very happy this year, and a big crop is expected. Arrangements are being made at the cannery to pack them until October 1. Growers all over the valley are reporting a heavy yield of luscious and of good size and quality.

NEW EL CENTRO GAS CONCERN BUYS SITE

EL CENTRO, Aug. 6.—Inland Empire Gas Company, which several months ago obtained from the State Railroad Commission a permit to manufacture and distribute domestic gas in all Imperial Valley towns, has purchased a three-acre site and is expected to start next week, according to announcement made by President Hubbard today. The plans call for a gas plant here with distributing lines extended to Brawley, Calexico and Mexicali. Considerable local concern was purchased by Imperial Valley men during a stock selling campaign conducted last April.

SAN DIEGO NAVY BASE COST HEAVY

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 6.—A report submitted to the Navy Department today by Rear Admiral Ashley Robertson, shows that the United States Navy has expended $18,182,122 in the construction of various buildings at San Diego in the establishment of the naval training station, naval air station, base hospital, district headquarters and destroyer base. New buildings which will entail an expenditure of $5,000,000, have been recommended for the fiscal year 1928.

TOSSES HER BABY INTO FIELD

Mother's Presence of Mind in Traffic Crash Saves Little Child From Harm When Heavy Truck Careens Into Car

INGLEWOOD, Aug. 6.—When Mrs. E. C. Berry of 344 Stella street, this city, saw a huge bread truck come hurtling around the corner on two wheels, turn over and come sliding across the road straight for her car, she had the presence of mind, when she saw a collision could not be avoided, to swerve to the side of the highway and drop her 3-months-old baby daughter to the soft earth of the field just as the crash came. The little one escaped unharmed.

She was not so fortunate herself, as she incurred several broken ribs and internal injuries, while another passenger, Mrs. M. L. Thilkill, of the same address, got a broken wrist and severe cuts on her face and neck from broken glass.

The accident happened at 6:30 a.m. at the corner of Arbor Vitae street and Redondo Boulevard. The truck, belonging to the Franco Bread Company, was driven by Boyd Lemmon of 2531 South Fremont street. A broken right shackle bolt, according to police report, is believed to have something to do with the truck turning turtle.

The injured women were removed to their home, together with the baby, which was picked up off the ground, just emerging from its wrappings, crowing delightedly and apparently none the worse for the experience.

Dr. Robert S. Friend, city health officer, who officiated at the child's arrival in this world a few months ago, after examination today declared that she was unharmed.

OIL SHOVES TOWN AROUND

Huntington Beachites Visualizing New Residential and Business Section to Escape Wells

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—A new town may be the result of the oil boom which has struck this city. Real estate dealers, home-owners and business men already are visualizing a new residential section for the town and if oil encroaches much more toward the center of the business district a new business district may be formed.

Practically all homes have been moved out of the area from Seventeenth to Twenty-third street where drilling restrictions were recently lifted and there is talk of removing restrictions on property still closer to the main part of town.

Members of the local realty board yesterday took steps to lay out a new town. The President, C. P. Patton appointed a zoning committee to look into the matter. The realty board members advocated the extension of Main street in a straight line from the ocean to Frankfort street. At the present time Main street curves about four blocks from the ocean. The opening of the street would open up the East Side of town where tests have been made and no oil has been found.

Headed by G. O. Berry the zoning committee will endeavor to determine sections of the town which have been drilled and where oil has not been found and recommend locations for the removal of homes from areas in the westerly section of the town now being drilled.

Berry will be assisted by T. B. Talbert, S. E. Andrews, Mrs. Mary J. Weiner and E. G. Conrad.

If the plan of the realty board is carried out, the east side of the town will become the residential and business district of the city while the present residential district stretching from Eleventh to Seventeenth streets may ultimately become an oil field as has the district from Seventeenth to Twenty-third streets.

Santa Monica Host to District Kiwanis Clubs

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 6.—Delegates from 101 Kiwanis clubs of California and Nevada are arriving to attend the district conference here Saturday, the 7th inst. The visiting Kiwanians and their wives will be taken by autos through the Bay district's showplaces, and will be feted and entertained at various affairs on the program arranged by Al Mattes, chairman of the entertainment committee. District Governor Charles Rinehart is expected to attend the conference.

From 9 to 12 o'clock in th morning a business session will be held in the Edgewater Club auditorium, followed by a luncheon for members and delegates. The conference will be continued through the afternoon, ending at 5 o'clock. A banquet in the evening at the Edgewater Club will be followed by a grand ball.

During the daytime sessions, the ladies will be entertained with bathing parties, sightseeing tours and other events in the morning, and in the afternoon will attend a luncheon and card party at the Santa Monica Athletic Club.

DOGS WIN AGAIN

Long Beach Council Takes Leash Rule from Ordinance

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Mass meetings held by Long Beach dog lovers and protests to the City Council against the stringent features of the new dog ordinance, which was to become effective the 9th inst., caused the City Council today to amend the new measure to the extent of removing the requirement that dogs on piers and public beaches must be under leash at all times. Instead of this requirement the amended ordinance provides that "Dogs on the beaches and piers must be in the immediate control of their owners or a responsible keeper."

The original ordinance was attacked on the grounds of unreasonableness in that, it was said, it provided penalties of $500 fine and months in jail for owners whose dogs were found on the beaches or piers unleashed.

RIVERSIDE LIGHT DEPARTMENT GROWS

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 6. (AP)—Increase of the carrying capacity of the distribution system of the Riverside Light Department to meet the greater demands for service, is being started this week by the department with a view to making the changes universal over the city system. A year's time may be consumed in completing the program. The change is brought about by increasing the voltage. Wires which have been carrying 2400 volts will now carry 4200. This method is being tried out by the various power companies in Southern California in increasng the carrying capacity of their lines, Supt. Cutting of the department said.

Water District Authorized to Dam Colorado

EL CENTRO, Aug. 6.—Following the receipt this week of an announcement from the War Department at Washington granting the Imperial Irrigation District the right to construct a brush weir in the Colorado just below Rockwood Gate, district officials began making arrangements to post a half-million-dollar bond required by the Imperial County Water Users' Association to insure them against damage.

The brush dam is installed each year in August or September to insure ample water for valley ranchers during the period of minimum discharge in the river. Current reports indicate a discharge of 14,000 feet at Yuma, which is double the the amount of water required in Mexican and American Imperial valleys at this time of the year.

Bulletins from the water shed indicate a further decrease in the discharge and it is believed that the weir will have to be installed before the end of August.

Early next spring, just before the annual flood, the brush mats will be displaced with dynamite and the channel reopened to carry the flood discharge.

SCHOOL DISPUTE ENDS

West Maywood Children To Attend Huntington Classes

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 6.—Children residing in West Maywood, who are pupils in the grammar schools, may attend schools in Maywood or in Huntington Park during the coming school year. This decision was reached by Supt. Stuckey of the Huntington Park grammar school district and Supt. Edgecomb of the Maywood school district yesterday afternoon after a conference. There are, perhaps, 250 pupils concerned in this decision.

The school difficulties came about soon after West Maywood voted annexation to Huntington Park. Following the election, a suit was brought to have the election annulled, asserting in the complaint, filed in Superior Court, that a description of the boundary line as published in the election call, was incorect.

A bond election was held early this year in which a bond issue of $370,000 was voted for school buildings, one to have been erected in West Maywood for the children in that territory. Since the suit was filed, no building has been erected in that territory, and the school situation has been unsettled until the superintendents reached this decision yesterday afternoon.

It is expected that the suit to annul the annexation election will be settled some time within the next few months.

HOLD-UP SUSPECTS FREED AT HANFORD

HANFORD, Aug. 6.—Yesterday evening Pete Alvarez accompanied by police officials from Selma, Fresno county, came here to look over three Spaniards City Marshall Brown was holding. The thre men who attempted to hold up Alvarez one of whom Alvarez alleges he cut up badly with a grape knife, drove toward this city, in a fast car. The Hanford suspects proved to be boxmakers from Arizona, innocent of any crime except possession of a .45 Colt's revolver which they were publicly offering to sell. The toting of a gun is permissible in Arizona. The gun was confiscated but no further action taken in the matter. Alvarez claims the men who tried to hold him up displayed a large amount of currency and they are suspected of the recent bank robbery at Crow's Landing.

RUBBER FROM SHALE NOW SEEMS PROBABLE

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 6.—Possibilities that a partial solution to the rubber problem has been discovered were seen here today when A. R. Lendner announced that his application for a patent on a device to extract rubber from oil shale has been granted at Washington.

Action of the Patent Office climaxes more than a year of research carried on by Lendner and his associate, Monte Cambern of Perris, at the conclusion of which they announced they had perfected a method by which rubber can be profitably extracted from shale. Almost unlimited quantities of oil-shale are available in the Perris and Elsinore sections near here, the two inventors declare.

WORKER DIES ON SHAFT PINNACLE

Caught in Elevator Many Feet Above the Ground

Head Crushed, Neck Broken, Lungs Pierced

Body Held Fast Until Bar Cut by Melting Process

OXNARD, Aug. 6.—Charles J. Addison, 25 years of age, was instantly killed this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the American beet-sugar factory here. He was employed as assistant electrician and was engaged with two or three other men in repairing the large lime kiln near the main plant.

He was working near the top of the shaft, which is some 110 feet high, and was caught in the shaft between the framework and the bucket, known as the lime-rock elevator. He was killed as the elevator was started in motion.

This is said to be the first fatal accident in the local sugar factory since it started operations twenty-six years ago.

Addison had been employed at the factory since July 27, 1919. He was always known as a careful workman.

One of the workmen who happened to be near at the time of the accident, in describing it said that Addison was in the bucket near the top of the shaft. He gave the signal to come down. Instead of the bucket being lowered it started for the top. He became frightened and tried to jump out of the bucket. In trying to jump he got caught between the shaft and the bucket.

The workmen heard a yell and when they looked up his body was suspended on a bar.

It required many minutes to remove the body. The bar had to be cut by melting before the body could be taken down. Besides the crushed head, it was found that his lungs were pierced by the bar, five ribs were broken and he also suffered a broken neck and a broken right leg.

Burbank Auto Show's Big Top Goes Up Tuesday

BURBANK, Aug. 6.—The work of clearing the plaza on Olive avenue, opposite the City Hall, is commencing and Tuesday next the big tent will be pitched in preparation for the Burbank auto show beautiful, planned for the 18th to 22nd inst. Director Bob Cavepagh states that practically all spaces under the big top have been taken by local and Glendale dealers in cars of many makes, including trucks, busses and accessories. Oil and grease makers promise displays that will be of rare educational value.

This initial showing in Southern California of cars of the 1927 models will make of this show a rare attraction for dealers throughout the southern part of the State, as it will afford them their first opportunity of displaying machines to be sold by them in the months to come.

The final work of arranging the entertainment program is today being given attention, as pledges of participation are being received from radio and screen stars and vaudeville top-liners.

POLICE-FIREMEN PAY WORKERS ORGANIZE

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Plans for the formation of an advisory committee of 200 representative citizens to assist in the campaign for the initiative ordinance fixing a new salary schedule for policemen and firemen here, were completed today. The outlook, it is said, is for adoption of the proposed ordinance by a large majority of votes at the special election on the 20th inst. An advertising campaign that will include billboard posters, window cards, automobile stickers, motion pictures and public speaking is being worked out by the committee in charge and already many of these features are greeting the eye of the voter, who is being urged to "give Long Beach firemen and policemen a living wage."

BIDS DELAY AWARD

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 6.—Because the bids averaged about $6000 higher than anticipated, the members of the Alhambra Board of Education today were considering the awarding of a contract for the construction of a $10,000 athletic field with bleachers here. More funds must be appropriated if the improvement is ordered, it was stated.

BEAUTY PRIZE WINNER HOME AGAIN

"Miss Venice" Returns From North as "Miss California"

Welcomed as Royalty
Group of Venice society women greet Aloah Porter

VENICE, Aug. 6.—"Miss California" came back to her home town today. Beautiful Aloah Porter, who won the "Miss Venice" prize here, was sent to San Francisco, and won the "Miss California" honor, most coveted bathing beauty distinction in the State, and was royally welcomed on her return.

She goes to Atlantic City, N. J., in September to compete for the "Miss America" trophy and all the glory that goes with it of being the nation's most beautiful girl. In perfection of face and form, in charm and personality, Aloah Porter, all Venice rises to say, was just born to be "Miss America" and bring home another distinction to her home town.

Ruling Near in La Mesa Hearing on Irrigation

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 6.—It is expected that Judge Marsh will decide Monday on the injunction suit brought by the La Mesa Irrigation District against the city of San Diego. Final argument in the suit was ended at 5:20 p.m. yesterday after an eight-day session.

Judge Marsh deferred decision to review citations in the suit. The injunction sought is to prevent the city building its proposed El Capitan pipe line from the San Diego River to the city in county roads. Under its present persistent effort to keep the city from getting water from the San Diego River by any means, the district raised every conceivable objection to the building of the pipe line in the suit just heard, concluding with contention that a county road cannot legally be used for anything but surface travel.

The County Board of Supervisors has given the city a franchise to lay pipe lines in the county roads where the city routed it to avoid crossing lands of the district or Ed Fletcher, where permits were denied. The district itself, through its counsel, has obtained a similar franchise from the Supervisors for pipe lines of its own.

FUNERAL FOR PIONEER

Obsequies of Alhambran to Be Conducted Monday

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 6.—Funeral services for J. Wiley Wallace, 61 years of age, a member of the first family of settlers in Alhambra other than the Spanish and Mexicans, will be conducted at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning at Turner, Stevens & Turner, local undertakers. The services will be followed by cremation, which will be private. He died late last night.

Wallace was only 6 years of age when his parents, James C. and Martha Wilson Wallace, moved to this district from Mississippi, the family coming here at the request of Mrs. Wallace's brother, B. D. Wilson, early San Gabriel Valley pioneer.

On the family's arrival in 1871, only a few adobe houses were scattered through the valley, the dwelling constructed in 1873 by the Wallaces being the first frame house in the section now known as Alhambra.

ORANGE CROP SETS RECORD

Approximately 7000 Cars of Valencias Shipped Out of Orange County So Far This Season

TUSTIN, Aug. 6—Approximately one-half of the largest Valencia orange crop ever grown in Orange county has been picked and shipped during the first three months of the season, according to reports gathered from all sections of the county today. Shipments of oranges this year have been heavier than ever before and during the three months' period approximately 7000 carloads of fruit have left the county.

Estimates from various packing-house officials and from the office of the County Horticultural Commissioner were to the effect that approximately 15,000 carloads of fruit will be shipped from Orange county this year.

The average during the past five years has been less than 12,000 carloads a year, according to reports.

Despite the fact that a record crop of oranges is moving out of the county little trouble has been experienced and, according to various packing-house officials, prices have been good considering the amount of fruit.

The excellent quality of the fruit has also help greatly in the sales this year. Prices have reached a high mark of $6 and $7 a box during the past few months.

Packing-houses in East Fullerton, Anaheim, Orange, Tustin, Garden Grove, La Habra and on the Irvine ranch have been operating at capacity during the past few weeks.

While little delay has been experienced in shipments so far this year shippers in the county are guarding against a car shortage which may come the latter part of August. The grape season opens in full swing during the last of August and it is during this period that the car shortage usually occurs, according to reports.

The "set" on the orange trees throughout the county for the crop next year is only fair. Citrus growers are experiencing some difficulty with purple scale and other pests.

FALLS FOUR STORIES, LIVES

Charles Greening, Pasadena Carpenter, Alights on Pile of Dirt, Lessening Injuries

PASADENA, Aug. 6.—Charles C. Greening, a carpenter, today fell four stories down a narrow airshaft in a new apartment building being erected at 24 South Mentor avenue, and incurred serious injuries from which he may die. Only the fact that he landed in a pile of soft dirt in the basement of the structure saved him from instant death.

Greening, who is 41 years of age, was rushed to the emergency hospital with a crushed chest, fractured wrist, lacerations and contusions of the arms and possible fractured vertebrae. He was later removed to the Pasadena Hospital, where attaches reported his condition critical.

The shaft is only about two feet square, so that Greening had no chance to check his fall from the fourth floor. He was employed in construction work by the Union Construction Company and lives at 152 Rosemead Boulevard.

At the same hospital, William Sanneman, 83 years of age, is also in a critical condition as the result of an accident late last night in which he was struck by an automobile as he attempted to cross Los Robles avenue at Orange Grove avenue. He suffered broken ribs, bruises, shock and possible internal injuries. The car which struck the aged man was driven by B. L. Smith, 304 East Bellevue avenue, who was exonerated of blame by investigating officers.

Two other serious, though probably not fatal, accidents were reported here today. S. A. Conrad, a carpenter, fell from the top of a partially razed building at Oak Knoll avenue and East Colorado street. Robert Ritzman, 2-year-old son of O. F. Ritzman, 1109 North Allen avenue, was run over by his father's automobile in front of the family home. He was taken to the Pasadena Hospital for X-ray examination for possible internal injuries.

Flivvers, Then More Flivvers Will Parade

VENICE, Aug. 6.—Flivvers, flivvers, flivvers! Miles of squeaks and shivers! Flivvers old and rusted, and flivvers shiny new. Flivvers decorated, flivvers desecrated; flivvers that delight the eye—and some that mar the view.

At Venice next Sunday it is "Flivver day," with the annual flivver parade in the afternoon. The entry list, according to D. J. Davis, president of the Venice Amusement Men's Association, includes enough flivvers of every race, color and previous conditions of servitude to guarantee a parade long enough to tie the beach city in a double bowknot. Placed end to end—the way flivvers so often place themselves—they would reach from Henry Ford's residence to the royal garage at Peking, statisticians declare.

HIGHWAY DEDICATED

Mile-High Mountain Road Thrown Open to Traffic

REDLANDS, Aug. 6.—The first mile-high paved road into the San Bernardino Mountains, the road from Redlands to Forest Home and beyond, was dedicated with a celebration today attended by road enthusiasts from all parts of the south and especially this county.

The road is now paved all the way to Valley of the Falls, which is at the foot of San Bernardino and Grayback Mountains and right in the heart of the high hills. It goes to an elevation of 6000 feet and is but the forerunner of more paved roads in the mountains, it is said.

The entire pavement from the mouth of the canyon to Valley of the Falls cost about $80,000 and speakers at the celebration say the cost has opened up $1,000,000 worth of happiness to people in the use of the mountains.

VALLEY TOWN WANTS TO ESTABLISH PARK

CAHUENGA PARK, Aug. 6.—Members of the Cahuenga Park Community Association met tonight at the Cahuenga Park school to discuss the cost of a community tennis court, and the advisability of creating an assessment district for the establishment of a park here. As now planned, the park will be highly beautified and made one of the show places in this part of the valley. At the meeting it was stated that the population of Cahuenga Park had trebled within the last year and the question of an increased police and fire department also engaged members present. Representatives of the Los Angeles Playground Commission attended the meeting.

TWO GIRLS ARE SOUGHT AS MISSING

REDLANDS, Aug. 6.—Police of this city and the whole section, are searching for Clare Madden, 1458 Calumet street, Los Angeles, blond and 17 years of age, and Clara Wilkey, 234 Grant street, this city, who have been missing for several days. The girls have been working in Los Angeles and told their brothers they were coming to Redlands to work in a restaurant. They have not been here and friends say they saw the girls in company with two boys in a roadster.

ANGELENO HURT IN CRASH

ARCADIA, Aug. 6.—John Bright, 242 West Sixteenth street, Los Angeles, suffered a broken right arm when his automobile upset at noon today in a collision at First and Orange avenues. The other car in the mix-up was driven by Charles Uhizin, 2434 Malabar avenue, Los Angeles. Bright's car was badly damaged. The injured man was removed to his home after treatment by a local physician.

WAR ON STENCH UP TO OFFICIALS

Long Beach to Take Appeal to Governor and Keyes

Odors from Oil Refineries Still Filling Ozone

Plea Will be Sent County Health Department

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Direct appeals to Gov. Richardson and to Dist.-Atty. Keyes for the abatement of stenches said to emanate from some thirty-fie gasoline and oil refineries on the outskirts of Long Beach are to be made by city officials, it was announced here today.

Decision to make the appeal to State and county officials was reached following the alleged failure of officials of the refining companies to comply with the city's mandates relative to abating gasoline and oil stenches, which, it is claimed, is driving tourists and others away from Long Beach.

A third line of attack, an appeal to the County Health Department to "take such steps and exercise such powers as may be vested in it to forthwith abate the nuisance of refinery odors," is also planned by the city, it was said today.

The three appeals have been ordered by the City Council as a result of recommendations submitted to the city fathers by the committee recently appointed by the Council to lay plans for abatement of the alleged nuisances.

Refiners are guilty, the committee's report said, of violating the statutes of California by permitting noxious fumes to permeate the air in Long Beach. All the refineries under fire are located beyond the city limits and therefore beyond the legal jurisdiction of the City Council.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes will be asked by the city to take the necessary steps to prosecute the refiners and the State Health Department will be invoked through Gov. Richardson, now a summer resident of Long Beach, to investigate refinery conditions here.

Direct action by the Council several weeks ago brought several refinery officials to the Council chamber with assurances that the gasoline stenches emanating from the refineries not only could, but would be abated at once. It is claimed that to date, these promises have not been fulfilled.

Fines Raised in Boulevard-Stop Law Violations

PASADENA, Aug. 6.—A far-too-large percentage of Pasadena automobile drivers don't want to observe the city's boulevard-stop signs, according to Police Judge Dunham. But the jurist is determined that the signs shall be obeyed, and so today for the third time since the boulevard-stops were installed here, he raised the fine for violators.

The last boost increased the levee from $15 to $25 and Gambrel Beasley and Simm Abitia were the first offenders in court today to feel the sting of the court's righteous wrath. After relieving them of $25 apiece, Judge Dunham announced that still heavier fines will be assessed if the "boulevard-go" craze continues. Moreover, he declared, in the cases where the impatient ones are not dependent upon their cars for their livelihood, their operators' licenses will be taken up.

KERN COUNTY POLL STRENGTH IN RECORD

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 6.—Late today County Clerk Smith and his deputies completed a compilation of Kern county's registration for the forthcoming elections. The registration this year of 30,321 is the greatest in the history of the county. The figures show that the Democrats have a total of 11,703 and Republicans 16,543. The total Socialistic registration is given as 264, and Prohibitionist 117. Of those who declined to state their party affiliations the total amounted to 1694. The greatest registration prio to this year was for 1924, when the total was 25,596, according to Mr. Smith. The increase is almost 5000 names.

SMALL CHILD HURT WHILE RIDING CYCLE

MONROVIA, Aug. 6.—A bicycle is not usually considered a dangerous vehicle but an attempted ride on one resulted in painful injury this afternoon to Rhoda Wollitzer, 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Irene Wollitzer, 412 South Ivy avenue. Trying to "ride on behind" with a playmate, her right heel was caught in the spokes of the rear wheel and all of the skin was torn off, exposing the bone. She was riding with Frank Williams, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Williams, 212 East Lime avenue.

Plan to Widen Old Roadway in Laurel Canyon

CAHUENGA PARK, Aug. 6.—Plans for the improvement of Laurel Canyon Road are progressing. The City Council has accepted deeds and easements for the right of way. It is expected that actual work soon will start.

When the new highway is completed it will be sixty feet wide, from Hollywood Boulevard to Ventura Boulevard. Many of the curves will be straightened out to avoid sharp turns and give clear visibility over the whole route.

A rumor that the Los Angeles Railway Company has bought a plot of ground near Hollywood Boulevard for a building a station, has not been confirmed, but plans to run a bus line over Laurel Canyon to the valley are being discussed by the officials of the transportation company.

This line would give the valley additional transportation facilities, and would make Beverly Hills and West Hollywood more accessible from points along Ventura Boulevard.

CAVE-IN KILLS WORKER

Mexican Laborer Buried Beneath Tons of Rock and Sand

GLENDALE, Aug. 6.—Trapped beneath a heavy fall of rock and sand when a slide occurred in a sewer trench on East Broadway, G. Jiminez, 20 years of age, whose address is given as the Los Angeles Hotel, North Spring street, Los Angeles, was dead before he could be extricated and brought to the surface.

The man was buried at the bottom of the fourteen-foot trench for over two hours before the efforts of two gangs succeeded in uncovering his body.

The inhalator squad of the Southern California Gas Company worked for thirty minutes to restore him to life, without success, and Dr. E. M. Miller, City Health Officer, after an examination of Jiminez, declared that life had been extinct within ten minutes after he had been buried under the slide.

The body has been turned over to the Scovern Undertaking Company and the Coroner has been notified and will set the time for the inquest.

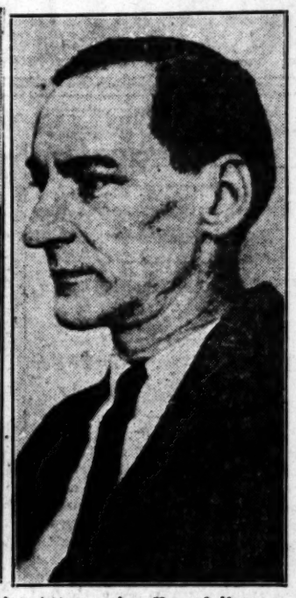
CHICKEN THIEVES MAKE LARGE HAUL

VAN NUYS, Aug. 6.—Chicken thieves with a wholesale tendency are again rampant in the Van Nuys section. Last night, several men in a large truck took 325 white Leghorn hens from the J. L. Stevenson ranch on Ranchito avenue, according to a report made today at the Van Nuys Police Station. Entry was made by forcing the outside door. The chicken house is about 200 feet from Mr. Stevenson's home, but the thieves made their haul without disturbing any of the family. The entry was made after 11:30 p.m., as Mr. Stevenson stated that he made a round of the house at that time to determine whether all doors had been closed.

BOY ORATOR TO TALK IN VAN NUYS CHURCH

VAN NUYS, Aug. 6.—John Aiso, young Japanese student at the Hollywood High School, one of the winners in the recent oratory contest on the American Constitution, will deliver his address Sunday at the Van Nuys Central Christian Church. A large crowd of young people have been invited to greet Aiso and to hear his talk.

Five Reported to Have Confessed to Looting the County Funds



The Possibility of the Grand Jury Investigating one of its own employees was indicated yesterday by the District Attorney's office, following the arrest and asserted confessions of five men charged with having stolen and cashed county warrants totaling between $1500 and $2000. Those under arrest are, left to right (above,) Clarence O. Watson, Lon Chapman, Leo Kuranoff, Richard Sides and Robert D. McLeod, the latter of whom was one of a number of auditors retained by the grand jury to make a systematic check of county expenditures. He is also the asserted leader. FILIPINOS DEFY EXPLOITATIONS

Firestone Rubber Proposal Unifies Parties

Opposition to Jones Law Change Crystallizes

Quezon Proposes Financing Small Plantations

MANILA, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—The first advanced rumbling that probably will come to the most extreme denunciation of American imperialism and exploitation ever heard in the Philippines began today following the publication of news that Harvey Firestone, the American rubber magnate, called on President Coolidge and offered the suggestion that Congress vary the land laws of the islands to promote rubber development on a large scale.

The subject was being discussed in the Legislature today despite the approach of the crisis threatening the existence of the coalition that now controls the insular government.

The mere suggestion that Congress, which is all-powerful in matters pertaining to the archipelago, would assume jurisdiction of the public domain, shoved partisan disputes in the background.

DEFIANT INTERVIEWS

The interviews here all are of the same tone used in expressing feelings about Congress every day, asserting that the Philippines never will agree to anything they do not like even if it is recommended by the President and approved by Congress.

The remarks of President Manuel Quezon of the Senate to American newspaper men accompanying Col. Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's special investigator, are typical.

"We are unalterably opposed to any amendment to the land laws by Congress," he said. "The Jones law of 1916 placed the disposition of the public domain in the hands of the Philippine Legislative body and we think there is no justification for Congress to assume control now.

"The present limitations on corporations, holding them to 2800 acres, is the only act of Congress on this subject, and otherwise does not interfere with Philippine control of our own lands."

PROPOSES ALTERNATIVE

He repeated familiar reasons for opposing large holdings and said that the local leaders think Mr. Firestone is mistaken in his contention when he estimates that 75,000 or more acres are necessary for successful rubber growing. He suggested as an alternative the organization of a corporation to finance a number of small plantations.

While visiting Pampanga Province today Col. Thompson declined to discuss the Firestone proposal, but it is known that he will make some special recommendations on the subject of rubber and may indorse the suggestion made by Mr. Firestone.

VENTURA COUNTY HAS RAIN, EARTH TREMOR

VENTURA, Aug. 6.—Starting with a smart shower of rain at 8:15 o'clock in the morning, to be followed by a sharp earthquake shock at 9:43 and another shower of rain at 11:45 o'clock, today was one of atmospheric and seismological disturbances. The rainstorm was of the usual summer thunder-shower type, minus the thunder, not enough rain falling to more than moisten the pavement in the east end of the county and barely noticeable in the city. The earthquake was accompanied by a forty-foot water-spout off Mussel Rock Inn. The water-spout lasted for a minute and was said to be a half-mile off shore. No report of damage was received following the earthquake. The shock was felt at all points of the county.

LLOYD GEORGE WANTS AMERICA IN LEAGUE

SWANSEA (Wales) Aug. 6 (AP)—David Lloyd George, former British Premier, does not believe that the League of Nations will be made the power in the world it should be until in some form or another, on her own conditions and in her own way, the United States comes in. Mr. Lloyd George gave his views in a talk at a reception given by the Welsh League of Nations organization to overseas visitors to the Welsh National Eisteddfod. He expressed the fervent hope that the United States will join the League, adding: "America alone, given God's guidance, can save the world from horrors."

MOTHER OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Helped in Caring for them by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Glasgow, Ky.—"I am the mother of seven children, the eldest being only 12 years, and I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to pull me through the roughest places of my married life. At one time I was so downhearted that life was a misery. A friend in Indianapolis, Indiana, told me of the Vegetable Compound, and after taking a few bottles of it I became myself again and it was a pleasure to do my housework and gardening. Since then I always use your medicine when I feel weak from overwork and it straightens me out."—Mrs. Melissa Barbers, Route 2, care of O. F. Steenbergen, Glasgow, Ky.

New Orleans, La.—"I could not do a thing after my first boy was born. I was so weak, I had no appetite, lost weight and was not able to do my work. I was this way for seven weeks, then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got wonderful results from it."—Mrs. C. Faurie, 4014 Dauphine St., New Orleans, La.

INFANT'S HEART ON WRONG SIDE

Child Apparently Healthy and Has Good Chance to Survive

McCOOK (Neb.) Aug. 6. (AP)—Physicians who this week discovered that the heart of a 4-months-old baby is on the right side of his body, are interested in the apparent healthfulness of the child.

Despite the fact that medical history revealed that only in rare cases do persons live when born with this condition, several physicians believe the baby has an excellent chance to survive.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Harris of McCook are the infant's parents.

GREAT LOSS FEARED FOR EXPOSITION

Philadelphia Fair Heads Say Blue Law Will Cost Investors $100,000,000

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6. (AP)—Sesquicentennial Exposition investors face a loss of more than $100,000,000, and the whole project will be a complete failure if it is not permitted to operate on Sundays, in the opinion of counsel for the Sesquicentennial Association. They so assert in their reply to the State Attorney-General's writ which seeks to show the association exceeds its charter by remaining open on Sunday. The reply is to be filed in the County Court at Harrisburg.

Maintaining that no merchandise is sold on the ground on Sunday and that no charge is made for the amusements in addition to the 50-cent gate fee, the answer declared that the operation of the exposition on Sunday is in strict conformity with all existing laws and that the court is without jurisdiction to compel its closing.

"We aver that such a closing," says the reply, "must necessarily involve the absolute, entire and complete ruin and disintegration of the whole project.

"More than $100,000,000 already has been invested in this enterprise and the total amount, or almost the entire amount so invested, would be lost and the complete failure of this exposition involved in the action prayed for by this relator."

LATINS HELD ONLY IN FEAR OF AMERICA

Monroe Doctrine Asserted to Cause Distrust Among Neighbors to South

WILLIAMSTOWN (Mass.) Aug. 6. (AP) The Monroe Doctrine, instead of bringing the Latin-American countries into closer contact with the United States and instilling a spirit of mutual trust, has eliminated from the minds of Latin-American peoples all fear of aggression from any portion of the world but the United States, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan-American Union, told the Institute of Politics today in discussing the attitude of Latin America toward this country.

Conscious of the great economic and political power that the United States has acquired, and recognizing that history contains no record of a nation which used without abusing a like degree of power, there is a constant question in the Latin-American mind, Dr. Rowe said, as to what we propose to do, and a correspondingly searching criticism of the foreign policy of this country where it touches Latin America.

The general attitude during the last twenty years has shown steady improvement, however, he said, and the higher standards of American business and business men who are making permanent investments in Latin America are contributing greatly to the increase in good feeling between this country and her southern neighbors.

Better understanding between Latin America and the United States can be obtained, he said, by the general recognition by the people of the United States that the good will and friendship of these nations are of vital importance to us and, specifically, by the establishment of scholarships and fellowships in American universities for Latin-American students.

ANGELENO HELD FOR DEATH IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Charles Rote, 37 years of age, of 4101 Alhambra Road, Los Angeles, was held today on $2500 bail for hearing on the 11th inst. in the Homicide Court. He is asserted to have fatally injured Philip White, 59, of the Bronx with his automobile on July 23. White died in a hospital last night.

WHEN YOU ARE OLD

Here is cheering news for middle-aged women and men. Old people, rules the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, are those who are 65 or more. Persons of 65 have an expectancy of twelve years and this expectancy is lengthening. In the United States there are 5,500,000 old persons, many more than ever before, and the proportion is increasing. "Old people" are now 4.9 per cent of the population. In 1890 they were but 3.9 per cent.

TRADE ACCORD CONCLUDED

PARIS, Aug. 6. (AP)—A provisional commercial accord between France and Germany has been concluded, Minister of Commerce Bokanowski announced yesterday.

JOHNSON OPENS SPEAKING TOUR

Advocates Clarke-Young Ticket in Oakland

Assails Record of Governor and Shortridge

Reiterates Stand Against World Court

OAKLAND, Aug. 6. (AP)—United States Senator Johnson, speaking at the Municipal Auditorium here tonight, delivered the first of a series of speeches he proposes to make throughout the State in behalf of the candidacy of Lieut.-Gov. Young for Governor, and Robert M. Clarke for United States Senator.

For the most part his speech was an attack upon the records of Gov. Richardson and Senator Shortridge, both of whom are candidates for re-election.

Gov Richardson's "economy" he described as "the veriest bunk," and attacked the stand that Senator Shortridge has taken upon both national and international questions, especially the World Court. He asserted that in both campaigns the issue is whether the people or the interests shall control the government.

ABLE STUDENT

"There is no abler student of government, none with wider range of knowledge of administration," the speaker said in declaring his stand for Young. "He represented the antithesis of the present State government. He stands for the people and because I believe he would make California's government again a people's government, I am advocating his election."

In behalf of Clarke, Johnson said: "Because, for sixteen years he has fought the good fight in the State of California, because, between us there have been friendship and political association, because, our views upon public questions are not dissimilar, I am for Clarke. No man can say aught against his character and none can question his ability."

Besides attacking Gov. Richardson's economy program, Johnson sharply criticised the various governmental departments and commissions. The Railroad Commission, he said, has the praise of the public service corporations and the disesteem of practically all others.

ASSAILS COURT

"The commission unquestionably reflects the State administration. It of necessity cannot rise above the source of its power. And the story is the same of nearly every activity created by you to better human conditions or alleviate human suffering. There's an utter lack of understanding and of sympathy in the present administration with humanitarian endeavor."

Upon the World Court, he said:

"I cannot repeat too often to the good people who have been imposed upon by propaganda that the so-called League of Nations court is not an instrument for peace, and in the language of its chief sponsor in this country, Prof. Hudson, it has neither prevented any wars nor will it in the future prevent any wars. Once this fact permeates the consciousness and the intelligence of those who from the highest motives have asked us to join the court, the entire reason for their attitude falls.

"Europe is united in but one thing, hostility to America. To go now to a European court composed of foreign judges is a hazard no statesman should take and that no patriotic American should wish."

PRODUCTION OF COTTON INCREASES

Foreign Competition Not Seriously Successful, Says Exchange Report

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Aug. 6. (AP) Competition with the United States in the production of cotton, which is becoming more marked in certain foreign countries, has not yet proved "seriously successful" Col. H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, declared today in his annual report on the 1925-26 commercial crop.

Col. Hester estimated the commercial crop for 1925-26 at 15,614,707 bales, an increase over the year previous of 916,351, and over that of 1923-24 of 4,324,310. The average of the crop was strictly low middling, compared with middling last year. The decrease in grades was found to be due to excessive rains. Poor qualities began to appear in abundance about the middle of October and all produced west of the Mississippi and much of that east of the "Big Muddy" after that time was of low grade.

The cotton authority asserted that for a time the demand for low-grade cotton was limited but that many mills soon found an advantage in substituting low grades at the heavy discounts they were costing, for better grades. As a result, consumption was extensive. The staple of the crop was better than average with possibly not more than 20 per cent of seven-eighths inch.

The growth of the year, Col. Hester placed at 17,435,000 bales compared with 14,808,000 last year. The previous largest crop was 17,004,000 bales in 1914-15. The Washington government census figures agreed with Col. Hester's record at that time within 2000 bales. He said that the conditions which have existed this year resulted in the largest consumption known.

BELGIAN CRITIC LAUDS AMERICAN GENEROSITY

ANTWERP, Aug. 6. (AP)—Sander Pierron, one of the leading Belgian critics and men of letters, writes upon American generosity in the restoration of the Pagora at Athens. "No other nation," says Pierron, "except America would have conceived and executed a project which is bound to fill with admiration and gratitude the hearts of the whole artistic world. While the average American is a typical business man no one will contest that science, archeology and the fine arts are becoming more and more indebted to America, especially in view of the discoveries made at Cyprus."

FANS REFUSE TO FLEE FLAMES

Manager of Burning Theater Has Hard Work to Clear Building

BEND (Or.) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—When the manager of a film theater here requested the audience to clear the building because the house was on fire, the spectators just sat there to continue their enjoyment of the picture, which, depicted the burning of Rome by Nero.

One man yelled, "Go on with the show!"

When finally persuaded to leave, they filed out in an orderly manner and found firemen pouring water on the roof of the structure which was burning merrily.

Storm Wrecks Plane Hangar in Imperial Valley

IMPERIAL (Cal.) Aug. 6. (AP)—An airplane hangar containing three planes was wrecked here today by a wind and rain storm. The building, owned by Walker Stepson, was torn to fragments and the planes scattered, one of them being carried some distance and left upside down. No other damage by the storm was reported although heavy rains fell in many parts of the Imperial Valley.

HISTORIC MINE CHANGES HANDS

Xitinga Purchase Made by French Interests

New Owners Think Tons of Riches Still Hidden

Shaft First to be Operated by Cortez in Conquest

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—The Xitinga mine, one of the most historic and romantic properties in Mexico, located near Taxco De Alarcon in the State of Guerrero, which has produced many millions since before the conquest, has been purchased by the Chontalpam Mining Company, owned by French interests, for 2,000,000 pesos and will be operated again after many years of idleness.

The purchase was made from Santos Peres Cortina, wealthy Spanish Consul at Toluca.

The water which has filled the mine shafts for many years will be pumped out at once and the work of reconditioning the mine begun immediately, the new owners feeling there are still tons of wealth under the soil which for more than four centuries has yielded untold wealth. Xitinga was the first mine operated by the Spaniards who accompanied Cortez on his conquest of what was then New Spain.

Near Xitinga a church built in 1529 is still standing, in which images of solid gold once adorned the altar, made from the product of the mine. Another church was built in 1530 near the mine, where more ornaments of solid gold once existed, manufactured by the Spaniards from metal extracted from Xitinga.

In the early part of the last century Marques De Borda accumulated a vast fortune from Xitinga with which he built several palatial residences and estates in Cuernavaca, one of which, during the days of the Empire, was the summer palace of the ill-fated Empress Charlotte. After De Borda's death, there were years of litigation regarding the ownership of the property, and records tell a long tale of conspiracies mingled with sorrow, love and power until the title finally passed to Cortina, who has never worked the property and allowed its shafts to fill with water.

KILLED FIGHTING FIRE

BONNERS FERRY (Idaho) Aug. 6. (AP)—Jefferson Secena, of Yuma, Ariz., died here yesterday of injuries received when struck by a falling tree while engaged in fighting fires in the Caribou Creek district. Secena and four other men were felling a large tree which had been badly damaged by fire. The tree struck Secena when he stopped to dislodge a saw from some brush.

OFFICER FORCED TO DRINK OIL

HELENA (Mont.) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Open rebellion exists in Northeastern Montana, according to a weekly newspaper issued at Plentywood, which declares that writs of the State courts "do not run in Sheridan county."

A mob of farmers in that section recently is said to have forced Oscar Collins, a former Sheriff, attempting to serve a civil writ issued out of State courts at Glendive, to drink a quart of castor oil, after manhandling him severely.

The farms of that section, it is said, are heavily mortgaged, the paper being held mostly by banks of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and it was a foreclosure in one of these cases that Collins was trying to carry out, when attacked.

Youth Indicted for Murder of Breakey Girl

STOCKTON, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—George Pound, 22 years of age, was indicted this afternoon by the San Joaquin County Grand Jury for the murder of Nina Breakey, 15-year-old school girl, here last Friday. Pound will be arraigned within a few days before Superior Judge Miller at which time his trial date will be set.

Pound will plead not guilty, it is believed, although he has partially admitted having attacked the Breakey girl in an automobile following their attendance at a dance.

PARENTAL LAXITY SCORED

PASADENA, Aug. 6.—Parental laxity and the breaking up of the home through negelect of children by fathers and mothers were blamed for prevalent juvenile delinquency by Judge Keeler of Los Angeles, who addressed the Pasadena Lions' Club today. He advocated stricter marriage requirements and citizenship training of children.

The record of the five previous triumphs, all by men, follow: August 24-25, 1875, by Capt. Matthew Webb of East Bourne, Eng. Dover Sands, Eng., to Sangatte Beach, France. Time, 22h. 45m. Estimated distance traveled, thirty-nine miles. (Second attempt.)

September 5-6, 1911, by Thomas W. Burgess of London, Eng., Dover Admiralty Pier to Cape Gris-Nez, France. Time, 22h. 35m. Estimated distance traveled, thirty-nine miles. (Nineteenth attempt.)

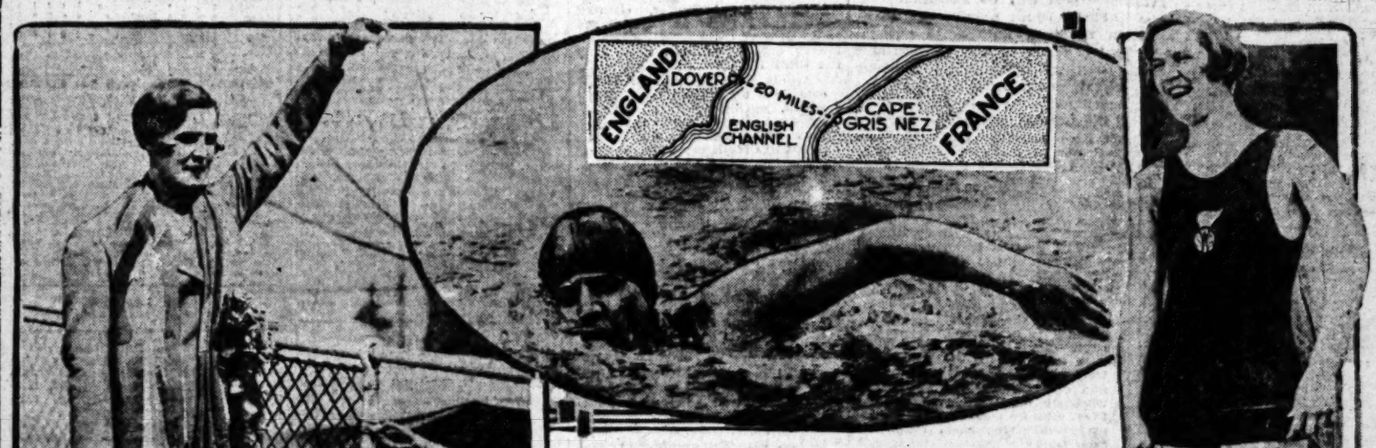
August 5-6, 1923, by Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., Dover Admiralty Pier to Cape Gris-Nez. Time, 27h. 23m. Estimated distance covered, forty-five miles. (Third attempt.)

August 11-12, 1923, by Sebastian Tiraboschi of Buenos Aires, an Italian. Cape Gris-Nez to Dover Sands, Eng. Time, 16h. 23m. Estimated distance traveled, twenty-seven miles. (Third attempt.)

September 8-9, 1923, by Charles Roth of Boston. Cape Gris-Nez to Dover Sands. Time, 16h. 54m. Estimated distance traveled, twenty-eight miles. (Twelfth attempt.)

GERTRUDE EDERLE MOVES INTO THE CIRCLE OF SPORT IMMORTALS

In becoming the first woman to swim the tricky English Channel the New York girl not only achieved a remarkable feat for one of her sex but broke the world's record, which belonged to one of the five men who have crossed the body of water in fifty years of competition. The photos below show Miss Ederle in different poses: Left, as she sailed on the S.S. Berengaria from New York this spring for England and her second attempt to cross the channel; middle, her powerful overhand stroke in the water; right, as she stood on the rocky shores of Cape Griz-Nez scanning the horizon.



ACE HUDKINS RALLIES TO GET DRAW WITH LOAYZA

Nebraskan Doles Out Sweet Lacing to Chilean in Closing Rounds of 12-Round New York Bout

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Ace Hudkins of Nebraska, and Stanislaus Loayza of Chile, fought to a draw decision tonight in a spectacular twelve-round lightweight battle before a crowd of 24,000 at the Coney Island Stadium. Most of the spectators appeared to believe that the westerner had a decisive margin.

The verdict was greeted with boos from a big section of the gathering which shared the opinion of most of the ringside critics that Hudkins had rallied to outfight his rival decisively throughout the last half of the bout. Loayza was groggy under Hudkins's attack in at least three of the closing rounds, although he fought gamely.

Ace Hudkins

The bout was a toe-to-toe contest from the start and the Chilean gained an early advantage, which to the experts appeared to have been wiped out by Hudkins's fiery finish. The verdict was made possible under the New York State system of scoring, the winner being chosen by the number of founds won rather than by the condition of the fighters at the end.

A majority of the writers credited Hudkins with seven of the twelve rounds.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS

Weights main bout. Loayza, 134; Hudkins, 136½.

ROUND ONE

Both were cautious. Loayza crouching low, while Hudkins stepped around looking for an opening. They exchanged body blows in the clinches without damage. Both got in hard rights to the body. Hudkins sent a right to the Chilean's jaw. Loayza sent right to jaw and followed with left to same spot. At close quarters Loayza sent uppercuts to Ace's jaw. The Chilean had the advantage.

ROUND TWO

Hudkins jabbed with his left before they rushed into a clinch. As they locked both played for stomach. Hudkins landed with left on jaw and then missed with right. Referee Haley had to pry them apart.

ROUND THREE

Loayza sent right and left to jaw and followed with five other lefts to the jaw without a return. Hudkins tried his best to get in a blow, but was just about able to defend himself from the fierce onslaught of the Chilean, who sent in rights and lefts to the jaw and body and had the Wildcat tired. Ace sent in a hard right to the stomach. It was the only blow he landed in the round. The Chilean was making the American boy look anything but a wildcat. Ace jabbed a right to the jaw and the Chilean came back with two lefts. Chilean again sent in two stinging lefts to jaw and Ace looked bad. It was a boxing lesson for the Nebraskan and easily the Chilean's round.

ROUND FOUR

They did not stop to box, but clinched and had to be pried apart. The Chilean sent a left to the stomach and Ace tried for a right to the jaw, but missed. They boxed and clinched and coming out of a clinch the Chilean brought up two snappy rights to the jaw. Hudkins landed a left to the stomach, but Loayza came back with a hook to the jaw and repeated a second after with left to the same spot. Ace tried a left to

Vincent Richards Conquers Manuel Alonzo

Berkeley Girl Victor With Chandler in Doubles

SEABRIGHT (N. J.) Aug. 6. (AP) Helen Wills, America's tennis queen, made a brave but losing fight today to repulse the most serious thrust at her supremacy since she rose to the peak of netdom three years ago.

Facing Elizabeth Ryan, a sister Californian, in the most critical test of her playing strength, since she underwent an operation in France two months ago, the national champion went down to defeat in the singles final of the Seabright invitation tournament, 6-4, 6-1. The triumph of her outstanding rival was equally as decisive as that which Miss Ryan scored at 6-3, 6-3, here a year ago, when court conditions less favorable to the champion offered a plausible explanation of the unexpected reverse.

ENDS TOURNEY

The historic Jersey Coast tournament closed as dramatically as it had opened on Monday, with a series of upsets broken only by the march of Vincent Richards through the men's singles to a closing victory today over Manuel Alonso of Spain, 6-2, 10-8, 6-2.

Helen Wills took the court this afternoon under overcast skies with

VITT'S HIT BEATS SACS

Star Skipper Pinch-Hits in Eighth and Drives in Two Runs; Shellenback Wins Mound Duel, 2-1

BY ROBERT RAY

Frank Shellenback, whow as traded to Hollywood by Sacramento this spring, gets a good deal of pleasure out of beating his former mates. Yesterday Mr. Shellenback had an enjoyable afternoon, but he didn't know it until was the eighth inning when Oscar Vitt put himself in to pitch-hit for Gooc hand drove out a double that scored two runs and gave the Stars a 2-to-1 victory over the Scions.

OSCAR VITT

their lone mark. After that Shelly's spitter kept the visitors away from the plate, even though the Sacs managed to get to him for a hit in most every inning.

Elmer G. (Speed Martin opposed Shelly in the hotsy-totsy hurling duel and was riding in a cool and nervous manner on a one-run lead when the Stars came to bat in the eighth. Speed struck out Dud Lee for a starter, but John Peters started Elmer G's downfall by hoisting a single over Jack Knight's head. Shellenback walked and Johnny Frederick also took advantage of Martin's temporary lapse of control to secure a free pass to first, filling the bases with shooting Stars that had no place to shoot. At this point Skipper Vitt injected himself into the Hollywood line-up as a pinch hitter for Gooch. Martin's first offering to Vitt was wide, but the next pitch suited Oscar's fancy and it no sooner got up to the plate than the Star skipper socked it on its way out to the

Gotham Women Set New Swim Relay Record

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6. (AP)—The speedy quartet of furlong swimmers representing the Women's Swimming Association of New York shattered the world's record in the 880-yard relay, feature race of the third day's events in the women's national A. A. U. swimming championships in the Sesquicentennial Lake pool today. The team was timed in 11:45 3-5 to win the national title.

The old record for the event was 12:17 and was established by the W. S. A. team in the 1925 championships at Detroit.

Adelaide Lambert of the Women's Swimming Association of New York swam to a new world's record in winning the title in the 800-meter medley race in the women's national A. A. U. swimming championships. She was timed in 5:01.

She clipped more than three seconds off the best former time for the distance, 5:04 3-5, established by her in Philadelphia July 31 of this year.

DEMSKY, DE HATE IN DRAW

Pair of Pauls Stage Exciting Ten-Rounder in Main Go at Hollywood; Layman Trims Mack

Paul Demsky, a visitor from Australia, and Paul De Hate, Compton lightweight, fought ten exciting rounds to a draw in the main event at the Hollywood Legion Stadium last night. After the sixth round, up to which time De Hate had an edge, Demsky opened up and slugged with the Compton clouter and managed to earn an even break.

The two Pauls landed numerous hard swats, De Hate putting over his pile-driving right on several occasions but he was never able to follow up his advantage. In the last four rounds Demsky threw caution to the winds and waded into De Hate, taking several hard rights but landing more punches than did the Compton scrapper.

Demsky took the first round but after that dropped the next five to De Hate. Then in the final four stanzas the Australian got started again and managed to earn a draw.

In the semi-wind-up Joe Layman sprung a mild sort of surprise by gaining a verdict over Freddy Mack. Mack is the same gentleman who stopped Kayo Kelly last week, but Layman didn't give Freddy a chance to land his crushing right. Layman forced the fighting throughout and smothered Mack with punches, keeping inside most of the terrific swings that Freddy started. The bout went six rounds.

Jimmy Mareus, local middleweight, won the nod over Freddie Block, Cleveland 158-pounder, in the six-round special event. While the bout had its good spots, as a fight it was not much to rave about.

The second scrap on the card, a

EVEN THE STEEL-NERVED RACERS BAN WOMAN DRIVER

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Drivers racing in the International Motor Contest Association's events at the Hawthorne track near here Sunday have protested the entry of Mlle. Joan La Coste, premier French woman pilot. Officials have not announced a decision, on the plea that a feminine driver should not race at the high speeds of the tests. Mlle. La Coste has driven in Minnesota and at Daytona Beach.

VITT'S DOUBLE UPSETS SOLONS

left-field corner. The clout was good for two bases and Harry O'Neill, who had gone in to run for Peters after Shellenback had walked, and the Hollywood hurler legged it across the plate with the winning markers. Martin then settled down and retired Oeul and Zoellers to leave the runners stranded on second and third—but the damage had been done, as the saying goes.

GOT OUT OF TROUBLE

Shelly issued a couple of passes in the Sacramento ninth but got out of trouble unscathed when Kerr picked up Cunningham's grounder and threw him out at first to end the hostilities.

Cunningham, who played left field for Kopp yesterday while the latter decorated his room in the Ritz Hotel and was getting over the effects of the beaning he got Thursday, opened the contest with a pop fly. Monroe singled to center to give the Sacs a start for their one run, but he was forced at second by Knight. Davis and Osborne then punched out successive hits and Knight trotted home with the only Sacramento score.

After the first inning Shellenback gave the Senators but two chances to score and both of those chances came after two were out. Not a Solon got as far as third on Shelly's spitter and on a couple of occasions when the Sacs started out as if they meant trouble a double play would stop them dead in their tracks.

Hollywood passed up a grand opportunity—or rather Speed Martin's nifty flinging made them pass it up—to score in the third inning, which Lee and Peters opened with singles. Peters's hit sent Lee to third. Martin struck out Shellenback to somewhat relieve the situation, but he walked Frederick, filling the bases with only one away. Then Gooch drove one to Monroe that the Solon second-sacker turned into a double play with the aid of Messrs. French and Davis.

ZOELLERS DOUBLES

The only other occasion on which the Stars had a chance to get a run was in the fourth when Zoellers doubled to right after O'Doul had flied out. Fritz Coumbe couldn't supply the necessary swat to drive Zoellers home, though, hitting to Martin who threw to Knight trapping Frankie between second and third. Zoellers was run down by Monroe, who threw to Knight, who had managed to get over to second base during the excitement, in time to double Coumbe at the keystone sack.

Another one today with Louie Vinci slated to do the south-pawing for the Sacs against "Sheriff" John Singleton, who has his handcuffs all polished up so that he can manacle the Senators. Score:

Indians Get But Three Hits Off Angel Veteran

SEATTLE, Aug. 6. (AP)—Los Angeles and Seattle ball clubs split a doubleheader here today, the tribe taking the first, 6 to 5, and the visitors copping the second, 3 to 0, a seven inning affray.

The opener was anybody's game until the Indians managed to squeeze in the winning tally in the last of the ninth. Both outfits started out strong in the first few innings, see-sawing the lead up to the end.

Crandall, Angel hurler, clamped down on the Indians in the second game, holding them scoreless and allowing only three hits, none after the third inning.

Arnold Statz, Seraph outfielder, continued his sensational hitting streak, getting three safeties in five trips to the plate in the first game, and a double in four times at bat in the nightcap. Statz has made twenty-six hits in the Angels' last ten games.

PIRATES WIN ANOTHER

Defeat Boston, 5 to 4, and Gain in National Race as Giants Take Tenth Straight From Reds

BOSTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Although Pittsburgh defeated Boston 5 to 4 here today, gaining a three-out-of-four edge on the Braves in the current series the champions lost the services for a few days, at least, of Glenn Wright.

The Pirate shortstop injured his right leg when he slid into second after a long double in the seventh inning. He was taken to a hospital for examination, but it was believed that the injury was not serious. The Braves reached Yde for nine hits but clever fielding kept ten men stranded on the sacks. Winning Yachtsmen Presented With Trophies as Newport Regatta Closes

WINDWARD IS STAR CHAMPION

San Diego Boat Outstrips Competitors Easily

Class III Victor in R-Class After Close Battle

Class Three Trophy Taken by Don Ayers's Monsoon

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE
Times Staff Correspondent

NEWPORT HARBOR YACHT CLUB, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Champions of the Southland, tanned to a bronze hue by wind and sun after four days of boat for boat, skipper with the elements, clashes with the elements, that tested craft and crew to the limit, and races that were won by seconds, the victorious yachtsmen here presented their hard earned trophies here tonight and the annual Southern California regatta passed into history.

As it should be, today's races, in which were the deciding battle of the series, were the scrappiest of the lot. Aeolus, God of the Winds, seemed to blow through like a good fellow with a steady westerly and plenty of breeze.

With the downfall of the movie queen the comeback of Harry Pidgeon Bertha, which finished in the first second today after trailing in the first heat during the initial series.

EDWARD CHAMPION

Indeed, that snappy star class boat with the fighting heart that made the San Diego Yacht Club burgee to the fore throughout the regatta, is the champion of her class. With Joe Quigley getting the best out of her at the helm the entire six-mile course the tiny craft seemed almost to have quivered a moment atop a wave, sent the spray flying as it almost bore down through the waves and finally walked off from the fleet by a couple of twenty-one.

For miles it looked like Commodore B. Ray Schauer's Movie Star was all but home with flying colors after she had won the two opening races in brilliant fashion, Quigley, or whoever it is that has the destiny of sail boats determine, and when the Movie Star finished eleventh, she had made a tie with the Windward Ho for second place, beating out C. F. Bowers's Barbara J. and Owen P. Smith's Mala, skippered by Tommy Hitt by a single point.

Not that the craft moving right along through the finished two minutes and fifty-four seconds astern of the Movie Star, Jessup has clearly proved himself the champion of Southern California waters, and his victories have been his greatest triumphs. Playing the game every minute to the limit has won Joe his share of the regatta. A closer battle than that for the R sloop championship between Cor Nisener's skippering of the Barbara entry, Albert III and Davis's Patricia by two seconds the two boats were fighting out for second and third with the Pirate with Nick Potter at the helm won after as pretty a race as these waters have ever seen. Indeed, the first race put Tommy Hitt out of the running, but not before that she finished in a tie for first place with Layman Farewell's Vamp.

POOR START

Vamp was not off to such a poor start, but she took the windward mark, and walked by the fleet as though she passed the windward mark a few seconds ahead of the Vamp, which was fighting the Pat Moore. It was really the Pat's bad luck for some reason she failed to do what she should have and the race was lost her out by a bare eighteen seconds.

Joe did a neat job of skippering the Vamp and with Capt. Davidson of the schooner Bluenose at the helm was handled by a duck. The Vamp and Stars having finished first, the arbitrary handicapping placed the center of attention rather than Diego craft, the Vamp was skippered by S. Cobean, a lad who, when she nosed out Chapman's beautiful schooner Bluenose at the finish line. Running before the wind and barely making headway, the two boats drifted across the finish line. The scene was all activity. Down came the balloonser and up went the Princess. At that moment the Princess caught a slight draft of wind that carried across the finish line a brief length in the lead. A short time later Dan Laubersheimer's Vamp nosed Clem Stose's Teva across in the same manner, only the finish was closer. A shade of light was all that was between the two boats at the finish.

MONSOON WINS

Don Ayers's schooner Monsoon was the winner of Class 3, after Paul Peck's claim of a foul against the Teva by the latter yesterday's race was disallowed by the regatta committee. The Monsoon was awarded first place. The Wimitch was the winner of Class 2, beating the Teva by one point.

Practically every craft that did anything at all during the regatta will receive one of the 128 cups, plaques, and other prizes for daily races as well as championships. Some of the 1500 odd yachtsmen have left the regatta and planning to return for the annual Carnival of Sail Balboa Bay tomorrow when the fleet will cast off tomorrow for home waters. RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

THE scarcity of first-class boxing attractions in Los Angeles is pretty well indicated by the failure of Hayden Wadhams to line up a match to replace the postponed Baby Joe Gans-Mushy Callahan fight at Vernon next Tuesday night. With the injury to Mushy's eye occurring six days before the Vernon fortnightly show date "Wad" was unable to line up more than two possible matches. Of the four candidates which seemed available, two of them—Georgie Rivers and Izzy Schwartz—were under contract to Tom Gallery for two additional fights at Hollywood. Sailor Jimmy Byrne was available for a squabble with George Godfrey, but the latter, somewhere en route from New York, could not be located. Wherefore the lot of a matchmaker is a hard one, and Vernon will be dark next Tuesday.

Our old friend George Hussey has forsaken the byways and highways of pugilistic conversation for the proprietorship of a neat little coffee shop on North Vermont avenue, where he is catering to old friends and new ones. Those familiar with George know him as a walking encyclopedia on sport affairs, particularly baseball and pugilism. For years he ran a "home-town" paper stand on Hill street, but this is his first venture at the coffee-shop racket. You know George is one of the boys when you enter his little munching dispensary because the north wall of the establishment is adorned with striking pictures of George and his buddies, Ace Hudkins, Mushy Callahan and others. George has enough pictures to cover all the walls, but Ma Hussey has limited him so far to a very conservative section. And as she is responsible for the piece de resistance of the place, the coffee, she is Boss with a capital B.

Rapid approach of the football season is indicated by the return of our college-graduate managers from what they term their "summer vacations." While there is a suspicion in some regions that the graduate manager has a perpetual vacation in the grand and glorious summer time, Messrs. Gwynn Wilson and Phil Ellsworth of U.S.C. and Occidental, respectively, indignantly deny this. Both swear with hand over heart they have been working hard this summer and that their short respite from hard mental labor was duly earned and deserved. At any rate each is willing to testify that the forthcoming pigskin season is to be the greatest in history, which is what we all hope and pray for.

GIRL CONQUERS CHANNEL

from any claims and criticism should she be lost beneath the waves.

Ederle was adamant, however, pointing out that Trudie had yet to object to continuing on. Margaret sided with him. All others on the tug agreed that achieving her ambition on this try was now humanly impossible. Finally some one losing his head shouted from the Alsace:

"Come out, girl, come out!"

Trudie, unaware of the excited debate aboard the tug, heard and turned in amazement to ask:

"What for?"

Never once changing from her powerful, long crawl stroke and resting only the few times she took nourishment, Trudie plied indomitably on and on to vindicate her proud parents' confidence in her and at no time showed any sign of weakening.

WEARS OUT PACERS

She wore out three capable swimmers who took the water at intervals to swim beside and lend encouragement to her—first Ishak Helmy, the giant Egyptian channel aspirant; then her sister, Margaret, although she was able to return to the water again in the late stages of the epochal performance, and also Lillian Cannon, the Baltimore swimmer, who, with a fine show of sportsmanship, swam beside her and chatted gaily with her rival when the going was very rough. And she completely ran away from Louis Timson, an English swimmer, who had come out from Dover in a small motor boat to cheer Trudie on.

Both Helmy and Miss Cannon became slightly seasick, but not so Gertrude. When the terrific wind and vicious seas made vocal communication from tug to swimmer impossible, cheering messages were written on a blackboard and the board lowered over the side for Trudie to read. These included messages of encouragement from America received by wireless aboard the Alsace.

As night began to settle over the turbulent waters and a heavy rain set in, when Trudie was about a mile off the English coast and swimming down the third tide of her journey the cold, racing sweep of water down from the North Sea, she stopped talking and settled down to the serious business of finishing this brutal task.

PUT DOWN FEARS

By now the tug captain and Miss Ederle's trainer had put down their fears and recovered somewhat from their amazement and returned to confidence in the girl's astonishing fortitude and stamina and were shouting assurances to her that she could not fail to succeed now.

Red, green and blue flares were dotting the coast line from Deal to South Foreland when finally Trudie made her last, speedy dash. She gave all she had for this gesture of triumph and her progress through the raging water to the surf line was at an incredible rate.

The Alsace had to stand out a bit, but we watched her plow on through the heavy rollers, head through the foaming surf, and, as a wave receded, stand erect on the sandy beach.

Trudie was IN—her goal attained—but far from all in, as the slangists phrase it. After what the expedition had been through, we on the tug could scarcely believe our eyes. It seemed too good to be true. A woman—our Trudie—had crossed the channel under her own power.

The now-centered searchlights showed that she was soon swallowed up in a welcoming throng, hastily drawn from far and near along the coast. But soon she was made out tearing away from the hand wringers, heading back for the surf.

HELD IN CHECK

Kindly hands had difficulty in restraining her from going back into the water again. She later explained it had occurred to her that all these welcomers were strangers and that she had friends—good friends— aboard the good old Alsace, and relatives, too.

She had meant to swim back to the Alsace and thank those who had aided her to accomplish whatever it was she had accomplished—in her dazed, if happy state, she could not be sure, as she later admitted, just what it was all about.

From the sea, the first person to reach her was a correspondent of a press association aboard the tug La Morinie, which had caught up with Trudie and her official accompanying tug three hours out of Gris Nez. The Morinie was heavy-laden with correspondents, photographers and newspaper cameramen, but about an hour before she touched the sands of England the Morinie's wireless had failed, and having nothing better to do, the correspondent, in his enthusiasm over his countrywoman's victory over the relentless sea, had gone overboard in his street attire and swam in to personally congratulate her.

DELIRIUM OF JOY

Aboard the Alsace there was a delirium of joy. Margaret went overboard before a rowboat was lowered. Pop Ederle danced a jig of joy. Burgess was all but overcome by the excitement of the climax he had done so much to make possible.

Although the aged Briton who swam the channel in 1911 misjudged Trudie's mettle in her darkest hour, his knowledge of winds and tides and conditioning for the channel swim had meant very much, indeed, to Gertrude and in a general way she followed all the way th ecourse he had outlined weeks ago. She has traversed almost identically the route he had chosen, up to the eighth hour. Thereafter she wavered to the east and then to the north of her intended course, due chiefly to the stormy seas that delayed her approach to the dreaded Godwin Sands, the Waterloo of countless would-be channel swimmers.

Trudie said nothing while she was on shore being lionized by the welcoming thousands for a brief period. As she explained later she was too bewildered by it all to think of anything to say. But when she entered a row-boat to board the Alsace to race to Dover to spend the night, she said:

"Well, pop, I guess I get my roadster."

HEAVY WINNER

Pa Ederle had promised her the gift of an automobile, if she succeeded in negotiating the channel. He can well afford it for he had wagered $25,000 against $175,000 through Lloyd's that she would succeed.

When she returned to the tug and clambered nimbly aboard and said:

"I'm all right, but I cannot realize what it's all about. I guess everything's all right, so long as I made it. I'm the first woman to swim it, am I not?"

She refused solid food and wanted only to rest on a couch in the cabin as the tug proceeded at full speed for Dover. After a time she demanded pineapple to ease her swollen and severely cut tongue. Her face was slightly swollen, too, and she was very cold and sleepy, but cheerful and seemingly far from exhaustion.

"I can freeze now," she remarked, with a broad grin.

SHUNTS TRUDIE

Burgess had planned for her to finish her swim very near to Dover, to the Folkestone side of that port but when she was carried farther north than expected and when it was apparent she was yet strong enough to breast the southwestering third tide slantwise and cut into King's Down, the wise trainer shunted Trudie in that way. Moreover, the tide veered to the east after 9 o'clock and Burgess was quick to have Trudie snap up this advantage.

Corthes, the tug captain, also gave Trudie truly marvelous assistance by his expert accompaniment of the swimmer. He is the only man in the world who has piloted both a successful man and a successful woman across the channel. Besides the American girl, he piloted Charles Toth of Boston who accomplished the exploit in 1923 in rixteen hours, and forty minutes, and was the last person to make the crossing of the water until Miss Ederle today.

En route to Dover, Trudie declared:

"I can't yet realize I did it. I probably never will fully realize it."

WEEPS WITH JOY

Burgess kissed her again on the cheek as he did just before she entered the water in France. He wept from joy and was speechless for some time from his great emotion.

To those who observed the champion trotting up on the King's Down Beach it seemed incredible that she could just have ended probably the severest swimming test in all history. She was pretty well tuckered out, however, when she and her party came ashore at Dover late tonight and took lodgings at the Grand Hotel. There was considerable delay in landing due to the party's lack of passports.

Trudie revealed that she experienced cramps shortly after she began her momentus swim, but she said she quickly "wore them off" and at no time considered quitting the water until she could walk out on English territory. When she retired to well-merited slumber she was still incredulous of what she had been told of the lack of confidence in her, at one trying stage of the swim, displayed by all aboard the Alsace but her two kinfolk.

FOLWELL TO COACH PHILADELPHIA CLUB

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6. (AP)—Robert Folwell, former Navy and Pennsylvania football coach, has been signed to coach the Philadelphia club in the new American football league of which William H. "Big Bill" Edwards of New York is president.

This announcement was made today in connection with a meeting of the supporters of the club interested in putting professional football on a substantial basis here. The team has been nicknamed the "Quakers." Games will be played on Saturdays in the new Sesquicentennial Stadium. The season will open October 2 and extend until December 4.

BECKWITH COPS AT SANTA ANA

Rancho Veteran Leads Fine Field With 153

Hoyt Collects Net Trophy in Medal Tourney

Foursome Feature Closes Invitation Today

BY BILL WISE

W. W. Beckwith of Rancho, 80 at the turn, rallied after lunch to come home with a 73 for a thirty-six-hole aggregate of 153 and low-gross divisional prize in the two-day medal tourney that opened at the Santa Ana club, yesterday.

W. W. BECKWITH.

Otis Hoyt of Virginia threw a scare into the field of more than 100 entrants by chalking up a 76 in the morning, but slipped and saved his handicap rating and finished with an 83 for a thirty-six-hole aggregate of 159-20—139, for the low-net prize awarded over the long route.

M. B. Lacy of Long Beach scored a 76 also, and tied with Homer Martin of La Cumbre for the special low-gross prize in the morning play. M. B. Lacy, with 76-8—68, tied with T. A. Lawrence of Rio Hondo, 84-16—68, for morning low-net prize.

Leon Clark led the Long Beach parade in the afternoon, touring Pro Ike Rigby's snappy course in 76 for the afternoon low-gross trophy, while a clubmate, H. M. Hubbard, with 81-12—69, collected the low-net prize.

The invitational will conclude with a best-ball foursome event today. The medal event has been substituted in place of the advertised match-play-against-par foursome event. A. H. Painter, tourney official, dropped the starting flag for a whole flock of local golfers. Ben Burton, Wilshire, and several others will make a second try for additional trophies that will be awarded all winners today.

Yesterday's low scores were as follows:

W. W. Beckwith	80-73—153
J. M. Reid	78-78—156
I. W. Mason	79-79—158
M. B. Lacy	76-82—158
E. M. Jones	80-78—158
Otis Hoyt	76-83—159
Homer Martin	76-83—159
A. E. Storer	83-78—161
F. G. Smith	79-82—161
E. B. Stanley	83-81—164
L. H. Robinson	83-83—166
Les Hendle	82-84—166
M. H. Hubbard	87-81—168
Robert Payne	84-84—168

MUNNALLY HURRIES TO SET GIRARD RECORD

Jay Munnally, playing against time, established a new course record at the Girard Country Club yesterday when he covered the eighteen holes in 69 minutes and turned in a card of 71. Munally covered the first nine holes in thirty-nine minutes, taking a 34, and went over the second nine in fifty minutes, coming home with a 37.

Considering that he played in such a hurry, Munally's course-record score is all the more remarkable.

Jess Puryear announces that the Girard Club will stage a match play against par tournament today.

Herrington is Star of Day in Net Event

PORTLAND, Aug. 6. (AP)—California players monopolized the Oregon State tennis tournament, which reached the finals in two events and semifinals in three here today. Alan Herrington of Los Angeles, and Ray D. Johnson of Berkeley, teamed in the men's doubles, won the championship of that event from Henry Neer and Gardner Brown, Portland juniors, 6-4, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2.

Marion Leachman and Mrs. Ream Leachman of California won the women's doubles title from Alberta Edtle, Tacoma, and Stella Fording, ex-Portland champion, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4.

In the singles, Alan Herrington further distinguished himself by defeating Catlin Wolfard of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-3, to reach the finals.

Henry Neer, only Portland star left in the tournament, defeated Ray Johnson in one of the most spectacular matches of the meet, 3-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. Ream Leachman and Carolyn Swartz, both of California, will play for the women's title tomorrow as a result of victories today, the former over Stella Fording, 6-3, 6-4, and the latter over Mrs. J. P. Mackie, Portland champion, 6-0, 6-1.

Alan Herrington and Carolyn Swartz defeated Rosemarie Brunn and Walter A. Goss, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, and Ray Johnson and Mrs. J. H. Mackie won from Marion Green and Jack Rhine, 7-5, 6-4, to reach the finals of the third mixed doubles. Title matches in all events will be played tomorrow.

LEFEBVRE TO COACH SOLDIER ATHLETES

Henry Lefebvre, fullback for three years at the University of Southern California, has signed a contract to take charge of all athletics during the coming season at the Pacific Military Academy at Culver City. Lefebvre was one of the five gridsters who completed their careers at Southern California this spring and is the second to sign a coaching contract. Capt. Hobbs Adams recently signed to coach at Monrovia.

DECATUR GETS ACORN HURLER

OAKLAND (Cal.) Aug. 6. (AP) Alvin (Buck) Freeman, right-handed pitcher of the Oakland Club, was sold outright today to the Decatur Club of the Three-I League. He will report to Decatur immediately.

Freeman came to Oakland last spring from the Western League.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER, BILL HENRY

ELIZABETH (BUNNY) RYAN stood nobly by the prediction of the proprietor of this column to the effect that she'd beat Helen Wills yesterday. The Santa Monica girl is one of the smartest players in the world, largely through her long association with Suzanne Lenglen, and to the smart tennis player Helen Wills is not the invincible wonder that she is to the average racket wielder. Mechanically and temperamentally and physically, Helen Wills is the perfect tennis player but she invariably finds trouble when playing against smart and experienced old heads who persist in trying to give her something to hit at that she doesn't want.

Gertrude Ederle's accomplishment in swimming the English Channel is a wonderful tribute to her strength and speed. There can be no question as to the difficulty of making the big swim—too many husky males have been turned back—but the great question was whether or not it was possible to make the entire distance swimming the crawl stroke. Yours truly was present in the Sydney Domain Baths down in Australia in 1910 when Cecil Healy, a sprinter, swam a full mile using the crawl, coming within a few seconds of the world's record. That was about the first time the Australians, who were leading the world at that time, ever believed that it could be done.

In the old days the breast stroke was regarded as the one and only method of aquatic navigation. How anybody ever swam any distance using that unnatural and exhausting stroke is more than we can understand and yet the first crossing of the channel was accomplished by Capt. Webb who never used any other means. After that came the trudgeon stroke, a double overarm with a scissors kick, and all world's records went by the boards. This was folowed by the Australian crawl and that has since been superceded by the American crawl which Miss Ederle used to conquer the channel yesterday.

The advantage of the fast crawl stroke is amply demonstrated by the time made by Miss Ederle. Crossing the channel is very largely a matter of tides and, through her great speed, Miss Ederle was able to get across almost twice as fast as the doughty captain.

four-rounder, resulted in Jimmy Laventhal getting an unpopular decision over Leo Mitchell. The pair are also middleweights. Capt. Bob Roper, who has deserted the fighting end of the game to become a referee, was the third man in the ring and his verdict was loudly hooted. Morrie Eagleson won over Phil Cohen in the four-round curtain-raiser.

JOHNSTON, WETHERBY PLAY FOR GOLF TITLE

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 6. (AP)—The State amateur golf championship will be decided tomorrow between Harrison Johnston of White Bear, St. Paul, the champion, and J. K. Wetherby of the Minneapolis club.

Johnston went into the finals today by defeating Art Tveras of the Superior Golf Club, Minneapolis, 11 and 10, while Wetherby overcame Hunter Sheldon of Rochester, Minn., 9 and 8, in the thirty-six-hole third-round matches at the country club here.

This will be the second time Johnston and Wetherby have met for the Minnesota championship. They clashed in the finals in 1922, and Johnston was the victor.

EVA MEFFORD COPS LAKE TAHOE SWIM

TAHOE VISTA (Cal.) Aug. 6. (AP) Eva Mefford of the Fleischhacker Swimming Club, San Francisco, won the Brockway-Tahoe Vista Marathon swim of two and one quarter miles in an hour and four minutes today. She broke the record established by Helen Zabriskie by 28 minutes, 20 1-5 seconds. Gloria Scigliano, also of the Fleishhacker club, was second, making the time in an hour and seven minutes. Miss Mefford swam a straight crawl for the entire distance.

SUZANNE LENGLEN TO BATTLE GERMAN STAR

LONDON, Aug. 5. (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen, says the Geneva correspondent of the Daily Mail, will play a tennis match at St. Moritz, Switzerland, August 15, with Fraulein Withermann. Such a match, it is commented, would be the first official meeting of French and German tennis players since the war.

RITCHIE DEFENDS TITLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6. (AP)—George Ritchie, San Francisco, has announced he will defend his title in the California State Fair golf championship at Sacramento, September, 4, 5 and 6. The tournament will be played at the Del Paso Country Club.

DEMPSEY PICKS PARTNERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Jack Dempsey divided his attention today between his legal and fighting affairs. The heavyweight champion completed arrangements to resume training here next Monday, discussed with Tex Rickard the moves that will be made Tuesday to obtain licenses for the match with Gene Tunney, and discussed with his attorney phases of the claims of his services held by Chicago interests.

As proof of his desire for fistic action, Dempsey approved the selection of nine sparring partners for workouts that will begin in a gymnasium here Monday and continue until he is able to shift his activities to his camp at Saratoga Springs. In the list of sparring mates are Sergt. Jack Adams of St. Louis, Marty Burke of New Orleans and Ray Neuman of Jersey City, heavyweights, in addition to several lighter men designed to develop the titleholder's speed.

Tiger Flowers, Georgia negro who holds the world's middleweight championship, and Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia light-heavyweight, are slated to join Dempsey's cast at Saratoga Springs later.

What is the matter with him?

HE WENT swimming—that's all. And his hair makes him uncomfortably conspicuous. Swimming plays havoc with the hair. After a dip your hair is not only unruly and tousled—it is dry and brittle. Water, wind and sun are deleterious to the healthful natural oils of the scalp and hair follicles. . . .

There's a quick, sure, economical way to protect your hair from this danger to hair-health and hair-neatness. Apply Glo-Co, the liquid hair dressing, before going into the water. There is nothing else like it. It is not sticky or messy. It not only protects the hair, but it makes war on dandruff—goes right to the hair roots and stimulates healthful growth. After a swim just a little Glo-Co keeps the hair soft, lustrous, well-behaved. No more conspicuous cowlicks, scalp locks, or stubborn shocks of hair. But be sure you get the original and genuine Glo-Co; beware of preparations with imitative names. Look for the blue and gold package.

Glo-Co Shampoo is a wonderful antiseptic cleanser. Use Glo-Co Liquid Hair Dressing and Glo-Co Shampoo together. Glo-Co every morning! Ask for Glo-Co preparations at any drug or department store, or at your barber's. If your dealer cannot supply you, send us $1.00 for a full-sized bottle of each preparation. Address Glo-Co Company, Dept. NP, 6511 McKinley Avenue, Los Angeles, Cal.

CHEERFUL CHAFF

BY TIMES READERS

WRITE FOR THE "MOVIES" AND WIN CASH PRIZES

The Los Angeles Times produces a popular fun reel called "Cheerful Chaff," consisting of the twelve best jokes submitted weekly by readers. Twelve $1 prizes are awarded each week, the names and addresses of winners, together with prize-winning jokes appearing on the screen.

Everyone is invited to send in jokes. No formal letter is necessary. Just jot down your jokes, as many as you wish, sign your name and address, and mail to "Cheerful Chaff Editor," Los Angeles Times. Jokes for the screen must not exceed thirty words.

Meritorious jokes too long or otherwise not adapted for screen use, are accorded a place of honor on The Times' comic page, receiving a souvenir of acknowledgment.

Standard Oils	14

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Completing its first twenty-four hours with an actually gauged output of 1253 barrels of absolutely clean oil, testing 24.1 degrees gravity, the Marland Oil Company's Bixby No. 2 has definitely demonstrated its right to be called the discovery well of the Seal Beach field. Although two previous wells, one of them the Marland's Bixby No. 1, found oil at Seal Beach, it was not in commercial quantity, and neither well was really on the Seal Beach structure.

A survey of the leases held at Seal Beach indicates that only three companies are likely to be affected by the Marland completion, although there is considerable acreage which is not yet tied up, most of this being the Bryant property recently quite claimed by the Shell Company, and the south half of the Bixby lease of which the Marland holds the north half.

According to the Marland theory, the new field lies northwest from the discovery well on a line with the Signal Hill field. If this is correct the Marland Company has a good chance for production on a good part of its Bixby lease which totals 250 acres, and on most of its Selover McGrath property aggregating about 150 acres. The Standard Oil Company has about 300 acres lying between the Bixby and Selover & Graham tracts on property owned by the Alamitos Land & Water Company. Most of this would be good acreage if the field does extend northwest from the Bixby No. 2. A portion of the Bryant tract is also likely to prove productive, and also part of the Bixby property, south of the Marland holdings. The Marland theory does not preclude the possibility of a small part of the Associated Hellman property being in the money.

Drills New Prospect

The Associated Oil Company is preparing to start drilling its fifth prospect well on the Hellman tract on the east side of the Seal Beach field, about one-half mile from the Marland Bixby No. 2. The new prospect will be put down 1500 feet southeast of Hellman Prospect No. 4, which stopped at 1978 feet.

The Associated does not plan any change in its development program as a result of the development on the Bixby property, it is understood. The new well is regarded as affecting the Hellman property favorably in a general way, and until further drilling is done, and the trend of the structure more definitely determined, the Associated will continue with the development program it outlined for the Hellman property more than a year ago.

Empire Gets Well

The Empire Gas & Fuel Company, California operating subsidiary of the Henry Doherty interests of Boston, yesterday completed a new well in the Maricopa Flats district, one location west of the famous Bush No. 1 well of the Transport Oil Company. The Empire well was a re-drill job, and came in from a depth of 3787 feet, producing 400 barrels of oil a day, and 1,200,000 cubic feet of gas.

The Empire Gas & Fuel Company owns forty acres in this district, which is the only active development this company has yet undertaken in California, although the Doherty interests have been active in the California petroleum market for a long time.

Down 4300 Feet

Peter O'Donnell's wildcat well on the west side of Long Beach at Twentieth and Magnolia street is drilling ahead at about 4300 feet, without definite showings, according to field reports. Some gas has been found it is said, but on the whole the well has had about the same showings that are to be found in almost any part of Southern California.

Ventura-avenue Field

The Barnard No. 3-A is another of Ventura's famous deep holes. It was finished at 5825 feet, having been cemented at 4310 feet. From that point to bottom is almost continuous oil-bearing formation, it is asserted. Completion of the Hartman No. 1 by the Bolsa Chica Oil Company, about four weeks ago, just to the north of the Barnard lease, proved the wisdom of drilling that far north.

General Petroleum started its Barnard No. 3-A long before completion of the Hartman No. 1, upon the strength of showings found in the latter, and got a fine producer, owing to the fact that it is somewhat higher up on the structure and considerable deeper than the Bolsa Chica producer.

BUILDING BOND ABUSES UP

Real Estate Financing Investigated in New York; Exchange Is Proposed as Remedy

BY EARLE E. CROWE

It is only natural that a number of abuses in the financing of real estate propositions have arisen in the wake of the tremendous building boom of the last few years. When the public manifests a willingness to invest its money in any kind of a security it becomes a relatively simple matter for the promoters to float the issues of the speculative type, or to disregard the canons of sound financing. The results are now coming to light through the collapse of many of the unsound promotions throughout the country, and the complaints of the disillusioned investor.

Real estate bonds are rated universally as the highest type of investment security. Where they are secured by real property conservatively appraised and the interest charges are covered by a satisfactory margin of earnings the bonds have always fuly justified the faith of the investors and the investment dealers. But the minute the financial interests behind the flotation venture from the field of investment financing into speculative financing the danger sign automatically is run up. This, of course, is axiomatic throughout the entire investment business.

WARNINGS SOUNDED

For some time the various associations of building owners and operators have warned against the excessive overbuilding in certain cities and in certain parts of cities, of office and apartment buildings. They have pointed out that the figures of vacancies in these areas are easily available to the builders and their financial backers if they wish to avoid the dangers of an unprofitable investment. Apparently, however, the ease of selling real estate bonds has overswept the judgment of some of the mortgage and banking houses, and the investor is left to pay the toll.

In recent months, particularly in some of the eastern cities, a flood of interest defaults on real estate bonds has excited more than passing interest. One large firm specializing in the underwriting and sale of real estate bonds has become involved in serious financial difficulties, with the result that the Attorney-General of New York State has begun an investigation into the firms handling real estate bonds in that State. The investigation is to determine whether abuses exist, and whether the sale of this type of bond should be regulated by the courts or the Legislature.

IMPROVEMENT POSSIBLE

The remedy, it is plain, should come from the real estate mortgage bankers themselves. Regulation is always distasteful to business, and usually steps are taken by the business involved to eliminate the causes for complaint when the danger of regulation threatens. One of the New York real estate houses has suggested that a national association should be formed to draft and enforce a code of practices for the first mortgage real estate bond houses to follow. A dictatorship over the association similar to the ones in force in the motion pictures and in baseball was also suggested.

Any national code of practices, setting forth a standard method of appraisal, the percentage of appraisal that can be safely capitalized by the sale of bonds, and providing for the approval by the association of all first mortgage financing, unquestionably would improve the situation. Probably the most decisive step, however, in the direction of remedial efforts comes from another method of approach.

From New York yesterday it was announced that a real estate bond exchange will be established for the purpose of creating a national market for first mortgage real estate bonds. The movement is sponsored by some of the more important houses in New York specializing in this field. What this exchange will do will be to establish discount and premium prices for the bonds that now are sold at a par figure. As on the New York Stock Exchange, where stock and bond prices reflect the opinion and knowledge of the public, the proposed exchange will allow real estate bond buyers to know the true value of the securities they own or propose to buy. It will eliminate arbitrary values.

Standard Oil of New York in Dividend Boost

Dividend Rate Increased to $1.60 Annually; Policy of Company Changed

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—The directorate of the Standard Oil Company of New York today declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share, placing the stock on an annual basis of $1.60. The previous rate was $1.40. The dividend is paying September 15, on stock of record August 7.

The 40-cent dividend declared today makes that company one of the largest dividend payers on common stock in the Standard Oil group, being exceeded only by Standard Oil of Indiana which this year will distribute close to $32,000,000 including extras. Since the Standard of New York paid a stock dividend early this year of 25 per cent the new $1.60 basis is equal to $2 annually on the stock held prior to the stock dividend.

On the basis of all General Petroleum shares being exchanged one for two into the Standard of New York the latter would have 16,700,000 shares issued on which a dividend of $1.60 would mean an annual disbursement of $26,720,000.

NEW BUSINESS OF GAS FIRM JUMPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—The new business department of Henry L. Doherty & Co., reports an increase of 30.1 per cent in the sales of gas and electric appliances and installations for the first six months of this year. Total sales during the period were $4,494,171, as compared with $3,302,538 for the same period a year ago.

DRIED FRUITS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Evaporated apples, inactive; prunes, quiet; apricots and peaches unsettled; raisins steady.

DEMAND FOR WOOL ONLY MODERATE

Survey Says Domestics Lead; Medium Qualities Also Strong Feature

BOSTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow.

The demand for wool continues moderately with prices steady. Domestic wools are chiefly in demand and medium qualities are relatively the strongest feature of the market. Operations in the West are at low ebb.

Reports from the mills indicate the receipts of rather better orders, which have been reflected in a slightly larger volume of business in yarns and tops, which are being sold on a very narrow margin of profit.

The foreign markets are generally firm and Bradford is rather more optimistic.

Mohair is very firm.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1926, to August 5, 1926, inclusive, were 114,470,000 pounds, against 96,836,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1926, to August 5, 1926, inclusive, were 254,379,857 pounds, against 211,275,400 pounds for the same period last year.

The following quotations will appear in the bulletin:

Scoured basis—Texas, fine twelve months (selected), 1.08@1.12; fine eight months, 85@90.

California—Northern, 1.05@1.07; middle county, 95@97; southern, 75@85.

Oregon—Eastern fine staple, 1.10@1.12; fine and F. M. clothing, 90@95; valley No. 1, 93@95.

Territory, Montana and similar—Fine staple choice, 1.16@1.15; half-blood combing, 1.00@1.02; three-eighths blood combing, 85@92; quarter blood combing, 78@80.

Pulled—Delaine, 1.13@1.15; AA, 1.10@1.12; fine A supers, 1.00@1.05; A supers, 90@95.

Mohairs—Best combing, 65@70; best carding, 80@85.

Trade Review Notes Signs of Gains Increase

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP) — Dun's tomorrow will say:

The present comparative activity of business during what is normally the quietest period of the year continues to attract attention. Mid-August is not the time to expect commercial expansion, yet evidences of it appear now in some channels and the position of different sellers has been visibly strengthened. After eight consecutive months of decline, Dun's price index number is at the lowest point since the spring of 1924, but the latest recession is very slight and occurred entirely in foodstuffs. The downward course of markets for some important commodities has been checked recently, and various breaks, though adhering closely to a conservative policy, have shown less hesitation in their operations. With general trade disclosing more vigor than had been anticipated earlier in the year, commitments are being made now with increased confidence, and optimism regarding fall prospects is the ruling sentiment.

Weekly bank clearings $9,389,158,000.

AIRPLANE ORDERS OF FORD RUNNING HIGH

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. announces it has on hand orders for 100 airplanes with a market value of approximately $3,700,000. Production on the first ten will be started at once in the present factory and the remainder will be turned out rapidly as possible after a new factory is put in operation about the 15th inst.

WOOLWORTH SALES CONTINUE UPTURN

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Retail sales of the F. W. Woolworth Co. for the first seven months of this year were $126,594,052, an increase of 6.27 per cent over the same period last year. July sales this year were $19,395,272 compared with $17,829,451 for July last year.

CONDITION OF STATE TREASURY REPORTED

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Cash on hand in the State treasury July 29, totaled $40,001,468, says a report issued today by the State Board of Control. Of this sum $30 was in gold, $9,352.41 in silver, currency and small change, and the rest in exchange or certificates of deposit.

HARVEST OF CALIFORNIA CROPS LARGE

Santa Fe Executive Sees 2,000,000 Ton Output for Grapes; Movement On

With a substantial increase in the acreage of practically all major crops and a higher average yield per acre indicated, California farmers are looking forward to one of the most successful harvests in recent years, J. F. Jarrell, agricultural manager of the Santa Fe, announced yesterday in his monthly farm analysis. Weather conditions for the last thirty days have been favorable for all crops in California.

"Grapes are moving in solid trains," Mr. Jarrell said, "and it is estimated that the production will be 2,000,000 tons. The yield of deciduous fruits has been exceptionally heavy. Production of apricots, plums, prunes and cherries will be heavier than last year. The yield of olives will be small, but prices will be good. The condition of almonds is 91 per cent of normal and walnuts, 55 per cent.

"Cantaloupe production in the Salt River Valley of Arizona for the season just closed was good, approximately 3500 carloads having been shipped. The rice acreage has been increased slightly and there will be a crop of 8,400,000 bushels. The wheat yield will be about 15,000,000 bushels, and 5,250,000 bushels of oats are forecast. Barley shows an increase and Irish potatoes a small decrease in acreage. The condition of cotton is 99 per cent. There will be a very good alfalfa yield."

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Another tropical storm, although as far out as Bermuda, attracted so much attention in the cotton trade this morning that it checked the decline in the market on the apprehension that it might work toward the Atlantic Coast over Sunday.

Nothing in the forecast indicated that the storm would take such a course but unexpected heavy rains in North Carolina overnight and the Weather Bureau's forecast for showers and thunderstorms tomorrow for all Atlantic States and Alabama more than offset the weaker and lower Liverpool cables in the early trading there.

Spots in that market fell 6 English points from yesterday's 22 decline to 9 3-4d for middling and futures declined 2 to 4 points from some further Liverpool and Continental liquidation and hedging.

Instead of our market opening about 10 points off there was a rush of local traders to cover shorts. It was figured that as prices had gone off 80 points on the average or $4 a bale, from the recent high levels on the last week's liquidation and southern selling, the market was due to have a good rally on this sudden change to unfavorable weather conditions in the eastern part of the belt.

The outlook though in the Central and Western States continued today to remain favorable for the progress of the crops there.

Prices accordingly started with a rise of 12 to 15 points. This was increased to about 25 on the average for the general contract list before the end of the noon hour. Liverpool finally closed firm at 13 to 16 points net advance on the day.

Here October went up to 17.56c; December, 17.47c; January, 17.50c; March, 17.68c, and May, 17.7-8c before enough new local trade and southern liquidation came in to check the rise. It continues so much a weather market that the daily weather news and forecasts are now making it sensitive to sudden fluctuations from any apparent change in the conditions calculated to affect the progress of the crop now in the full stage of its development throughout the entire belt.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

BY WILLIAM FEATHER

THE basis of all efficiency is common sense. Or better yet, efficiency is common sense.

A man who preaches efficiency sixteen hours a day, and fails to practice efficiency in the process, needs a rest to regain his equilibrium.

Nature won't put up with that sort of thing. Nature has a way of taking us in hand every now and then.

Any system of efficiency that doesn't put good health at the top of the list of human assets is constructed on a foundation of quicksand.

To ill health can be traced most of our misery, shiftlessness and laziness.

A man in good health has the energy, initiative, judgment and skill that are denied the man in ill health.

To overlook health in the scramble to do a bigger day's work is as foolish as advertising for new customers while the old customers are walking out through inattention.

NEW FINANCING AT LOW EBB

Lack of Interest at Period of Unusual Activity On Stock Market Discussed by Garrett

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—It is an interesting commentary on the financial markets that, at a season of unusual activity in stocks, interest in the new capital flotations runs low. This week is distinguished for the facts that it has presented the liveliest midsummer market in the history of the stock exchange and the smallest volume of new bond issues for any week this year to date.

Increased activity in stocks usually lessens for the time the interest in bonds but the dearth of new issues must be explained in large part, of course, by the season of year. When salesmen and investors are away on vacation, borrowers see no advantage in pressing their demand for new capital.

Absence from the city would not be so effective an argument for delays in new financing, however, if prospective borrowers entertained any very serious doubts as to what the future price of money might be.

Apparently the finance committees of the country's borrowing companies feel that funds still will be available in abundance this autumn and that no danger exists of greatly increased money rates. If the banking institutions did not have faith in the future money market they would now be more active in endeavoring to persuade industry to take advantage of the present favorable conditions for obtaining funds.

Another thing is that the majority of our public utilities, industrial concerns and railroads in need of financing have already taken advantage of the ease in money to obtain funds. The leading power and light companies not only have financed various expansion programs in anticipation of future growth, but at various periods in the last two or three years have gradually been replacing their high coupon obligations by offerings of issues that bear lower interest rates.

As European affairs improve and it becomes possible to market securities here on a basis more favorable to the borrower, the demand for loans from that quarter will increase. Plans now in the making also indicate a greater volume of financing by domestic corporations in future months than has appeared this summer.

Silver in New Drop as India Flood Looms

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—The prospective reduction in the silver reserves of the Indian government, under the plan of the Royal Currency Commission to establish the gold standard in India, caused another sharp break in the price of bar silver today. The quotation in New York was lowered more than a cent to 61 5-8 cents an ounce, the lowest since August, 1921.

Recommendations of the currency commission to establish the Indian rupee on a gold basis provide that paper money in that country will cease to be convertible into silver after confidence is established in paper issued after a gold reserve is once established.

Over the next ten years it is estimated that nearly 400,000,000 ounces of silver will be thrown upon the market as a result of the change.

UNITED OIL IRREGULAR; UNION GAINS

Standard of California in Recovery; Los Angeles Investment Strengthens

United Oil continued to feature trading in the oil list of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, although moving in an irregular manner with considerable profit-taking. The stock opened 1-4 point higher at 77 7-8 and advanced to 78 1-4, but reacted to a close at 77 1-8, the same as on Thursday.

Julian Petroleum preferred added 1-4 to 14 7-8, and the common moved up 1-8 of a point to 2 5-8. Union Oil of California sold up to 54 1-2 in the morning and closed at 54 3-8, a net gain of 1-4 of a point, while Associates was inactive. Standard of California was stronger and advanced to 60, closing at 59 3-4, a gain of 1-2 over the previous day's close.

The favorable earnings statement of Los Angeles Investment sent that stock up 7 points to 3.22, with a close at 3.20. Southern California Edison common rallied to 32 and closed at 31 7-8, a fractional net gain. There was considerable trading in the 6 per cent preferred at 25 and 25 1-8, the stock closing firm at the latter figure. The 7 per cent preferred held at 28 1-8.

Bancitaly Corporation closed fractionally lower at 80 1-4, after touching 80 1-2. Bank of Italy sold firm at 455.

San Francisco Gold recovered the loss of 1 point on the previous day and closed at 15. North Star added 1-2 of a point to 9, and Boundary Cone held firm at 7 1-2. Lucky Boy Mining advanced 1 point to 6, but reacted to a close at 5. Big Jim lost 1-2 to 16, and Gold Dust held firm at 7.

London Daily Radio

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The markets were becalmed today because Parliament separated without settlement of the coal deadlock. The franc reacted to 167, but if it was due to the Bank of France sales it probably was a good feature, as the Bank of France bill gives power to the bank to deal either way in currencies.

Poincare is apparently recognizing the inadvisability of repeating the 1924 performance of occasioning a sensational rally in the franc on the mere cornering of the bears.

The French bank returns shows that further big expansions in currency is largely connected with enormous discounts and dissatisfaction here concerning the tardiness of the government in making clear plans for the stabilization of currency.

So long as stabilization is deferred and credit inflated without limit the Bank of France rate must be a feeble weapon. Newspapers are handling tactfully the American mission to London to investigate war seizure claims and the whole matter is regarded as a purely business affair.

BOND QUOTATIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—French issues again today featured trading in the bond market, the 7s of that country touched a new high for the year at 92 1-4, on heavy buying, but shaded off at the last for a net change of quarter down for the day. French 7 1-2s and 8s held their gains of the last few days closing 1-2 and 1-4 higher, respectively.

Some of the other French bonds, however, that have absorbed strength from the revival of the government issues were heavy today, slipping off fractionally to a full point. These included Lyons 6s, Marseille 6s, Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s and 7s, and Seine 7s. Nord Railways 6 1-2s on the other hand were well taken at a three-quarters advance.

Polish, Swiss and Chile 8s also were fractionally lower and the Belgian issues varied from 3-8 higher to 1-8 lower.

The domestic list drifted indolently for the most part. Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s continued to climb, mounting 3-4, and International Telephone and Telegraph was up 5-8 on heavy buying. Warner Sugar 7s of 1941, and 7s of 1939 were up 2 3-4 and 2 1-8.

Among the rails, St. Louis and Iron Mountain River and Gulf Division 4s, were up a half on a big turnover, and Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s jumped 1 1-4 also on heavy trading. Other rails showing strength included Great Northern 5s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas adjustment 5s, St. Louis-San Francisco income 6s, Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s, Pennsylvania 7s of 1964, and Southern Pacific refunding 4s. Southern Pacific convertible 4s, St. Louis-San Francisco adjustment 6s, and Seaboard Air Line 6s of 1945, however, were slightly lower. Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul bonds were mostly stationary.

Anaconda 7s were well taken at 8-8 advance. Liberties were steady.

The quotations represent sales or bonds (in thousands of dollars), and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, signs are omitted when same as low, and both bid and asked when same as high.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Stock prices displayed a firm tone in the curb market today with trading enlivened by vigorous selective buying of several industrial issues. Special developments affecting individual stocks accounted for an expansion in activity.

One of the conspicuous features of the day's trading was a sharp advance in Warner Brothers' picture shares to a new high record at 18 1-2, following the successful introduction of a new type of film. The closing price of 17 3-8 represented a gain of 1 3-8 points on the day.

Having discounted an increase in dividends, Standard Oil of New York failed to respond to the establishment of the stock on a $1.60 annual basis. After holding on for a time at yesterday's final price, the shares eased off fractionally at the close. Bornes-Scrymser, Ohio Oil, Solar Refining and other members of the Standard group were active and higher.

The announcement that control of Johns-Manville, Inc., would remain in the Manville family as a result of recent stock purchases accounted for a jump of 7 points in this stock. Beaver Board issues sold at new high prices for the year. Buying of National Sugar Refining which advanced more than 4 points was explained by the strength of refined sugar prices due to heavy purchases for canning purposes.

Trading in Durant Motors quieted down after its recent 6-point rise which was associated with reports that the company might be liquidated and its assets distributed to stockholders. Stutz Motors also turned heavy, losing more than a point. Glen Alden Coal was conspicuously strong.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

prominent that net earnings of more than 1 made in the first six months of the year were the largest of any corresponding period in history. The financial papers made the best showing. Atchison touched a new high record at 142 1-4. New York Central advanced to 137 7-8, the highest price since 1909 and Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, Reading, St. Louis Southwestern and Southern Railway showed net gains of 1 to nearly 3 points.

Trading in General Motors and United States Steel common quieted down considerably, although the former moved more than 3 points higher to 147 5-8 and the latter showed a small fractional gain at 150 3-8. Motor issues were found, however, among the high-priced industrial specialties. Loose-Wiles Biscuit was the foremost individual performer, moving 15 points to a record top of 130 and then dropping back to 125. The second preferred closed 18 points higher at 155. Case Threshing Machine soared 7 1-2 points to a new record top at 176, as against its year's low of 62 1-2, and then held all its gain on the official denial of rumors that negotiations were pending for the merger with the International Harvester Company, the common stock of which touched a new 1926 high at 135 5-8. Advance in Standard Brands preferred, American Brake Shoe and Foundry, Consolidated Textile, General Asphalt preferred, National Lead and Vivaudou preferred all ranged net gains of 5 to 10 points.

ALCOHOL ACTIVE

Special buying also developed in some of the cheaper issues. United States Industrial Alcohol was active and strong on the announcement that the company had absorbed one of its principal competitors. Warner Motion Pictures advanced 2 points to a new top on the successful showing of its new vitaphone sound-reproducing motion picture. Hudson Motors was run up over 4 points to 114, at the expense of an oversold short interest, closing near the top. Cudahy Packing moved up over 3 points on the announcement of a substantial increase in earnings in the first eight months of the fiscal year. Oils made only moderate progress to the raising of the annual dividend on Standard Oil Company of New York common from $4 to $5.60.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Security prices showed little change. Wheat closed slightly easier, although a higher premium was paid for spot wheat at Gulf points. Corn advanced 12 to 15 points, with trading restricted pending the publication of the government report next Monday. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 cent a pound, and coffee prices sold 8 to 11 points net higher.

A sharp rally of over 30 points in bank shares which carried them above the 3-cent level for the first time in several months, featured the foreign-exchange market. Buying of francs reflected heavy short covering by European speculators following the passage by the French Chamber of Deputies of two important measures proposed by Premier Poincare, in connection with his plan for the rehabilitation of French finances. Other Continental rates showed sympathetic strength in sympathy. Demand sterling held steady around 84.86 3-4.

Wheat Futures Follow Corn in Price Downturn

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—Wheat market today showed a distinct slump, and while rallies of 1 1-4@1 3-8 cents after an early break, turned out only the last in sympathy with corn and oats, which closed 1 1-4@1 3-8 cents lower with September 1.38¼@1.38⅜, December 1.41⅛@1.41¾ and May 1.47⅝. Corn ended 1 cent lower with September 1.01⅝@1.01¾, December 1.04⅜@1.04½ and May 1.09⅝@1.09¾. Oats closed unchanged to ⅜ cent lower with September 1.01⅝@1.01¾, December 44¼, while rye showed 1@1¼ cent loss with September 1.01⅝@1.02 and December 1.06.

Another decline of around 2 cents from the top of the season's range was recorded in wheat today, with the latter quickly running into liquidation by Liverpool cables, and a bearish crop report from the Northwest, coupled with local and Continental selling. Commission-house support showed sharply with a belt of 1,000,000 or more bushels for sale on the way up. September was the only option to show enough to absorb it. Little attention was paid to crop reports from the Canadian provinces, which showed the forecast for fair and easier weather still the dominant factor.

Reports full of weather sweepers of wheat harvest with indications of a better movement and stream in each grain producing district, were instrumental in bringing a decline in the northwest early and the movement of new crop wheat from the Canadian provinces, which have been made of late for the harvest of around 1,000,000 bushels each, wheat is expected and there have been liberal receipts in Duluth. The trade, however, took a bullish view of the visible supply on hand in Duluth. The trade, however, took a bullish view of the visible supply on hand in Duluth. Alien Chambers of Commerce in Turkey Closed

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 6. (AP)—Dispatches from Angora, the Turkish capital, say the government has ordered the closing of all foreign chambers of commerce in the country.

The order is said to be directed particularly at the American, British, French and Italian chambers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce expressed surprise today over the reported closing by the Angora government of the American Chamber of Commerce at Constantinople. It was said no recent events indicated any situation that would prompt such a step.

The Constantinople Chamber is an organization member of the United States Chamber.

SPAIN ASKS SECOND COMMITTEE SESSION

GENEVA, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Spanish government has asked for a second session of the special League of Nations committee dealing with the questions of the composition of the League Council. This is believed here to indicate that Spain has some fresh proposal to make with regard to her claim for a permanent seat on the Council. It is expected that the committee will meet before the assembling of the League Council, which is fixed for September.

CAPTAIN SCRAGGS

OR THE GREEN PEA PIRATES

by Peter B. Kyne

OUR STORY:

Three Musketeers of the Sea there are; each as strange a character as the other; each subject to the same impulses and emotions; each as stubborn, cranky, impulsive and loyal as the others—meet them:

CAPT. PHINEAS P. SCRAGGS, rat-faced, avaricious, bottled and furtive, master-owner of the steamer "Maggie" and a freighter of vegetables in San Francisco Bay.

ADELBERT P. GIBNEY, a large imposing, capable but actually indifferent person of a somewhat adventurous experience who is cursed with too much brains and imagination and a thirst. He holds a license as chief mate of steam, any ocean or tonnage and is chief mate of the Maggie.

BARTHOLOMEW McGUFFEY is a good engineer gone wrong. He nurses the ancient junk the Maggie's engines are with loving care and is a fit mate for the other two.

After running the "Maggie" aground in the Golden Gate and through a ruse persuading Dan Hicks and Jack Flaherty, towboat captains, to pull them off, Scraggs averts punishment at the hands of Hicks and Flaherty by promising McGuffey and Gibney immediate repairs to the Maggie. When Scraggs fails to come through in a week's time, McGuffey and Gibney, both being in funds, quit. Scraggs gets them drunk that night.

The next morning they awake in a sailors' boarding house broke. They visit the Maggie, seeking their jobs, but Scraggs will have none of them, and for a week they prowl around the waterfront looking for work without success. Finally they go to Halfmoon Bay in search of the Maggie again and twenty mile walk.

They find Scraggs frying eggs, and despite threats of arrest for piracy, force him to feed them. Then, defying Scraggs and his new crew, they remain on the ship.

Next morning they awake early, consume all the provender in the galley, and later, as the Maggie is homeward bound, discover the bark Chesapeake off Point Montara with distress signals flying. Scraggs plans to salvage her.

"Old Phineas P. Scraggs, the salvage expert!" McGuffey's falsetto would have maddened a sheep. "He cast his bread upon the waters and lo, it returned to him after many days—and made him sick. O-h-h-h-h, Scraggsy—poor old Scraggsy! If he went divin' for pearls in three feet o' water he'd bring up a clam shell. Oh, dear, I'm goin' to die o' this, Gib."

"Don't, Bart. I'm goin' to have need o' your well-known ability to help salvage this bark. Scraggs, you old sinner, has it dawned on you that what this proposition needs to get it over is a dash o' the Adelbert P. Gibney brand of imagination?"

The new navigating officer drew Capt. Scraggs aside and whispered in his ear: "Make it up with these smart Alecks, Scraggs. They got it on us, but if we can send you an' Halvorsen, McGuffey and Gibney over to the bark, you can get some sail on her an' what with the wind helpin' us along, the Maggie can tow her all right."

Mr. Gibney saw by the hopeful even cunning, look that leaped to Scraggs's eyes that the problem was about to be solved without recourse to the Gibney imagination, so he resolved to be silent and not permit himself to be caught out on the end of a limb. "Well, Scraggsy?" he demanded.

"I guess I need you in my business, Gib. You're right an' I'm always wrong. It's a fact. I ain't got no more imagination than a chicken. Hence, havin' no imagination o' my own I ask you, as man to man an' appealin' to your generous instincts as an old friend an' former valued employee, to let bygones be bygones an' haul us out o' the hole that threatens to make us the laughin' stock o' the whole Pacific Coast."

"Spoken like a man—I do not think, Scraggs, for once in my life I have you where the hair is short. You find yourself up agin a proposition that requires brains, an' ain't got 'em, yourself an' at last you're forced to admit that Adelbert P. Gibney is the man that peddles 'em. Now, you been doin' a lot o' hollerin' about me an' Bart bein' pirates under the law an' liable to hangin' an' imprisonment an' that kind o' guff don't go nohow. We're willin' to admit that mebbe we've been a little mite familiar an' forward, bankin' on the natural leanin' of friend for friend that you take it all for the joke it's intended to be, but when you go to carryin' the joke too far, we got to protect ourselves.

"Scraggsy, I'm willin' to dig in an' help you out in a pinch, but it's gettin' so me an' Mac can't trust you no more. We're that leery of you we won't take your word for nothin', since you fooled him on the new boiler an' me on the paint; consequently, we're off you an' this salvage job unless you give us a clearance in writin', statin' that we are not an' never was pirates, that we're good, law-abiding citizens an' aboard the Maggie as your guests, takin' the trip at our own risk.

"When you sign such a paper, with your crew for witnesses, I'll demonstrate how that bark can be salvaged without makin' you remove so much as a head o' cabbage to get at your small boat. My imagination's better'n my reputation, Scraggsy, an' I ain't workin' for nothin'!"

"Gib, my dear boy. You're the most sensitive man I ever sailed with. Can't you take a little joke?"

"Sure, I can take a little joke. It's the little ones that stick in my craw an' stifle my friendship. Gimme a fountain pen an' a leaf out o' the log book an' I'll draw up the affydavit for your signature."

Scraggs complied precipitately with this request; whereupon Mr. Gibney spread his great bulk over the chart case and with many a twist and flip of his tongue on the up and down strokes, produced this remarkable document:

At Sea, Off Point Montara, aboard
S.S. Maggie, of San Francisco.
June 4, 19—

This is a certify that A. P. Gibney, Esq., and Bart McGuffey, Esq., is law-abidin' citizens of the U. S. A. and the constitootion thereof, and in no way pirates or such; and be it further resolved that the said parties hereto are aboard said American steamer Maggie this date on the special invite of Phineas P. Scraggs, owner, as his guests and at their own risk.

Witness my hand and seal.

Capt. Scraggs signed without reading and the new mate and Neils Halvorsen appended their signatures as witnesses. Mr. Gibney thereupon folded this clearance paper into the tiniest possible compact ball, wrapped it in a piece of tinfoil torn from a package of tobacco, to protect it from his saliva, tucked it in his cheek and with a sign for McGuffey to follow him, started crawling over the cargo aft. By this time, the Maggie was within a hundred yards of the distressed bark and was ratching slowly backward and forward before her.

"In all my born days," quoth Mr. Gibney, speaking a trifle thickly because of the document in his mouth, "I never got such a wallop as Scraggs handed me an' you last night. I don't forget things like that in a hurry. Now that we got a vindication o' the charge o' piracy agin us, I'm achin' to get abet of the Maggie an' her crew, so if you'll kindly peel off all of your clothes with the exception, say, of your underdrawers, we'll swim off to that bark an' give Phineas P. Scraggs an exhibition of real sailorizin' an' seamanship."

"What's the big idee?" McGuffey demanded cautiously.

"Why, we'll sail her in ourselves—me an' you—an' glom all the salvage for ourselves. Tell with Scraggs an' the Maggie an' that new mate an' engineer. I'm off'n 'em for life."

Pop-eyed with excitement and interest, B. McGuffey, Esquire, stood up and with a single twist shed his cap and coat. His shirts followed. Both he and Gibney were already minus their shoes and socks. To slip out of their faded dungarees was the work of an instant. Strapping their belts around their waists to hold up their drawers, the worthy pair stepped to the rail of the Maggie.

"Hey, there! Where you goin', Gib? I give you that clearance paper on condition that you was to tell me how to salvage that there bark without havin' to shift my cargo to get at the small boat."

"I'm just about to tell you, Scraggs. You don't touch a thing aboard the Maggie. You leave her out of it entirely. You just jump overboard, like me an' Mac will in a jiffy, swim over the bark, climb aboard, and sail her to San Francisco Bay. When you get there you drop anchor an' call it a day's work." He grinned broadly. "One o' these bright days, Scraggs, when me an Mac is just wallerin' in salvage money, drop around to see us an' we'll give you a kick in the face. Farewell, you boobs," and he dove overboard.

"Ta-ta," McGuffey cried in his tantalizing falsetto voice, and followed his leader into the briny deep. As they came up and snorted, grampus-like, shaking the water out of their eyes, they glanced back at the Maggie and observed that Capt. Scraggs was, for the third time that never-to-be-forgotten voyage, jumping on his hat.

"If I was that far gone in a habit," quoth Mr. McGuffey as he hauled up alongside Mr. Gibney, "I'll be switched if I wouldn't go bareheaded an' save expenses."

Another installment of this rollicking tale of the Three Musketeers of the Sea will appear in tomorrow's Times. Watch for it.

SECOND SHARK FOUND IN COLUMBIA RIVER

ILWACO (Wash.) Aug. 6. (Exclusive)—The second shark in two days on the Columbia River is the rather unwelcome record set up. The second, a seven-foot man-eater, was captured by Chief George Charley's Indian crew at Peacock Spit near here where the men were seining for salmon. The creature had got itself into shallow water when the Indians saw it. They went after it in a boat and clubbed it to death with the boat's oars. The other unwelcome fish was a blue shark found floating on the water near the Astoria docks.

Nine Acquitted in Police Court at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.(AP)—Nine union carpenters were acquitted in Police Court here today after trial on a charge of disturbing the peace growing out of the strike of Union carpenters on open shop jobs here. The jury deliberated six minutes.

"It is a shame to bring busy men into court to try a case on such flimsy evidence," Judge Lazarus said.

No se Ha Llegado a Ningún Arreglo Entre el Clero y el Gobierno

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, Agosto 6.—Habiendo fracasado en sus esfuerzos algunas personas que quisieron servir de intermediarios para un arreglo pacífico, se han apercibido el gobierno y los clericales para una indefinida lucha de aguante.

Ha continuado la campaña de propaganda, pero ésta es mucho más activa de parte de los simpatizadores del gobierno, quienes, bajo la jefatura de la Confederación Regional de Obreros, están haciendo jiras por toda la nación, pronunciando discursos ante el pueblo, y publicando folletos, todo con el fin de convencer a los habitantes del país, hombres y mujeres, de que la actitud del gobierno es la correcta.

Los periódicos proceden con extremada cautela, pues ni siquiera aluden en sus editoriales a la cuestión religiosa, y se contentan con dar escasos y breves reportazgos. Los dueños de los diarios temen ser aprehendidos u obligados a cerrar sus empresas.

Los líderes católicos anunciaron que no enviarian ningún representante esta noche al Teatro de la Ciudad de Méjico, donde un partidario del gobierno habló sobre la cuestión religiosa. Hasta aquí habian estado atrayendo muchísima gente estos debates, en los que los funcionarios del gobierno y los líderes católicos presentaban sus respectivos argumentos. El gobierno hacía que fueran perifoneados los discursos de ambas partes. Entiéndese que la resolución de no concurrir los católicos al debate de esta noche fue tomada por evitar posibles graves conflictos. Los representantes del gobierno, con todo, habiaron, y el debate quedó meramente reducido a la exposición de motivos por parte del gobierno.

La mayor parte de los observadores no creen que haya ninguna probabilidad, por ahora al menos, de levantamientos o manifestaciones violentas por más que algunos mensajes retrasados dan pormenores de encuentros sangrientos, hace varios dias, en distintas partes del país, los cuales fueron más serios de lo que se habia creído. Uno de esos mensajes, referente al conflicto habido en Guadalajara el domingo, dice que hubo que enviar tropas a combatir con la muchedumbre, y que de la refriega resultaron cinco personas mal heridas, entre ellas el jefe ayudante de policía. Dos gendarmes y algunos paisanos recibieron lesiones leves.

Comenzó la contienda con motivo de que el jefe de la policía secreta local fue insultado por la turba al pasar por la iglesia de Jesús. El jefe se detuvo para amonestar a la muchedumbre, y entonces ésta lo atacó y le dio muerte. En su cadáver pudieron apreciarse siete puñaladas, un balazo y muchas contusiones.

El Forense Falla que Jimmy Fox Mató en Legítima Defensa

En la encuesta practicada ayer por el jurado del forense, con motivo de la muerte de los dos individuos que fueron asesinados la noche del martes en una guerra de bandas, falló se que Jimmy Fox, el elegante contrabandista de aguardientes, y satélite de la cuadrilla de licoristas de Tony Cornero, habia matado en legítima defensa.

Inmediatamente después del veredicto del citado jurado, el teniente fiscal Davis anunció que, no obstante dicho veredicto, iba a presentar hoy una acusación de asesinato contra Fox, y que todo este asunto, con su fondo de violencia y muerte, sera turnado al gran jurado la próxima semana. Entretanto, sigue Fox en la cárcel de la ciudad, sin admitírsele fianza.

Breve fue la deliberación del jurado del forense, pues unos cuantos minutos después de que, con su suave verbosidad, terminó Jimmy Fox de exponer su versión del duelo a balazos en el vestíbulo del Hotel St. Regis, sito en la calle Sexta Oeste, el jurado presentó su veredicto.

"Concluimos," decía éste, "que Harry Schwartz recibió la muerte por balazos que le disparó en legítima defensa James S. Fox."

Harry Moran, que quizá fue muerto por parecerse mucho físicamente a su amigo Fox, murió asimismo de heridas de bala infligidas, según dice el jurado en su veredicto, "por mano de persona desconocida para nosotros."

Natación

KINGSDOWN (Inglaterra), Agosto 6.—Ha conquistado hoy el canal de la Mancha Gertrude Ederle. En 14 horas, 31 minutos, ha atravesado esta muchacha de 19 años las turbias y revueltas aguas de ese canal. Es la primera mujer que realiza esta hazaña, y sólo cinco hombres la han realizado antes que ella. Salió la señorita Ederle del cabo Gris Nez a las 7:09 de la mañana de hoy, y aterró en Dover a las 9:40 de esta noche. Inmediatamente regresó al cabo Gris Nez en el remolcador que la iba acompañando.

No sólo es esta nadadora la primera mujer que atraviesa el canal a nado sino que ha batido el record de tiempo de esta prueba, pues Sebastian Tiraboschi, de Italia, que era quien tenía hecho el recorrido en menos tiempo, empleó dieciséis horas, veintitrés minutos en nadar de Calais a Dover, el 11 de Agosto de 1923.

Seven Mile, Ohio, Feb. 13:—"I am a farmer and am out-of-doors all my working hours. During harvest time last year, I became badly sunburned about the face, neck and arms. They were so irritated and pained so intensely I could hardly stand anything touching them. I tried various remedies, but nothing did me any good until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. I was relieved by the first application and by the time the first jar of ointment and cake of soap were gone my sunburn had vanished. I am always a booster for Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment." COUNTY BEACH PARCEL ADDED

New Frontage at Manhattan Will be Acquired

Public Holdings There Total Nearly One Mile

McClellan and Wygant Plan to Continue Buying

Following out the recently inaugurated policy of preserving Southern California beaches for the public, county authorities yesterday completed negotiations for the purchase of ocean frontage at Manhattan Beach which, in connection with a preliminary purchase in adjoining territory, will provide approximately a additional mile of ocean frontage to be maintained by the county as a public playground.

The preliminary arrangements completed yesterday when attorneys for the Manhattan Land and Water Company, after a conference with Robert C. Wygant, Deputy County Counsel who has conducted the matter for the county, agreed to sell 3146 feet of ocean frontage to the county without the formality of condemnation proceedings. The purchase price, while not definitely settled, will amount to approximately $200,000, it is said.

SOUTH OF PIER

The move, one of the first in a specific attempt to keep the beaches from private ownership, was undertaken following a recent announcement that approximately twenty-five of the thirty or thirty-five miles of ocean frontage in Los Angeles county is privately owned and is subject to fencing.

The property to be obtained under the acquisition entered into yesterday lies south of the Manhattan pier. It extends along the beach for 3146 feet, including all frontage between First street and Fourteenth street. It has a depth of 300 feet from the mean high tide line to the Pacific Electric right-of-way. It is owned at present by the Manhattan Beach Land and Water Company under the provisions of a grant issued under the Spanish government.

Immediately north of the new section is another which the county recently contracted to purchase. It is 1316 feet in length, extending from Fourteenth street to approximately Twenty-third street. It will be bought under stipulation from George Hall, the owner, for a consideration of $38,180, it is said.

OWNS OTHER TRACTS

The county also owns small parcels of beach property adjoining the mouth of Santa Monica Canyon. It is planned to obtain other holdings in that section, according to officials who are interested in the work.

Supervisor McClellan, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, has been influential in pushing the development. He advocated and put through the purchase of the first frontage near Santa Monica Canyon. Since the acquisition of that beach he has furthered the public ownership policy and has aided in obtaining the other property.

The property will be paid for by a bond issue to be spread over the county. It will be kept up and maintained by appropriations from the county budget and thus will escape being a burden on the beach towns within whose boundaries it may lie.

According to present plans the policy of acquiring beach frontage for public usage will be continued and further proceedings will be inaugurated from time to time to increase the public holdings. The matter is in the hands of Deputy County Counsel Wygant and Supervisor McClellan.

NEW LIGHT POSTS ASKED

The installation of ornamental lighting posts on Mines avenue from Soto street to Hollenbeck avenue was asked yesterday of the City Council by property owners.

SHE KEEPS 300,000 BUSINESS SECRETS

Miss Edith M. Coons

A NEW bid for fame has been made by Miss Edith M. Coons, who says she holds the State long-distance marathon championship for keeping secrets.

As chief index clerk of the State Corporation Department she has at least 300,000 business secrets in her custody and daily the total is mounting.

When a brand new secret comes into her office, Miss Coons numbers, letters, indexes and cross-indexes it, puts it in a neat envelope and tucks it away in a specially prepared file where she can lay her hands on it at a moment's notice.

"Doesn't she ever tell one?" ask visitors at the State offices. "Never as much as the smallest," replies Commissioner Daugherty. "That is why she was given such an important post."

In addition to the confidential files, Miss Coons has charge of some 300,000 other records, and these she also keeps neatly tabulated and filed away.

The State law requires the commissioner of corporations to keep secret all information concerning the private affairs of corporations and the millions of dollars involved unless he believes it to be in the interest of the public welfare to make public such information as he deems advisable. Hence the large confidential file.

HUT IDENTIFIED BY EVANGELIST

Sonora Shack Recognized from Pictures

New Desert Trip Reported Plan at Temple

Judge Denies Plan to Oust Whole Grand Jury

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson yesterday identified pictures of a newly-discovered shack in Sonora, Mex., as the one in which she says she was held captive by a trio of abductors following her mysterious disappearance from the Ocean Park beach on May 18, last.

Although the evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, neither would affirm nor deny that Mrs. McPherson will return to Douglas, Ariz., and make another expedition into the desert to substantiate the picture identification, word received from the border city last night said the Angelus Temple leaders had informed their Douglas committee that they will make the trip.

Superior Judge Keetch last night emphatically denied a rumor that he planned to dismiss the Los Angeles county grand jury as a whole.

"My straight-forward talk and written statement to the jury earlier in the week was merely to again post them as to their duties under the laws of this State," Judge Keetch said.

Judge Keetch, however, would make no comment for publication about rumors current around the Hall of Justice that an investigation is now under way to determine whether certain members of the body will be removed as an outgrowth of the McPherson case investigation. .. .."There are many splendid men on the grand jury now, and I would not think of casting any reflection upon them by any such movement as a dismissal of the body as a whole," the jurist concluded.

The identification of the lone cabin, located twelve miles from Nigger Head Mountain on the international boundary, was made by Mrs. McPherson from photographs included among pictures of a score of other cabins received by the evangelist yesterday from Rev. Joseph E. Howard, pastor of the Douglas Baptist Church, and Lieut. Leslie Gatliff, of the Douglas police force.

Immediately after Mrs. McPherson had picked the cabin from the picture group she wired to both Lieut. Gatliff and Mr. Howard, and shortly afterward received a telegram from the latter informing her that the cabin she picked is the one officers also had identified from her description.

WINDOW CLEW

The evangelist made her identification on the location of the window, through which she says she escaped her captors, and the general country surrounding it, she announced last night.

Although the cabin is located in a district searched over by expeditions hunting the cabin shortly after Mrs. McPherson reappeared June 23, Mr. Howard's telegram informed the evangelist that few people were aware of the cabin's presence in the district.

His telegram read:

"Praise God, committee believes hut meets conditions and qualifications in every way. Hut you identified is house Lieut. Gatliff told me he believed was captivity hut the day the pictures were sent. We told you nothing, allowing you to make unbiased identification. Everybody excited. Will wire developments or write."

Lieut. Gatliff's message to the evangelist said:

"Committee satisfied that you are correct. Hut fulfills every qualification of your description. Probable route to Nigger Head through low open country or in any way tends to libel or to slander him."

LIVING COSTS IN CITY TUMBLE

Reduced 3.2 Per Cent During Last Year and 15.1 in Six-Year Period

The cost of living in Los Angeles has shown a drop of 15.1 per cent in the past six years, and 3.2 per cent in the last twelve months, according to statistics compiled by the United States Department of Labor. Notwithstanding these latter-day drops, the cost of living in Los Angeles still is 71.2 per cent higher than in the prewar year 1914.

Considering food alone, Los Angeles today is almost a record-breaker.

Food in the city today costs only 39.9 per cent more than in 1914 but clothing is 75.7 per cent above prewar housing is 67.4 per cent above the 1914 level; fuel and light 34.1 per cent and house furnishings 126 per cent above prices that prevailed at the close of 1914.

DEATH TAKES FORMER SALT LAKE CITY JUDGE

Former Judge E. V. Higgins of Salt Lake City died Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Newton Glaser, at Palo Alto, according to word received yesterday by his brother, Will C. Higgins of this city. Judge Higgins lived in Utah more than thirty years and was for a number of years judge of the Fifth Judicial District of that State, later serving as first assistant to the State Attorney-General. He leaves also his widow and one son.

UNION STATION'S COST DISCUSSED

Railroad's Witness High in Outlay Estimate

Testimony Offset by That of Commission Engineers

Lesser Sum for Meigs Plan Admitted Possible

The sum of $5,512,598 new money would be required together with $5,814,345 of existing facilities to put into effect the carriers' plan proposed for the solution of the local railroad passenger station and incidental problems, according to W. M. Jaekle, a Southern Pacific Railroad engineer, who testified before the State Railroad Commission yesterday.

The total of the two sums is $11,326,943. Commission engineers have testified that an adequate union passenger station such as the Hill plan provides could be built in the Plaza area, where citizens voted they wished such a station built, for $7,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Railroad witnesses, however, have testified at the hearing that the Hill plan is impractical and that their Meigs plan is the only Plaza station plan that is workable. Jaekle testified that the Meigs plan would cost $25,000,000.

LESSER COST POSSIBLE

Carl I. Wheat, attorney for the commission, drew from the witness an admission that the Meigs plan could be followed without so great an expenditure. Jaekle said, however, that any reduction in cost would result in too restricted a station and layout. Wheat called for details of the $25,000,000 estimate and the witness agreed to produce them.

The witness admitted that the Meigs plan was prepared late last year, and is the first one ever prepared by the railroads notwithstanding the commission's order in 1921 that they should submit such plans.

Monday was set apart as a day for the commission to hear independent proposals on the union station project. The Allied Architects introduced their plan yesterday.

PRESENTATION OF PLAN

Presentation of the Allied Architects' Plaza union-station plan began under such conditions in that part of the chamber occupied by railroad representatives that Max Thelen, special counsel for the city of Los Angeles, protested to the commission that, although the architects' witness was no witness of his he believed the man was entitled to a respectful hearing. Chairman Brundidge so declared and the railroad representatives were quieted. Charles H. Cheney, who presented the architects' plan, had just made a statement, which concluded with the following:

"More important still to Los Angeles, is the fact that with the union station located as shown on the Allied Architects' plan, at Temple and Los Angeles streets, it would be possible for everyone coming into Los Angeles to step out of the station and into one of the greatest civic-center groups in the world. In other words, this plan offers a glorified vestibule to Los Angeles—a most important thing to a city which owes so much of its growth and annual business to the good impression made upon visitors and tourists."

Cheney pointed out that the architects' plan locates the union station in about the same place and after the same general plan outlined before the commission by railroad witnesses as the best union station for the Plaza area. Cheney said the architects' plan is the only one that fits into the civic-center project prepared by the architects and into the major traffic street plan adopted by popular vote in 1924.

He said the Plaza location proposed in the Cook & Hall civic-center plan indorsed by the City Planning Commission does not fit into the traffic plan as well as the one he presented. The Cook & Hall plan locates the station at Sunset Boulevard and Broadway. Railroad attorneys brought out that the architects' plan had not been adopted by

by Harry Carr

ONCE in a while we have to slide off into the realms of art in this column. Just to show our refinement of nature.

The motion picture "Ben Hur" is what has inspired us this time.

This, for the reason that it is so prodigal in richness that it becomes an event in an industry through whose ramifications America is conquering the world.

It is especially interesting in this, that more money was spent thereon than upon any other work of art of any kind since the world began.

FAULTS AND VIRTUES

To me, it has absolutely incomparable virtues; and the most glaring faults.

The famous chariot race transcends in gorgeousness and thrilling excitement any other single scene ever shown on the screen.

Just so, the galley slaves, pulling at the enormous oars, is a striking and tremendous thing.

And the passage of the Roman army; and the chained gang of prisoners in the desert.

THE STORY

The fault of "Ben Hur" is as a drama.

It is just one string of great scenes after another. There is a lack of intimacy. You never see Ben Hur in his own room—and, after all, he must have had one.

You see the slave Simonides, who managed the great Hur estates; but you always see him stalking around in midstage, as it were: you never see him in the routine work of his office. And they certainly had great systematic organizations in the management of those great estates. You are never convinced that there is an estate to manage.

SOLDIERS LIVED ON AIR

One curious short-coming is always observable in these great motion pictures. It is the reason why the pictures depicting life in ancient times lack stark reality.

Their armies always lack baggage. The movie soldiers of ancient time seem to live on air and climate.

And we know from reading Ceasar that his "impedimenta" formed an important feature of his battle plans.

GLORIOUS YOUTH

These are, however, only small reflections, shadows on a great work of art.

And "Ben Hur" is an enormously important work of art.

And the best thing about it is the glowing youth and the charm of Ramon Navarro.

SNUFF AND VESTS

As a spectacle, "Ben Hur" stands alone.

As a drama—as a story—it falls short for the same reason that Thackeray became impatient with the man who tried to tell him about George Washington.

Interrupting a recital of the tale of George's manifest and noble virtues, the novelist exclaimed:

"Oh, I don't care about that, I want to know if he was a fussy old gentleman who spilled snuff on his vest."

GADD WARNS COUNCILMEN

Gives Notice to Investigating Committeemen That He Will Hold Them Personally Liable

Peter B. Gadd, contractor of the West Adams improvement, who has been waiting since July 12 for $1,056,000 payment for the work, which included his $298,981 bill of "extras" on the storm drain part of the improvement, yesterday afternoon struck back at the City Council's committee which is investigating the matter when the contractor filed formal notice to the committee that he will hold the three members personally liable in damages for any action they take that "entails any loss to the contractor or in any way tends to libel or to slander him."

The members of the investigating committee are Councilman Randall, chairman, and Councilmen Colden and Hatfield. Following the service of the notice by the contractor through his attorney, Asa V. Call, an order was made a part of the official records of the hearings, Chairman Randall said:

"The Council, which has before it the question of confirmation of the assessment for this improvement, recommended this committee to make this investigation. We shall proceed with the investigation until the Council countermands its instructions."

CHARGES PREJUDICE

The contractor's formal notice to the committee was especially bitter in its references to Chairman Randall and to Councilman Colden of the city. The contractor's notice said that he had acted upon the "erroneous, preconceived prejudice against the contractor (Gadd,) have dominated the investigation throughout in an unfair and inquisitorial manner, and have throughout manifested the utmost unfairness toward and against the contractor (Gadd) and have publicly prejudged the case."

Councilman Randall and Councilman Colden denied these assertions and stated that they were proceeding in an effort to get at the facts in the case.

The notice was not unexpected, as the contractor, who on July 12 executed a bond to receive authority to collect $1,056,000 from the property benefited by the improvement district, is known to have been paying more than 7 per cent interest on the money he borrowed to carry out his contract, and has in addition employed

SLAUSON'S DRAIN PLAN ACCEPTED

Final Ordinance Passed by Council After Delay to Prevent More "Extras"

The final ordinance for the $750,000 Slauson avenue district storm drain was adopted yesterday by the City Council.

Councilman Hall had objected a week ago to the adoption of the ordinance as well as all other storm-drain ordinances until Section 16 1-2 of the city specifications under which the $298 981 West Adams storm-drain extras were made possible could be amended so as to prevent the installation of any "extras" not approved by the City Engineer.

The testimony in the West Adams storm-drain investigation by city engineers was that only $50,000 of the $298,981 extras were necessary, and that they were not called upon by the Inspector of Public Works for a ruling as to whether there was any necessity for the remaining $250,000 of extra construction work.

Chiropractor Advises Men to Follow Women's Lead; Convention Discovers Perfect Back

Clothes came in for rough handling and Vivian De Barre, 21-year-old Los Angeles girl, won the most beautiful back contest at the annual convention of the Pacific Coast Chiropractors' Association at the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic, 918 Venice Boulevard, yesterday. Men, suggested Dr. W. L. Lynch, should take a leaf from women and discard some of their clothing. Two manifestations of woman's emancipation, short skirts and fewer underthings, he hailed as "a blessing to humanity."

"Skirts that trail the ground are the worst possible germ carriers, and the liberation of women from these and choking collars, confining waistlines and clothes heavy-laden with fripperies of various sorts, has created a new era in the science of health. For once the body has a chance to breathe."

Women, Dr. Lynch declared gallantly, "are too sensitive, too sincere and take things to heart too much for their own good." Their fears and worries create poisons in the system. Outdoor sports are urged for both sexes.

BACK CONTEST

In the back contest, twenty-three young ladies comprised the final list of contestants. Dressed in low-cut bathing suits they passed in review before a group of chiropractors and spine specialists before the winner was declared.

The judges in announcing Miss De Barre as the winner said she carried all five points of the contest. They are: Most beautiful back, most perfect spine, perfect carriage, personality and symmetry. Miss De Barre resides at 736 West Forty-First Place.

More than 1000 chiropractors attended yesterday's session which was the second day of a four-day convention. Dr. Charles H. Wood, president of the association, acted as chairman.

One feature of the evening was the exhibition of a new diagnostic instrument, the invention of Dr. C. B. Dady. This instrument, according to Dr. Dady, is operated like radio to supply missing rays to the body which are prevented from entering because of the fact that people wear shoes. Dr. Dady declared that people should really go barefooted. By wearing shoes the body is prevented from assimilating what he terms red and yellow rays.

HOLD REUNION

Today the members of the convention will hold a class reunion which will be followed by a ball in the convention hall. During the afternoon there will be addresses by Dr. M. S. Mason of Redlands, Prof. Charles S. Anthony of San Bernardino, Dr.

WALT AND SKEEZIX IN 'BAD LANDS'

Cartoonist Frank O. King Spends Vacation Seeking Western Color

Walt and Skeezix of cartoon fame are taking a holiday from Gasoline Alley and piloted by their creator, Frank O. King, are touring the "bad lands" of the West and may eventually be brought to studioland for a brief visit.

Mr. King, unaccompanied, dashed into Los Angeles yesterday morning and out again last night, returning to the little Colorado Trading Post, in Arizona, where with Mrs. King he has been spending a prolonged vacation, and getting new atmosphere into which he proposes to introduce Walt and his pal Skeezix.

Mr. King felt his visit to the West would be incomplete without another look at Los Angeles and he ran over just long enough to marvel at the city's progress since his last visit.

King is devoting almost all his time visiting on the Hopi and Navajo Indian reservations, making his headquarters in Tuba City.

While in Los Angeles the noted cartoonist found time to pay a short visit to Harold Lloyd, an old friend, and to watch the comedian perform in several scenes for his newest production.

GUN-PERMIT RECORD LOST

Sheriff Traeger's Office Unable to Find Data on License to Tony Cornero or Other Gangsters

Reports that permits to carry revolvers have been issued to gangsters through Sheriff Traeger's office revealed yesterday that the record of two permits admitted by attaches of Traeger's office to have been issued, have either been lost or misplaced.

Although William Kent, secretary to Under Sheriff Biscailus, and Deputy Sheriff Bell, of the bureau of identification and records, admitted that they were aware a permit had been issued to Tony Conero, asserted rum baron, several months ago, no record of the permit nor the subsequent cancellation could be found in the record files of the Sheriff's office.

PERMIT CANCELED

According to both Kent and Deputy Sheriff Bell, Cornero received a permit after he had been "duly recommended," but the permit was ordered canceled prior to last April 14. On this date, Deputy Sheriff Bell said, a letter was sent to the police department addressed to Chief of Police Davis, and Chief of Detectives Cline, in which the Sheriff's office declared efforts to keep guns from the hands of gangsters would be made. The letter, a copy of which was produced by Bell, also asked the police department for a list of known gangsters so that no permits would be issued to them.

When shown a copy of the letter both Chiefs Davis and Cline stated they did not remember of seeing it, and no record of the letter appears in Central Station's files, according to Miss Mabel Olin, in charge of Chief Davis's correspondence.

NO PERMIT APPEARS

In a statement issued in February of 1925 by "Farmer" Page, "gambling king," who at the time was facing a murder charge following the slaying of Al Josepha, Page says he purchased a revolver here in July of the previous year. According to the State law all sales of firearms are registered with the permit to carry one also entered on the sales blank. No record of Page having been issued a

FIVE SEIZED IN COUNTY FRAUD

Grand Jury Auditor's Aide Among Suspects

Warrant Forgery Declared to be Method Used

Written Statements Signed on $2000 Accusation

Five men, one employed by the grand jury auditor, were under arrest yesterday charged with stealing, forging and cashing a number of county warrants, the value of which was stated to range between $1500 and $2000.

The possibility of the grand jury investigating one of its own employees was indicated yesterday by the District Attorney's office, the object being to determine the extent of the asserted crime.

The men under arrest are Robert D. MacLeod, one of fifteen grand jury auditors and the asserted ringleader; Clarence O. Watson, an insurance solicitor, declared to be the lieutenant; Leo Kusanoff, a taxi driver; Lon Chapman, a tire dealer, and Richard Sides.

SIGN STATEMENTS

Fred H. Fritzen was brought to the Hall of Justice when found with Sides, but it was stated he will not be charged with a crime, but will be used as a witness.

All five of the men were taken before Deputy District Attorneys yesterday afternoon, and it was reported they had signed written statements. They were being held on charges of suspicion of forgery and suspicion of conspiracy, pending definite charges.

The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriffs Kelly, Pennywit and Bent, acting under orders of J. B. Fox, in charge of the Sheriff's fugitive detail, and Detective Lieutenants Deal and Holt.

That the stolen money will total not more than $2000 was announced by County Auditor Payne, who uncovered the asserted thefts and turned the case over to the Sheriff's office. According to Payne, MacLeod was one of a number of clerks placed in the auditor's office by the grand jury to make a systematic check of county expenditures.

BAIL MONEY METHOD

In the case of the repayment of bail money, following the conclusion of the case, a county warrant is mailed out to the address given, but in case the recipient cannot be located, the envelope is returned. MacLeod is accused of having stolen the warrant and envelope, turning the document over to his confederates, who forged and cashed the warrant.

The case came to light when a man, who was entitled to the return of $100, asked for his money and was shown a warrant presumably indorsed by himself. The warrant was traced and the affair thus discovered. It is not known what the exact total will be, but another audit will be made to determine the exact amount, it was said.

MacLeod was employed by A. D. Macleod, head of the auditing firm which has contracted to serve the grand jury, but there is no relationship between them other than that of employer and employee, they said.

A. D. Macleod, senior member of Macleod, MacFarlane & Co., accountants and auditors, assisted County Auditor Payne in the quiet investigation of the case which was made for several days prior to official action yesterday.

GADD WARNS COUNCILMEN

attorneys and filed suit in the Supreme Court in an effort to obtain payment.

HEARING CONTINUES

Despite the contentions of the contractor's attorneys that the Council's investigation is without authority of law, which view is disputed by the City Attorney's office, the committee proceeded with its investigation yesterday afternoon with every prospect that it would continue next week.

There was read into the record of the hearings yesterday afternoon a report from the city engineering department requested by Councilman Colden showing that while Contractor Gadd was the low bidder on the general contract that if either of two of the other bidders had received the contract and installed all of the piling and other storm-drain additional foundation work Contractor Gadd installed, their bills would have been lower than Contractor Gadd's. This engineering report showed that George H. Oswald's total bill, under his bid, would have been $1,012,277.92; R. A. Watson's bill would have been $1,041,428.05, while Contractor Gadd's total bill was $1,056,928.41. The other four bidders were higher than Contractor Gadd's total.

City engineers have given testimony before the committee that while the Board of Public Works' order of October 16 was to the effect that the City Engineer and the Inspector of Public Works were to order extra construction work on the storm-drain foundation "when necessary," that the City Engineer had only given his approval to $50,000 of the total $298,981 additional work.

The witnesses yesterday included P. C. Finkle, consulting engineer, who was placed on the stand as an expert witness for the side of the contractor and the four members of the Board of Public Works who did not dispute the contractor's bill of "extras." Mr. Finkle said that, in his opinion, the quicksand and subsoil conditions in the West Adams district justified the concrete mattress and piling under the storm drain, which has been billed as "extras" or additional work, and he further gave as his opinion that there should have been a concrete foundation under the sanitary sewer.

The hearing will be resumed at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

HUT IDENTIFIED BY EVANGELIST

try agrees with track findings of officers, Mexicans, etc. Presence of hut scarcely known. Will wire again."

Mayor Hinton, of Douglas, also sent the following telegram:

"Local officers report finding the shack in which you were held prisoner. Description agrees entirely with the statement you made to me the morning you arrived in Douglas. Congratulations."

RESULT OF QUEST

According to Mrs. Kennedy, the finding of the shack is the result of unrelenting work on the part of a committee which has been conducting searches in behalf of the evangelist since she left the border city for Los Angeles after her reappearance. The committee is composed of President Hubbell, of the Douglas Chamber of Commerce; Mr. Howard, Lieut. Gatliff, Mayor Hinton and a Douglas newspaper man.

It was also revealed for the first time last night by Mrs. Kennedy that two Mexican detectives have been working for the Temple leaders for several weeks and have made two trips into the border country.

"Those men have discovered some startling information that I am not at liberty to reveal at present," Mrs. Kennedy said, "but which we will make public in the near future.

"The employment of these two detectives was not even known to our attorney. We knew that our mail was tampered with and that our telephone wires were tapped, so when they found the new clews in Mexico and Douglas, they made the trip by rail so that they could report personally. They rested two days and then went south again."

Mrs. Kennedy would not say whether the detectives are still in the border country. She announced at the same time that the Nick Harris detectives were no longer employed by the temple.

EVANGELIST'S STATEMENT

In referring to the identification of the cabin, Mrs. McPherson said:

"They have traced my tracks to within a few miles of where this cabin is located and have also for the first time found a cabin located where the country is like that I described in my first statement to the Los Angeles authorities who went to Douglas."

Tumultuous applause greeted the announcement regarding the cabin during the temple services last night and the evangelist was interrupted several times attempting to describe the place by the outburst of joy of her followers.

Rumors yesterday that "Mrs. X," named as his mystery companion in a Carmel bungalow by Kenneth G. Ormiston, in an affidavit the former Angelus Temple radio man made to the District Attorney, was known to her and to the authorities, would neither be denied nor confirmed by Mrs. Kennedy last night.

"I am not prepared to say as to that," Mrs. Kennedy said. "All I care to say is that we will wait and see."

COST OF PHOTOS

The photographic work on the Mexican desert shacks has cost Mrs. Kennedy $115, she revealed last night.

Arthur Vletch, chief counsel for Mrs. McPherson, did not learn of the identification of the shack until it was published in early editions of morning newspapers last night.

"Sister has kept quiet and let the others do the raving," Mrs. Kennedy said last night, "knowing all the time that it would come out right in the end. Now that we have found the shack we have taken a tremendous stride toward finding out who Sister's abductors were.

"If we go back to Douglas we intend to either let the world know we are going or go quietly and let no one know, so that Sister will not be bothered by newspaper reporters. However, inasmuch as Douglas people were not aware of our second trip there, and were disappointed at not seeing Sister, we will probably keep our movements public. They all want her to come down there and it is only fair to them that they know she is coming." Mrs. Kennedy concluded.

PERSECUTION CHARGE

While private investigators were continuing their quiet search for the two men and woman who, she asserts, kidnaped her from the beach at Venice on May 18, last, Mrs. McPherson yesterday issued a lengthy statement in which she asserted she has been the victim of "religious persecution such as has never been known in the annals of modern churchianity."

Her statement yesterday was issued as a consequence of developments on Thursday when Superior Judge Keetch severely criticised the grand jury for the manner in which it handled the investigation of the McPherson case. Dist.-Atty. Keyes also issued a statement at that time outlining his attitude on the case and in which he said the investigation was "one of the most difficult ever presented to a prosecuter."

The official investigation into the disappearance of Mrs. McPherson yesterday was virtually at a standstill. Mr. Keyes would not comment on his future plans but indicated he will carry on a secret inquiry such as requested by the grand jury. He declined to say whether he had assigned any of his deputies or investigators to make such an investigation. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan, who handled the investigation of the case for the District Attorney's office, has gone back to his duties in one of the criminal departments of the Superior Court.

Roland Rich Woolley, chief of counsel for Mrs. McPherson, yesterday indicated the evangelist's investigators were looking for Kenneth G. Ormiston, formally radio operator at Angelus Temple, whose name has been prominently linked with the disappearance of Mrs. McPherson.

SEEK ORMISTON

If Ormiston is located, Mr. Woolley said, he will be called upon to produce "Miss X" the woman he says occupied for ten days during May a Carmel bungalow which he leased under the name of "George McIntire." Mr. Keyes denied investigators out of his office were looking for "Miss X" to take her before the grand jury to conclusively establish the identity of the goggled woman who stayed at the bungalow with Ormiston.

In an affidavit he sent to Mr. Keyes from Chicago, Ormiston admitted he was at the Carmel bungalow but denied his companion was Mrs. McPherson. A number of Carmel witnesses said Mrs. McPherson's photos bore a marked resemblance to "Mrs. McIntire."

Mr. Woolley said the case is at an end as far as the public is concerned but a search for the asserted kidnapers will be continued.

"Mrs. McPherson has absolutely been vindicated," the attorney stated, "and there is no more to be said for the present."

Mrs. McPherson's statement follows:

"Angelus Temple and its pastor, Aimee Semple McPherson, have been, during the past week, swept by such a storm of unfounded, circumstantial evidence, falsehood and religious persecution as has never been known in the annals of modern churchanity.

"However, in spite of the ceaseless, ruthless, conscienceless bombardment of the enemy which has sought to crush and annihilate this mighty revival center wherein more than 35,000 souls have sought and found Christ as the Savior in the three and one-half years since its opening—in spite of the fact that all the forces of hell have been turned in against us—this morning as the sun arises and the waves drop back exhausted, the rock still stands.

"On May 18, 1926, while in the pursuance of my church and pastoral duties, I sought an hour of recreation at the seashore, taking with me my Bible and notebook to prepare for the coming Sabbath.

"I was, upon this day, under pretense of praying for a dying child, induced to approach a certain automobile where sat a lady holding a roll of blankets which I thought to be the child. Upon essaying to enter the car, I was thrust forward upon my face, covered with the robe, made unconscious and helplessly swept away from my home, my mother, my children, my church and my life's work.

TELLS RETURN

"After one month and six days I was able to make my escape and, after hours of wandering, came to a city of habitation, where I called for the police, the apprehension of my kidnapers and the protection which was due me as an American citizen.

"I told them everything. I trusted them, offering all the help and cooperation possible in the apprehension of the perpetrators of this crime.

"Events of the past week you know. If it were not so pathetic it would be the most humorous thing in the world that, weak and exhausted as I was on my return from captivity, the authorities immediately pounced upon me instead of seeking the criminals, and through the intervening weeks I have been subjected to every conceivable indignity and by so doing have been the cause of a grave miscarriage of justice heretofore unknown in American history.

"I firmly believe that one reason so many sought so desperately to find or manufacture some shred of evidence against me was that they themselves sought the salve to their own consciences.

"God has helped and saved me from the horrible pit they have digged for me. God brought in truthful men and women to refute and to put to confusion the false witnesses that have risen up against me. The evil tales and vile imaginings have fallen back upon themselves to be talked over and gloated over by those who long for the worst and hope they find it.

"Disappointed when they failed, they declared that no doubt it must be so, because it is what they themselves and their kind would have done.

"There I stood. Out in the open, the target for everyone who ever hated Christianity, every infidel, every agnostic who caustically bit into the church wherever they had a chance; target for every bootlegger and evil-minded person; target of jealous brethren in the church who were anxious to disbelieve rather than believe.

"But all the shame and all the disgrace which they have endeavored to pile up, hoping to bring it down upon my head, has recoiled upon their own.

"How donderful that after all these weeks of hysterical and frenzied efforts to disprove my unfortunate kidnaping there has not been produced one scintilla of evidence against me!

"Even officers of the law seem to have been bewildered by the clouds of smoke screens thrown up by such men, and they themselves were not sure which was the victim and which the criminal, but now that the clouds have lifted and the air has cleared and my story alone remains unshaken, I am in hope that, even now, though weeks have elapsed and my kidnapers have had time to put the world between them and myself if they wish—I hope I will have their co-operation in bringing to speedy justice the perpetrators of this crime.

"In the meantime, it is my hope that God will bless me with sufficient strength to continue to serve others and to take to the world its principles of life and salvation."

COPS DIG UP MYSTERIOUS TREASURES

Long Beach Police Unearth Buried Currency, Checks and Silver in Hollywood

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Two Long Beach police officers went looking for buried treasure in Hollywood yesterday. Strangely enough, they found it. Even more strangely, it wasn't the treasure they were looking for but they performed a back-breaking job for the Los Angeles police.

In keeping with such tales, mystery shrouds a goodly part of the adventure. It seems that on a tip from a County Jail prisoner, Capt. J. B. Worley and Detective Sergeant Olyea set out to look for the loot of a Long Beach bank hold-up supposed to be buried in an orange grove in the 7400 block on Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood.

The officers struck their picks and spades in the right spot. Their efforts brought to light a decayed gunnysack bulging with $800 in currency, $12 in small change and a quantity of checks.

The currency, in $1, $5, $10 and $20 bills, was in bad condition from moisture, the treasure having been buried near an irrigation ditch, but is redeemable, the officers said. The checks were in even worse condition.

The officers took their find to Long Beach and then discovered it wasn't what they were looking for. The checks indicated, they said, that the plunder had been taken from a Liggett drug store on Hollywood Boulevard some time in February and announced the intention of turning over the find to the Los Angeles police tomorrow. The officers said they found signs that someone had been digging in the vicinity recently.

JUDGE ASSAILS GIRL ATTACKERS

Gives Miss Elliott Judgment of $10,000 in Suit

Hanging Declared Too Good for Film ex-Cowboys

Two Previously Sentenced for Part in Case

Delivering a scathing denunciation of unprincipled men who force their attention on helpless women, Judge Hazlett of Superior Court yesterday gave Olive Fern Elliott, a telephone operator, judgment of $10,000 against Charles Westcott, reputedly wealthy former motion-picture cowboy, and John Zenigo, also a former screen cowpuncher.

The judgment was given in Miss Elliott's suit against the former actors, whom she charged with forcibly attacking her on the night of Oct. 8, 1923. Neither Westcott nor Zenigo appeared in court in defense to the suit, although Judge Hazlett had continued the case several times to permit them or their attorneys to be present.

CHARLES WESTCOTT

Westcott, it was said, is now serving a sentence in the County Road Camp imposed upon him in connection with the asserted offense against Miss Elliott, while Zenigo was reported to be out of the State.

TELLS OF ATTACK

According to Miss Elliott, the two men had offered to accompany her home from an entertainment but instead of taking her directly home they drove down another road and sought by force their attentions on her. Miss Elliott declared she fought them off until overcome by their superior strength. She declared she was unable to work for two weeks afterward because of injuries she received.

"This is the most cold-blooded case of its kind ever to come to my attention," said Judge Hazlett in giving judgment. "Hanging would be too good for these men and I am sorry I am not able to administer some punishment other than the granting of this judgment.

"In my opinion the courts cannot impose a too-severe sentence on men of this type, who wilfully force their unscrupulous attentions on women who are powerless to defend themselves. These men (it is a slur on the name to call them such, but there is no alternative) did not even give this girl the ghost of a fighting chance—it was a case of two of them against one young, slender girl."

HECTIC INCIDENT

The judgment marked the closing chapter to an incident that was replete with sensations over a period of more than a year following the asserted attack.

Westcott, once "jumped" his bail only to be rearrested some time later in Iowa. Then, before local deputy sheriffs could arrive on the scene to take him in custody, the Iowa courts gave Westcott his liberty on a habeas corpus action.

The local Sheriff's office then instituted a nation-wide search for Westcott and he was again recaptured in Oregon, returned to California and placed in jail. Upon being arraigned in criminal court, he pleaded guilty to the offense against Miss Elliott and a similar offense against another girl and was sentenced to serve two years in the county road camp. Zenigo was not taken into custody until March, 1925. He also pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve seven months in the County Jail with the provision that he might serve the time in the road camp.

COSTS ARGUED ON UNION DEPOT

the city and had been adopted in principle only by the county.

NUMEROUS BENEFITS

Cheney read into the record a report of a national conference on city planning, which strongly indorsed the general idea of union stations as making for public convenience, avoidance of waste, economy in railroad operation and as including a multitude of public benefits over and above separate stations.

W. K. Jackle, a Southern Pacific engineer, who occupied the stand during a part of the forenoon session, drew a protest from Thelen as to the manner of testifying. Thelen said the witness was arguing the case from the witness stand instead of testifying as to facts and that he objected to an assistant right-of-way engineer taking such liberties. Frank Karr, Southern Pacific attorney, diverted the witness's line of talk, which ad described the Plaza plan proposed by commission engineers as a "bargain-counter plan impossible and impractical of operation."

Jackle testified that the Arcade station in its present condition is more than ample to serve the public adequately for many years to come and he submitted an outline of improvement which, he said, would meet all possible future needs.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday forenoon.

F. L. Burckhalter of San Francisco, assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific, delivered an argument against a union station. He said that while he admired Los Angeles and "these city-planning gentlemen" such projects as civic centers into which it is proposed to fit a union station "are really dreams that take a long time to materialize." Meanwhile, he argued, if the union station were to stand in the Plaza area it would be in unsightly surroundings. He said the advantages of a union station for the public are practically nothing.

MUSICAL PROGRAM TOMORROW

SELF-STYLED DOCTOR FACES PERJURY TRIAL

Nasaaki Tanimoto, self-styled Japanese physician who was convicted a month ago of practising medicine without a license, was held to answer by Municipal Judge Scott yesterday on a charge of perjury. Tanimoto testified at his first trial that he had not removed a cast and splints from the leg of a Japanese girl, Satoka Nashima, whose parents later declared positively he had done so.

EXONERATE FOX IN GANG DEATHS

Jurors Give Clean Slate to Rum Ring Slayer

Accused, However, Held in Jail for Murder Warrant

Gunmen Facing Round-up Begin Exodus from City

Jimmy Fox, the dapper rum runner and satellite of the Tony Cornero "mob" of booze traffickers, was given a clean slate yesterday by a Coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of the two men murdered in the last renewal of the gang wars here last Tuesday night.

MRS. MARIE FOX

Immediately after the jury's verdict, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis announced that in spite of the action of the Coroner's jury, a murder complaint will be forthcoming against Fox today and that the grand jury will be given the entire affair, with its background of violence and death, next week. In the meantime, Fox is being held in the County Jail without bail.

The jury's deliberations were brief. A few minutes after the smooth-spoken rum-runner had concluded his version of the gun fight in the lobby of the St. Regis Hotel on West Sixth street, the jury filed in with its verdict.

FIND SELF-DEFENSE

"We find that Harry Schwartz came to his death from gunshot wounds inflicted by James S. Fox in self-defense," the verdict read.

Harry Moran, who died apparently because he resembled Fox, his friend, too closely in build, the jury found, likewise died of gunshot wounds but "at the hand of a person unknown to us."

Immediately after the verdict came in, Marie Fox, wife of the accused slayer, leaped into his arms on the witness stand and kissed him. But Fox's victory at the inquest was offset to some extent by the announcement from Dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis that a murder complaint will be issued against him today.

As the jury deliberated, search for the two gunmen against whom murder complaints were issued Thursday as an aftermath of the hotel-lobby duel and the double murder, was continued systematically by the police and Sheriff's office.

The two men are Theodore Eggers and Ernest Schultz, the former one of the notorious Eggers brothers of San Francisco and the latter a dangerous gunmen and ganster, according to police.

EXPODUS OF GUNMEN

A general expodus from the city of gunmen and members of the various liquor rings was reported in progress late yesterday as the special police squad swung into action to clean out their nests. The campaign was launched last night under the direction of Inspector Finlinson and Assistant Detective Captain O'Brien and ten detective-lieutenants assigned particularly to that task.

A half-dozen or more eye-witnesses to the gun battle in the lobby in which Schwartz and Moran were slain testified in rapid succession at the inquest conducted by Coroner Nance.

The first witness was Mrs. Schwartz, wife of the slain hijacker whom Fox killed, he says, in self-defense. She declared that her husband had told her Fox had threatened to "get" him and that she knew of the underworld fude which had been brewing between them. She declared Fox had shot her husband once before. She admitted that Ernest Schultz, one of the men sought for the murder of Moran, was her husband's close friend but denied knowledge of Schulta.

TELLS OF SHOOTING

W. G. Croff, proprietor of the drug store in the hotel, gave a graphic account of the spectacular gun duel. Fox, he said, was quietly eating a dish of ice cream in his place and left after bidding him good-night. As Fox stepped out, he said, he saw a tall, heavy-set stranger accost him. They scuffled and he saw Fox back away.

The next thing he heard was the shots and ran out to see one man on the ground, shot, and the larger of the gunmen near the curb. As Moran ran out of the restaurant in the hotel, the gunmen jerked his revolver out and "cracked down" on him. Moran fell in the center of the street, shot through the head.

BELL BOY TESTIFIES

It remains for Harry Glass, a bell boy in the hotel, however, to take off the highlights of the double murder. He had refused to tell the police, but on the stand admitted that he had changed his mind and would take his chance with the gangster world.

"I rushes up, walks up to the man and asks that he make no trouble. He tells me to keep out. Fox says: 'Get away, I don't want trouble. Get away. You're going.' Then everything happened. I hit the telephone booth. I don't want to get shot up."

Fox was the last witness. He knew Schwartz from San Francisco, he said, but since his arrival there had been bad blood between them.

Schwartz had shot him once in the leg, he said, as he uncovered the gun and showed the jurors and spectators the bullet wounds.

FOX'S VERSION

"They told me they were going to give me a ride. I knew what they wanted. Sure, they were going to get me in that car and fill me full of lead. There were too many of them to see. The big fellow was jamming a gun in the ribs with the gun.

"I'm no trouble maker. I don't want trouble. Ask anybody. I always wanted to keep out of trouble. You can't make any money getting in trouble."

That was his tale in essence and cleared him, at least as far as the Coroner's jury went.

Sheriff's officers were blamed by police last night for lack of co-operation during attempts to round up the gangsters following Tuesday night's slaying, city detectives saying that they were hampered by action of the county officials. The specific complaint, according to several detectives, is that after Jimmie Fox, alleged slayer of Harry Schwartz, voluntarily gave himself up to Sheriff's officers, police were not notified. According to police, after Fox appeared at the Sheriff Peoples's office accompanied by an attorney, he was taken by a deputy to the lot where he disposed of his gun, returned and questioned for several hours. Nearly four hours after a drug clerk at Seventh and Main informed the detectives Fox had surrendered, they reported.

Detectives declared they agreed with a chance to question Fox as soon as he surrendered it would have been easier to get a clew to the gunmen and possible hiding place of the fleeing gangsters, believed implicated in the revolver battle.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes yesterday forwarded a letter to Chief of Police Davis commending him for the campaign against boot

Go To Church Sunday

Why You Should Go to Church

By M. M. MANGASARIAN, First Unitarian Church

Neither the rewards of Heaven nor the punishments of Hell can drive modern man to church in very great numbers.

THOMAS HUXLEY said: "A church should be a place in which week by week services should be devoted not to the iteration of abstract theological propositions but to the setting before men's minds of an ideal of true, just and pure living . . . . a place in which the man of strife and of business should have time to think how small after all are the rewards he covets compared with peace and charity."

Few would want to stay away from such a church.

SEE THE BIRDIE

In Cincinnati the policemen are being armed with cameras. Bandits are expected to look pleasant while being shot.

NOT DRY LAND

An item in an eastern paper speaks of swimming in the turf. Perhaps that is what is meant by taking a plunge in Florida real estate.

POSITIVE PROOF

Anyway, Susanne Lenglen will be a wonderful proof to the world that it isn't always a baby-doll face that gets a girl into the movies.

NOT TIMBER

It must be discouraging to be a Democrat. After trying for three years to scare up some Presidential timber the best they can show is a bunch of laths.

THE HANDY PENNY

It takes more than 1,000,000 pennies a day to keep the slot and vending machines going, but it is noticed that the pennies always come back for another trip.

SO HE NEEDN'T TELL IT

Many a tiresome man who is fond of boasting that he is a graduate of the University of Hard Knocks makes one feel that he really ought to be given a black eye for a diploma.

NOT ALL VELVET

One of the health magazines insists that any man can live to be 150 years old. But even this does not provoke much enthusiasm. Think of a woman having to live 120 years or so with one man!

OR THE YARMOUTH BLOATER

They are planning to stock the Salton Sea with some brand of fish that would ultimately make of the place something of a resort for the disciples of Izaak Walton. How would the kippered herring do for a starter?

EARNEST SEEKERS

President Coolidge's envoy, now touring the Philippines, finds a strong sentiment there against independence; and a Philippine politician who has just returned to Manila from a visit to this country reports strong sentiment here in favor of it. It certainly is easy to find what one wants to find.

COMMON TEMPTATION

The Seattle man who confesses to "at least fourteen murders" blames his misspent life on a pie he stole years ago. That's all bosh. Nearly all of us have felt like committing a few murders after eating "home-made pie" at a lunch counter when the worst consequences were a visit to the drug store.

MAKING PROFESSIONALS

After this Cash and Carry Pyle has professionalized football and tennis he may be for lining up the horseshoe pitchers at the box office. Somebody will be sorry for this yet. By turning professional Suzanne Lenglen has escaped further contacts with Helen Wills, but Americans will hold the belief that the California girl would have bested the French champion in the finish. Suzanne passes from distinguished company, but as she says she needs the money she cannot be blamed for capitalizing her great gift.

FUNNY REPUBLICANS

Why should Republicans of Southern California be asked to support for Governor a Berkeley real estate man who is brought into the race by San Francisco bosses and boosted by the Hearst Democratic newspapers? The bosses and the candidate may all be classed as hostile to the national administration and were identified with the La Follette forces in the test two years ago. Certainly a Republican who respects the record and traditions of his party cannot have any just contacts with this sort of an alliance.

AMONG THE SHARKS

Some authorities are very emphatic in the assertion that sharks will never attack a living swimmer. They may nibble a dead one, but it is asserted that a husky man has nothing whatever to fear from their approaches. In the South Sea Islands the native swimmers pay little attention to sharks. But, on the other hand, a shark was taken off the island of Oahu recently and part of a uniformed native soldier found in his interior. How would it do to use some guy like Ponzi for bait and let the best shark win?

THE COLLEGE GRADUATE

After all, it seems that loaning money to college students to enable them to complete their courses is good business. A foundation that specializes in this form of practical benevolence is just getting the first returns on the adventure. No return payments are asked until more than a year after graduation and the student is found to have made a start. Of some 360 borrowers in the first group on the books only two failed to meet the obligations. It is explained that the first installment was placed at only $10, but that it should be recognized and met by nearly 100 per cent of the debtors is remarkable.

ON GUARD

Los Angeles may be infested periodically by gang killers; but it is unthinkable that they shall be permitted permanently to locate here. Chicago methods and those of the East Side of New York will not be tolerated. There are no slums, no dive districts in which these plagues of death can thrive. The insanitary moral atmosphere necessary for their successful propagation is lacking.

Los Angeles has defended itself against the imported gang thugs of the labor unions; and it will protect itself from the hired killers of the hijacker and bootlegger rings. Likewise, it will protect the oriental residents who deserve protection from the hired killers who wage underground tong wars.

In no other city in America of equal population is the space devoted to the underworld so limited. There may be isolated spots where creatures of this class find temporary harbor; but under drastic police supervision they are soon hunted down and locked up in jail or driven from the city.

Bootlegging is a new criminal industry. It is steeped in vice and sodden with crime. Its addicts know neither honor nor shame. They prey alike on society and on each other. There are rings of these outlaws in all the large cities near the coasts and the border. Those in possession of illicit liquor are outside the law. If they are robbed they cannot appeal to the officers of the law and the courts for the detection and punishment of the robbers. This is well known, alike to the hijackers, who thrive by robbing their fellows, and to the bootleggers who buy illicit liquor to resell at an enormous profit.

Bootlegging is alike an illegal and an extra-hazardous calling. Men engage in it at their risk and peril. The chances they take are all out of proportion to the possible profits. Those who escape the law fall the victims of the hijackers—thieves who organize to rob and slay distributors of illicit liquor.

There are some who hold that the rival gangs should be permitted to settle their own feuds, that the law should not be too diligent in hunting down a thief who has slain a thief; but that view of justice will not be tolerated in Los Angeles, where the citizenry will not accept the theory that multiple wrongs can be made to equal a right.

Feuds of the underworld soon creep into the upperworld if they are permitted long to exist. The right to kill, regardless of the insult or offense, does not exist under California laws. These gangsters are careless with their weapons, and the records of Chicago and New York show that innocent persons are almost always among the victims.

It is true that if there were no bootleggers in Los Angeles there would be no hijackers; and to eradicate the two breeds it will be necessary for a more strict enforcement of the Volstead Act. Bringing back the sale to the public of alcoholic liquors would not make conditions more tolerable; for it is patent that if there were no liquor to be obtained there would be neither bootleggers nor hijackers.

Los Angeles will expect its public officials to check this new crime wave at its source. If there were no secret rapprochement between gang politicians and gang killers the murders of the present week would probably never have taken place. Wherever politics and politicians are impure crimes of violence are certain to multiply.

HATS AND HALOS

Climb not upon a stand at the corner of the street to be seen of your fellows; that is the place for vegetables. Show cases are not for men—just for meat.

A great mission seized upon a candlestick-maker of Genoa and he left a shining track across the sea. A great purpose animated a miner's son in Germany and the world has revolved in a new orbit ever since.

Live men are for swollen floods, to save folks; for burning buildings, to rescue hapless ones; for watchmen, to receive bullets into their breasts—a real live man has no business on a pedestal.

People do not care for a bust of you until you are dead and your meanness is forgotten. The pedestal business is premature for the living.

What right has any man to be done in oil as long as he is not done in death. No man is admitted to the Hall of Fame until he is deceased a quarter of a century to make sure of no sham.

We hate to be fooled. We are jealous of our real heroes and want our lords with a pedigree a mile long. We even demand that of our pups.

Marble becomes a man only after he is defunct. A man has to die for some one to get his picture on a penny. And then even a buffalo, if he be willing to become extinct, can claim the honor.

The man who esteems himself overhighly is seldom esteemed by anybody else. Greatness needs no press agent. The man who blows his own horn is usually the herald of his own downfall.

All heroes are dead. Folks will not stand for them as long as they stand for themselves. Real saints are found only in niches. A self-appropriated halo becomes nothing but a hat.

No man in the flesh ever had a halo on his head—that was a hat you saw. But when even an ordinary fellow dies for some one any kind of an old hat is transfigured into a halo. Halos are last-century hats!

JAPAN AT WAR

Japan, for all its peaceful intentions, appears to be involved in continuous warfare. But the war is not with human enemies, but the forces of nature. Earthquake, hurricane, flood and famine have been testing the endurance of the nation more severely than it was tested in the years of the World War. In facing their present visitations the plucky sons of Nippon are proving their fiber.

NOT THAT KIND

In an eastern university eighty-one students in the senior class affirmed that they had never been really kissed and sixteen said that they had never danced. It is safe to say that few of these were girl students.

DRIFTING APART

Scientists say that the eastern and western hemispheres are getting farther apart. That is about what Senator Borah argues and he seems to think that they never will get together.

CARS AND EDUCATION

The subject of the effect of automobiles upon the records of college students has attracted wide attention throughout the country and has evoked drastic measures in some institutions against the habit of students driving motor cars to and from school. It is not a new question to Los Angeles and has been the subject of grave consideration in many quarters. Human nature is the same everywhere, and Los Angeles has no reason to plume herself as an exception to the rule.

Princeton has adopted a rule prohibiting any save upper classmen driving to and from the university in an automobile, and these must first secure a special permit, which, it is asserted, is not easy to get. The University of Illinois has banned entirely the use of automobiles by all students, beginning September 1, the council of administration asserting that the scholastic standing of students owning cars is below the average of the institution; that it has involved a constant and serious loss of time; that it has resulted in serious accidents, violation of State and local laws and unnecessary congestion in streets adjacent to the campus; that it has contributed to moral degeneracies that have resulted in the expulsion of students.

The New York Sun, in discussing the situation, declares that the "poor lad or weakly girl" who cannot manage to stagger under a load of books between home and the classroom should be in a sanatorium, instead of being transported to and from a university in a motor car. The Sun also takes exception to crowding the universities with young people who care nothing for education and only enter college because it is considered "the thing" in certain circles.

A BOBBED CHAPEL

Slavery has been abolished. Whisky has been prohibited. Long female hair has been bobbed. And compulsory chapel has been cast into the discard by Yale.

Thus one by one the ancient and intrenched wrongs of the human race are being vanquished. The children are issuing their Declaration of Independence.

This is the second time in a few short weeks that Yale has stepped into the calcium. Some of her students recently testified to the Senatorial investigating committee that the condition of the Yale campus is humid.

However, it should not be inferred that because the student body has reached the point of saturation this has anything to do with the abolition of compulsory chapel.

President Angell is reported as saying "We are convinced that by these means a more wholesome and active religious life will come into being." He refers to the abolition of compulsory chapel.

None but base and suspicious minds will associate this statement with the theory going the rounds that if we had light wines and beer we should have more sobriety.

Yale does not intend the world to think that the less church a man has the more religion he will have.

Not long ago Smith College for women at Northampton settled this same question. However, the bobbed chapel was voted down by 1081 to 209.

There is every possibility that Yale College has been unfortunate in being press-agented by the boozers and chapel abolishers simultaneously.

If the students of old Eli were to be given a referendum on compulsory class attendance we are interested in knowing what would happen. Would a more wholesome and cultural life come into being?

Suppose the student body were to hold a referendum on the speed laws of Connecticut, would these strictures still stand? Would the streets of Hartford be more wholesome?

Would a referendum on the Ten Commandments secure results?

A MOUSETRAP

"If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Emerson was supposed to have said it. But Felix Shay, Elbert Hubbard's Boswell, ascribes the sentence to the sage of East Aurora.

And now the Oregonian comes forth with iconoclastic hammer and smashes the "mousetrap theory" itself. The Portland paper even insists that Fra Elbertus repudiated his own philosophy.

However, the majority of folks will continue to believe in the mousetrap concept of life. The man who has spunk enough to do something better than his neighbor will find the world making a beaten path to his door.

Paul Revere may have trampled down the road to Concord with his horses's hoofs; but the books of Emerson, Longfellow and Louisa M. Alcott keep it beaten hard to this hour.

Phillips Brooks made his church a shrine in Boston and the world wore a walk to the portals of the pulpit of Henry M. Jowett even in the jungles of New York.

Santa Rosa is a small place tucked up among the hills north of San Francisco; but Luther Burbank made it the botanical capital of the world, even as Robert Millikan made Pasadena the home of the cosmic ray.

The "mousetrap theory" of life throbs with optimism. Every spot of earth becomes holy ground. Crass materialism may flatter itself that it furnishes better paving blocks; but though a man catches nothing but mice better than others the world will make his birthplace a Mecca for time to come.

The mousetrap is still on the job!

BAD ADVERTISING

By James J. Montague.

A funny folk, the Genoese,
If being odd may be called funny—
They want us people overseas
To stop with them and spend our money.
A golf course, which has widespread fame,
Is one of their most choice attractions,
And yet they hedge about the game
The most impossible exactions.

For instance, when one clouts a ball
With all the fury of ambition,
And finds it has not budged at all
From its original position,
But from the matted rough peeps out,
It's surface scarred with hideous gashes,
He naturally wants to shout
A sentance best expressed by — — — —.

But course attendants hover near,
On every tee one has his station,
And if perchance they overhear
A strident oath or imprecation—
Or even such a word as "Fudge!"
They seize the miscreants by the collars
And hurry them before a judge
Who fines them sometimes twenty dollars.

We're commonly serene and cool
In almost every golfing crisis,
We keep our temper, as a rule,
When we make hooks and tops and slices,
We sigh sometimes and sometimes frown,
When off the course our balls go straying,
Still, Genoa is not a town
Where we should care to do much playing!

AN ADDING MACHINE

BY W. L. Y. DAVIS

"The adding machine is the enemy of personality," says a writer in a magazine. And then that useful member of society is read out of association with better people.

Personally, we hold no brief for the adding machine. One has never been required to foot up our assets or income-tax reports. But there is a bare possibility that it has been maligned.

It cannot "add faith to virtue nor virtue to knowledge." It is powerless in the higher realms of life and character. It has never been ambitious to supplant the preacher or poet.

Doubtless some pepole have tried to make it do what it never has aspired to do. Some have attempted to make it sum up joys. They work it furiously, expecting happiness to be the grand sum total. They have always been disappointed—happiness is never machine-made.

Not a few imagine it can add affection and so pound it in vain endeavor to produce results. But they have always discovered that the adding machine lacks wit and magnetism as a lover.

There is ever a tendency to add quantity for quality. Quality is that peculiar inherent something which no scales can weigh nor adding machines compute. Too many think of success in terms of addition.

The adding machine is death to art or religion. When a man begins to paint or preach to the staccato music of the adding machine the paint daubs on mechanically, the piano sounds like a dishpan and the sermon like cymbals.

Too much business is purely mechanical; too much religion is pharisaical; too much literature is technical and machine-made.

The adding machine makes excellent music in a bank; but it makes a poor pipe organ for worship.

THE LUNCH COUNTER

The air is pungent with the grease
Of sizzling eggs and meat,
Mixed well with many odors
Of seasoned things to eat;
Perched high upon a whirling stool
I let my questioning nose
Assist me in the choice of what
The smudgy menu shows;
A disregarding waitress
In lusty accents bawls—
"A hot—two bowls—a side of beans,"
And the cook an answer calls;
A laden plate unbreakable
Is shoved before my place,
As reaching toward the friendly rail,
My stretching toes I brace;
Attacking grub with knife and fork,
My neighbor elbows me,
As hastily he gulps his fare
In close proximity;
The coffee has aroma quite
Inviting to be smelled,
But tasting this black beverage,
Its worth is not upheld;
Used dishes rattle noisily
Within a metal pan,
A droning hum is rendered by
A small electric fan;
Reflected in a looking glass,
A munching chewing line,
And back of each impatiently
Wait others who would dine;
My appetite somewhat appeased,
A check to me is billed,
And squirming from the wobbly stool,
My place is quickly filled.

To Regulate Flying

SANTA MONICA, July 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Your admirable editorial on "Killers of the Air" in this morning's paper, together with the news article in another column relative to the proposed Santa Monica ordinance prohibiting stunt flying and fixing a minimum altitude of 2000 feet over the city suggests a few remarks.

Common sense would seem to render it obvious that all "student" and practice flying by government or any other planes should be confined to uninhabited areas; that all stunt flying should be so confined; that the private aviators who take people for "joy rides" and the people who want to fly for pleasure should be also confined to such areas or to places set aside for such amusement and properly regulated. In a word, flying over private residences and places of public resort as the beaches should be absolutely prohibited, except at an altitude of 3000 feet and then only when flying in a direct line from point to point on legitimate and necessary business. As little risk as possible should be allowed.

This matter of air control is one demanding immediate action in a large way. Many serious drawbacks to the future enjoyment of life, health and happiness might now be prevented if dealt with before air traffic has assumed such dimensions that vested interests will be able to interpose obstacles and inflict conditions that otherwise would not be tolerated. Already health has been injured, lives lost—as at Venice last week—and property interests injuriously affected through lack of the simplest, elementary provision for the preservation of private and individual rights. If the magnitude of motor traffic had been foreseen and its evils guarded against twenty years ago we should live more comportably and safely today. The prophets of future air triumphs are certainly not lax in warning the legislators of today as to the conditions that will be not unlikely to need solution in a very few years.

Will Not Change

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Just finished your editorial on "Young and the Bosses." Want to make a confession. I have been a Richardson man, but was contemplating changing to Young or Goodcell because of alleged lack of enthusiasm as to Boulder Dam on part of Governor. But in light of your informing and judicious editorial put me down as a Richardson man for all I am worth. Ring changes on subject in editorial till election.

No Twilight

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I notice in today's Times that a certain C. H. Watt seems to be very much in favor of this daylight-saving proposition; well, this is, in my opinion, one of the most senseless ideas that ever has been gotten up here on the coast.

I have lived in Chicago for many years and know that the large majority of the people have always been absolutely against it, however it was put over on them by force.

The farmers cannot milk their cows an hour ahead of time, the railroads will never change their regular standard time and this latter will be the cause of an endless confusion by the general public desiring to take a train, as the large majority invariably will arrive either an hour before train time or an hour after.

There is no twilight on the Pacific Coast, after the sun goes down we all know that it turns dark shortly afterward. A. CRUSE.

"If Winter Comes"

REDLANDS, Aug. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] When daylight saving is spoken of we think at once of the summer months. The great local need, however, is that we should begin our day in the winter months an hour earlier, so that our business day is wholly one of daylight throughout the year. For convenience it involves beginning an hour earlier the year through; and, of course, quitting an hour earlier. The plan should work out to the advantage of working people particularly, and every type of business, and would beyond doubt develop the social aspects of life immensely.

If a graph is made in the form of an oblong, with vertical lines drawn across, which at the top shows the hour of sunrise and at the foot the hour of sunset for each day of the year, the curve made from these points shows us a space something in shape like an egg in plane. The space inclosed by the curves shows us the amount or daylight in a year. The outer lines of the oblong inclose the total time: It will be seen at once that we waste our daylight the most when the days are the shortest, because we do not begin soon enough. In the summer there is plenty of daylight at both ends.

Why Is a Bathing Suit?

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Can't something be done to stop the avalanche of simpering bathing-girl parades that flaunt the beaches every summer? Those who participate and those who "rubber" could be doing something more uplifting than to deify nudity. The bathing suits are perfectly all right for what they are intended—swimming—but why have persons strut around on dry land just to attract attention to the fact that they have on a bathing suit and wish to be admired? Piffle! A. B.

Police sometimes get those who help themselves.

RECLAMATION'S DRAMA IN FILM

Production to Feature Desert Transformation

Authority on Subject Lends Aid to Producer

Federal and State Officials to See First Showing

The romance and drama of the reclamation of the desert wastes of the Southwest through irrigation will be placed before the American public in a more impressive manner than ever before when "The Winning of Barbara Worth," a motion picture featuring this theme now being filmed by the Goldwyn Studios, is released next month, it was stated yesterday by Thomas E. Campbell, former governor of Arizona and recognized as one of the country's leading reclamation authorities.

Since the filming of Mr. Wright's novel was first proposed it occurred to Mr. Goldwyn, who is deeply interested in western reclamation, that the material, aside from its entertainment value, is admirably adaptable to the presentation in visual form of the various facts pertaining to the various subjects of reclamation, of which the great bulk of the American people are ignorant," said Mr. Campbell. "He therefore invited me to make such suggestions in regard to the development of the picture as in my judgment would stress the recreative features.

SUGGESTIONS ACCEPTED

"I have just returned from the Imperial desert, where the Barbara Worth company has been at work for some time, and has today submitted any suggestions to Mr. Goldwyn which he has accepted."

Mr. Campbell is highly enthusiastic over the picture producer's decision to lend his aid in promoting the cause of reclamation by presenting a picture which the former Governor says will tell the story of reclamation of the desert in a manner no less graphic than "The Covered Wagon" told the story of the western movement of the pioneers.

Mr. Goldwyn informs me that when the picture is shown for the first time in Los Angeles on September 23, next, he will invite Secretary of the Interior Work and Dr. Elwood Mead, head of the United States Reclamation Department, to be present, as well as the governors of all the States, members of Congress, and others prominently interested in reclamation," Mr. Campbell added. "I believe the showing of this picture will do more to give the people of the country a true conception of reclamation and what it means than anything else that has ever been done."

DESERT TRANSFORMATION

The changes in the picture suggested by Mr. Campbell have particular reference to such phases of reclamation as reveal its beneficent results.

"As the picture was originally outlined, the desert scenes depicted the hardships incident to a parched land and put too much stress on the difficulties connected with attempts at irrigation, including broken dams, floods and other unpleasant things." Mr. Campbell commented. "My idea is to include scenes showing the transformation of desert wastes into fruitful fields and happy homes. Whatever of romantic interest the story may hold in the way of love affairs, thrilling adventures and the like, these fall far short, in my opinion, of the romance of changing deserts into garden spots."

NEWSPAPERS GET BOOST BY RAND

Calls Them Best Medium For Advertiser and Sees Gain in Volume

"There will be a tremendous increase in newspaper advertising in the near future, because it is the advertising that brings direct results in sales," declared James H. Rand, Jr., in a recent address before the New England conference of the district managers of the Kardex Rand Sales Corporation, in Boston.

"I believe the newspapers present the most powerful advertising medium," stated Mr. Rand. "Newspaper publicity gets its story across to the people you want to sell, it is read, and consequently exerts a definite force in the making of sales."

Mr. Rand is the man who conducted the successful consolidation within a year's time of such nationally famous concerns as Kardex, Rand, Library Bureau, Globe-Wernicke, Safe-Cabinet and Index Visible.

TRANSPORT CLUB'S OFFICERS ELECTED

Schmulian, United States Medical Corps; financial officer, Second Lieut. Dwight Tunison, Quarter Master, Reserves, and quartermaster, Second Lieut. Kendrick Johnson, Quarter Master, Reserves. The executive board consists of Capt. E. W. Weeks and Russell M. McLennan; Lieutenants I. Schmulian and Edward Scheller; and Capt. Ralph Badgerow.

BODDY TO BE EDITOR FOR 'NEWS'

Board Says Vanderbilt's Connection With Paper Has Been Severed

Elias M. Boddy, managing director of the Commercial Board and editor of the California Commercial Digest, has been appointed editor and general manager of the Illustrated Daily News following the recent purchase of the Los Angeles tabloid by 5300 stockholders who are residents of Southern California.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., according to an announcement by the new board of directors of the paper, "has absolutely no connection with the News from this day forward." Through releases filed in the United States District Court Thursday the Vanderbilt family has surrendered notes held by them and has abandoned all interest in the publication.

Prior to coming to Los Angeles, Boddy was New York City sales manager for the Encyclopedia Britannica Corporation, and was also formerly connected with the New York Times and other eastern publications. He is 34 years of age, a member of the Writers' Club of Hollywood, the American Legion, the 283 Club and the California Country Club.

The officers of the new company who will have active charge of the News are: Capt. William Oliphant, president. Willis O. Lewis, vice-president; Claud B. Andrews, vice-president, and R. I. Jones, secretary-of these men and R. H. Whinery, E. M. Boddy, A. McDonald Kerr, J. G. De Lozier and Joseph Mesmer.

POW-WOW OF LEGION TOMORROW

Harry Carey's Ranch Ready for Western Entertainment Features for Veterans

All is in readiness for the American Legion pow-wow and barbecue at Harry Carey's ranch, four miles from Saugus, tomorrow. Beginning at noon with a Western barbecue supervised by Fred Ramirez, Jr., and a corps of assistants led by Ted Laveson, Monrovia post member of the Legion, the pow-wow is expected to develop into the most unique entertainment program the Legion has ever put on in this section of the State.

Wild horse and steer riding, swimming in the newly completed cement pool at the Carey ranch, Harry Carey in person, fifty full-blooded Navajo Indians in riding and roping contests, squaw races on foot and horseback, a stage coach hold-up and realistic fight between Navajo Indians and cowboys, an opportunity to see the primitive life of the Indians as they live on their reservations, exhibition of rug, blanket and basket weaving of the squaws and a Western dance in the evening are included on the program of events.

One of the highlights of the afternoon will be the Charleston contest between Bug Gregg, Dot Chollar, Miss Williamson, and the Navajo Indians and their squaws. Sacred ceremonial dances by the tribe also will be staged for the veterans. H. E. "Happy" Wintz, fun maker of the Legion, will be master of ceremonies.

The public is invited to the event.

War Veterans Urged to Back Redistricting

Co-operation of disabled veterans in support of the amendment of the Constitution for legislative redistricting, which will appear on the November election ballot, was urged that night by Warran A. Grinnell, president of the Disabled Veterans of the World War, Inc., at a meeting of the organization at its headquarters, 246 South Hill street.

Mr. Grinnell, who also is a member of the petitions committee of the All Parties Reapportionment Committee, sponsoring the redistricting measure, appealed to the veterans to get behind the movement to gain for Southern California constitutional representation in the Senate and Assembly.

In a statement to the committee, Mr. Grinnell said:

"I am glad to do whatever I can in the campaign for adoption of the reapportionment measure at the November election. With the purpose of the amendment fully understood by all voters, it is unbelievable that they will fail to approve the means of giving Southern California proper representation in the Legislature. Immediate redistricting of the Legislature by population is a vital necessity."

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

"Keep Him Happy"

One Mother Says:

His small majesty may be kept busy and happy by suspending the little "come-back" balls so popular at fairs, in front of him, where his little hands can keep them swinging back and forth. Small rubber toys of various kinds, suspended from rubber, keep him amused and help in the development of the muscles as well. Much pleasure can be had from balls covered with bright wools, in simple crochet stitch. Any odds and ends of colors may be used for this purpose.

OMELET WITH FRIED TOMATOES

Put into an omelet pan two tablespoonfuls of butter and fry in this butter one teaspoonful of chopped onion. Then add slices of tomato which have been seasoned with salt and pepper, and dredged with flour. Fry until well browned. Keep tomato warm in oven. Make a brown sauce in the same pan, browning two tablespoonfuls of butter, adding two tablespoonfuls of flour and one cup of brown stock. Then make a French omelet of six eggs and serve sauce and fried tomatoes around it. A few tips of cress dress the dish.

MINT FRUIT COCKTAIL

Place in serving glass one tablespoonful of freshly cut fruits. Pineapple and grapes or pineapple and strawberries are good combinations. Over the top of these fruits arrange three whole sections of grapefruit on the outer edge, and three whole sections of orange inside of that, having the curved side uppermost. The grapefruit sections should be marinated in mint syrup for an hour or so. Pour over all a spoonful of mint syrup and place in the center a sprig of mint.

SCALLOPED SALSIFY

Cook salsify in boiling salted water until soft. Drain, remove skin, and cut in one-third-inch slices. Put a layer of buttered crumbs into baking dish, cover with salsify, season with salt and pepper. Repeat and sprinkle top with buttered crumbs. Add enough rich milk or thin cream to moisten, and bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are brown.

WILD ROSE MOUSSE

Mix two cupfuls of pineapple juice from canned pineapple chopped and squeezed, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, and about one-third cupful sugar. Color a delicate pink with red-color paste. Half-fill a quart brick mold with this mixture. Beat until stiff one and one-half cupfuls of heavy cream, add one teaspoonful of vanilla, sweeten to taste with powdered sugar, and pour over the pineapple juice to overflow the mold. Cover, pack in ice and salt, let stand three hours.

One-fourth cupful of chopped walnuts may be added to the cream if liked.

WALNUT WAFERS

Beat till light and thick two eggs not separated. Add one cupful of light-brown sugar, one cupful of English walnut meats broken in small pieces, four tablespoonfuls of bread flour, mixed and sifted with one-fourth teaspoonful of baking powder and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt. Drop from a teaspoon on a buttered cookie sheet. They should be removed from the sheet while hot with a thin-bladed knife. If they harden and stick to the pan, place in the oven until they give with the heat.

Sometimes it is easier to remove them while standing at the oven door. If they crinkle in the process of removing from the pan, they look better than when smooth. Makes four dozen.

Diet and Health

CONTINUOUS SIGHING

Miss A wants to know what is the meaning of continuous sighing? Is it caused by the heart?

Well, Miss A, isn't it a common experience of life that the heart can cause sighing, especially in the springtime of the youth and the year? Being so preoccupied that even the process of breathing is suspended momentarily, will cause a need for oxygen, and a good deep sigh will follow with a liberal supply of it.

"The first sigh of love is the last of wisdom," Antonie Pret says. I don't believe that. It's usually the beginning of wisdom. However, I'll take you seriously, for while sighing is spoken of facetiously—I myself am guilty of it, you see—it may be a symptom of some physical disorder, as well as mental.

In sighing, there is some condition which is causing a lack of oxygen to the lungs and tissues. The common things may be an anemia from some cause, or a toxemia. Notice both of these words have the termination "emia," meaning blood. Anemia means literally without blood, and toxemia, poison in the blood. Sighing is also present in acidosis, either the profound acidosis sometimes occurring in diabetes of vomiting or diarrhoea, or in the milder acidosis from wrong balance of the foods.

If I were you, I would have a physical check-up and find out the cause of your lack of oxygen.

ANTISTERILITY DIETS

Mrs. D.—No, having been operated on for a hernia is not the cause of your not having a baby. As you are young and have been married only for five years, and a thorough physical examination of yourself and your husband has shown no reason why you cannot have children, you have no need for despair.

However, I suggest you adopt a baby, anyway. I don't know how it works but perhaps the happiness caused by a baby in the home is instrumental in increasing the appetite so that the diet contains a more liberal amount of fresh fruits and vegetables and milk; all high in vitamins. It has been found in animals that a vitaminless diet is productive of sterility and there are investigators who believe that there is an antisterility vitamin, Vitamin E.

I know personally of one woman who had been married for ten years and had no children. She adopted one and afterward had seven of her own. I've heard of other cases.

You or your husband are not overweight? Overweight may cause sterility. If you are overweight, we have a booklet on the subject which you may have by sending your request accompanied by 10 cents in stamps and a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask also for our article on Balanced Diet. (Allow two weeks for their receipt.)

Contracted Bladder

Mrs. A, age 56, has a contracted bladder, and cannot hold over two ounces of water at a time. This is exceedingly inconvenient, naturally, as she cannot leave home.

You should have a physical examination, Mrs. A., to find the cause of your condition and have treatment. The only thing that I can suggest is to have a normal diet (so that your urine won't be too acid,) with liberal amounts of water, and see if you can gradually stretch the bladder by forcing yourself to wait a little longer before you pass the water.

Send for our articles on Balanced Diet and Acidosis. (For these send only a good-sized s.a.s.e. with request.)

My dear followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember, it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Trade Show's Fashion Revue Gets Approval

Chamber of Commerce officials yesterday put the stamp of approval on plans formulated by Norman Manning, for the "Fashion and Follies of 1927," a theatrical revue and style show to be given each night of the industrial and trade exposition the 16th to the 22nd inst., in Shrine auditorium.

The revue, according to the plans of Manning, who has been appointed supervisor of special exposition attractions, will number 100 persons, most of whom are Angelenos. Rehearsals will start today, he said, in order that the show will be well smoothed in time for the opening performance. A feature of the "follies" is that it will display particularly the millinery and gowns turned out by the Los Angeles apparel establishments.

Each day the exposition will be opened to the public at 3:30 p.m. and will close at 11, according to F. L. S. Harman, assistant secretary of the Chamber. The theatrical entertainment will begin at 9 p.m., he said.

Mr. and Mrs. King met about five months ago during a business transaction.

PAIR FINED IN COMBAT OVER WIFE

Butcher and Lunchstand Owner Asserted to Have Threatened Deadly Strife

F. M. Akers, a butcher of 133 South Figueroa street, and Earl Bybee, Ontario lunch-stand proprietor, were fined $25 each in Justice Holbrook's court at Ontario yesterday for disturbing the peace.

According to Patrolmen Houghton and Sydenstricker of Ontario, they arrested Akers and Bybee Thursday night at Akers's automobile, parked a short distance from Bybee's home, finding Bybee on the running board armed with a knife and Akers with a cleaver and butcher knives beside him on the seat.

The officers declared the men had a misunderstanding over the fact that Bybee's wife had ridden in Akers's car from Los Angeles to Ontario. Akers said he was on his way to Miami, Ariz., to take a job there.

STATUE SYMBOLIZING CALIFORNIA PROPOSED

The placing at Los Angeles Harbor of a heroic statue symbolizing California was suggested to the City Council yesterday by Henry Lion, sculptor. The statue, as proposed, would provide a marking of the entrance to the harbor in the manner that the Statue of Liberty marks the entrance to New York Harbor. The suggestion was sent to the harbor board.

Wide Scope Set for Conference of Evangelists

The coming Pacific Southwest conference on the Christian way of life, to be held at Pacific Palisades the 18th to 29th inst., under the auspices of a representative committee from several different evangelistic denominations, will be a combination of camp meeting, Christian workers' training school and missionary institute, according to Dr. Charles H. Scott, president of the Pacific Palisades Association.

While the complete faculty and lecturing staff for the coming hours of meeting has not been announced, it is stated that the list will include Frank W. Dell of the Friends Church of Long Beach; Dr. J. W. Mahood, evangelist-at-large for the Methodist-Episcopal church; Commissioners Henry E. Hodder and William Peart of the Salvation Army, and Dr. Samuel Dick of Pasadena. Song services will be led by Joseph Waugh of Long Beach.

Columbia Man Assistant for U.S.C. Registrar

Howard W. Patmore of Columbia University is to come to the University of Southern California this month as assistant registrar, according to advice of Registrar Theron Clark.

Patmore is a graduate of the University of North Dakota, where he later served as registrar for three years, and for the last year he has been in the registrar's office of Columbia, in New York. He will take the place of Miss Annabelle Sasnett, assistant registrar at the university for the last year, whose marriage to Prof. Hugh Willett is to take place in the near future.

Patmore's parents reside at 1425 Cherry avenue, Long Beach. He was also organist and choir director of the Brooklyn Church while in New York City.

Advise Women

to adopt new hygienic method and retain freshness this way; true protection; discards like tissue

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves the risk of old ways.

SELECTIONS ON KHJ DIVERSIFIED.

Program Varied to Please All of Audience

Record Shop Ensemble Has Versatile Members

Margaret Bond Gains as Solo Violinist

BY MAE PRYCE BROOKS
[Illustrations on Picture Page]

A program filled with selections to please any radio audience went out from KHJ last night. The studio was crowded with the participating artists.

The Edison Record Shop Ensemble with its versatile members might easily fill an entire evening, as there are in the group soloists who would be a credit to any organization. There were violin solos by Maurice Hibler, saxophone solos by Keith Neal, vocal numbers by Mildred Massar, who has a baritone voice, accordion solos by Marie Frances, and duets, aside from the work of the Rose-Marie Ladies' Orchestra. Miss Rose Frazer, who is the manager of this ensemble, deserves great credit for the results she is achieving.

DOT STREET, FAVORITE

One who is always welcome at our concert hour is Dot Street, soprano, who is doing such fine work with her lovely voice. The ballads which everyone loves are always a pleasure to hear when sung by this gifted young singer.

The harp solos of Grace Currey are always satisfactory, and many telephone requests were granted last evening. Bill Frater did some skillful playing on his accordion.

We were glad to have Harriet Andrews with us again, and her numbers were particularly appealing last night. Mrs. Walter Fisher played Miss Andrews's accompaniments with splendid feeling.

One who has a two-fold talent is Alice Frazer, whose soprano voice charmed her hearers, as did her piano numbers.

TALKS ON COWS

Jay Dutter gave a talk in the series being given by the California Dairy Council, his subject being, "The Pilgrims Found Cows Necessary." This series is very interesting and has required a vast amount of research work.

The nightly Scripture reading was given by Rev. Samuel Hitchcock, pastor of the Mayflower Congregational Church.

Chief White Bear came to tell his fascinating Indian legends to the children last evening, and brought with him Frances Cater to sing original songs for them. Indian lore is gripping in its interest, and the legends are instructive as well.

Johnny Downs, the all-American boy, 11-year-old member of "Our Gang" comedies, has just returned from his vacation at Coronado with a rich coat of tan, and much to say about his good time. He is just beginning work on a western picture in which all of the "gang" will impersonate cowboys, Johnny being the "tenderfoot" from the East.

COMING VIOLINIST

Margaret Bond, 13-year-old violinist, is bound to make a name for herself in a musical way. She is a most gifted young girl. Billy Lord, "Police Comrade," is a joy and always delights his radio friends. Catherine Cotter, "Sweetheart of Radioland," pupil of Marshall Stedman, was on hand with her tongue-twisters and other good things. Two little singers, Marguerite Bringham, 11 years of age, and Roberta Bush, "Firefly of KHJ," completed the juvenile part of the twilight hour. The Piggly Wiggly Girls added their lovely bit to the program.

A new trio—the Valencia Trio—played for you on the noon program. LaVerne Beal is the pianist; Lolu Benedict, cellist, and Wilma Bashor Galloway the violinist of this charming ensemble. Their work is good to listen to—fine intonation, lots of spirit and splendid interpretation. They played mostly the popular numbers and won the instant approval of the noon audience.

PLAYS HARMONICA

A harmonica player who does such things as "Souvenir," by Drdla, and "La Borachita" is quite unusual. R. J. Murphy did just these things on the noon-time program, and delighted everyone in the gallery. George O'Hara and his uke added to the enjoyment. This young man wishes us to tell you that he is not George O'Hara of the movies—simply George O'Hara of the radio. There are so many inquiries as to whether or not he is both.

We had a visitor in the studio at noon—a young man who came up to us from our neighboring station, KFSD, San Diego. "Rod" Wyatt is his name, and he sang and played his uke in a most interesting way.

Rod Loring and his Night Club Cafe Orchestra closed a very full day at the studio with dance numbers, and blue songs by Betty Abbott, girl baritone.

COMMUTE ACROSS OCEAN WAVE

Trio Goes Between Here and Honolulu

Mrs. Lena R. Pepperdine and Her Daughters

THE first trans-Pacific commuters on record arrived here on their latest trip aboard the S.S. City of Los Angeles yesterday. They are Mrs. Lena R. Pepperdine and her two daughters, Florence and Esther, and they commute regularly between Los Angeles and Honolulu on the City of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Pepperdine is vice-president and treasurer of the Western Auto Supply Company and is required by her duties to spend half her time with the Honolulu branches of the company and the other half in Los Angeles.

Bureau Holds Screen Actor Needs Voice

A good voice is as essential to a motion-picture extra as to an actor engaged in spoken drama, State Industrial Accident Commissioner Carrigan held in effect yesterday in awarding $1624.78 compensation insurance to Alfred Allen for an injury to his vocal cords in a freak accident.

The opinion sets forth that Allen, who is 57 years of age was engaged March 24, 1924, by the Universal Pictures Corporation in depicting a storm scene.

While standing on an artificial dock near an artificial ship, Allen was struck by an unusually heavy gust of the artificial storm, according to the opinion.

At this point of the story the artificialities ended and it is declared that Allen fell eighteen feet to solid ground. So rough was the storm and the fall, the opinion sets forth, that he fell on one of his shoulders, breaking a vocal cord and making his voice permanently "rough."

He claimed that the company was negligent in not placing a railing around the dock and charged that the roughness of his voice is a permanent disability, unfitting him for further acting because it has a detrimental effects on other actors with whom he may be engaged, according to Carrigan

The decision orders the Independent Indemnity Company to pay the award in the sum of $20.83 a week for seventy-eight weeks.

MOTORIST ROBBED BY BANDIT PAIR

Comely Woman Assists Male Companion Hold-up Angeleno on Santa Barbar

"Cherches la femme" became a realistic slogan for police detectives yesterday following the report of Charles Barker of 1511 West Fifty-ninth street, that he was held up and robbed by a young blond woman and a male companion late Thursday night. Both the young woman, described by Barker as unusually good looking, and her companion wore black masks.

Barker reported that he was stopped by the pair after they had stalled an expensive make of sedan crosswise on Santa Barbara avenue near Halldale. At first Barker stated he was suspicious and was about to force his own car around the sedan when the young woman stepped out of the sedan. Not being able to see her face in the dark Barker said he did not at first observe the mask.

Suddenly two shafts of light from an auto turning a corner a block away cut across the avenue and disclosed the masked features of the young woman. Before he could prepare any defense Barker was confronted by the woman, as she stepped on to the running board of his car and pointed a small automatic pistol at him.

The next instant, Barker stated, he found that the young woman had given the pistol to her companion and was systematically "going" him. She took $60 from his wallet, he said.

Under a long black cape the woman wore, Barker said, she had on a [illegible] coming evening dress. Her companion was also well dressed.

Following the hold-up Barker said he saw the young woman take the driver's seat in the sedan and drive it rapidly away.

Fifth Street Double Track Permit Asked

The Los Angeles Railway Corporation has applied for a franchise to construct a double-track electric line from Fifth and Flower streets to the intersection with Pico avenue, thence across Beaudry avenue and Boyleston street to connect with the present Sixth-street line.

Permission has also been requested to extend the car line on Figueroa street from Fifth street to Sixth street.

The Los Angeles Railway Corporation filed the application at the request of the City Council and downtown business men's associations. A more direct connection with the downtown district would be made by the extensions.

DOG CARS REQUESTED

The Humane Treatment of Animals Commission has asked the City Council for an appropriation of $[illegible] for the purpose of employing two additional men and purchasing two dog cars for the dog-collection work of the department.

Louella O. Parsons—Examiner, said:— "The director without Ernst Lubitsch's genius and disarming manner of presenting sophisticated situations, could have evolved so 'satisfactory' a piece of theatrecraft."
Edyth Schallert—Times, said: "An evening of both chuckles and laughs—it is for a trifle quite lively—breezy satisfying piece to be shown because of its intimate quality that makes you enjoy the Lubitsch characters."

"MEN OF STEEL"

Background of Industry for Sills Feature

By Edwin Schallert

The fact that "Men of Steel" was made with the background of one of the nation's biggest industries, needn't restrain anybody from imagining that he isn't going to see a good old-fashioned movie this week at Loew's State Theater.

"Men of Steel" is just that—a rip-roaring melodrama, with the industrial trimmings.

The hero takes the blame for a murder that he didn't commit. He escapes and makes a name for himself with the lurking threat of jail or execution hanging over his head. Eventually he is properly exonerated, and weds the right girl.

So much for the plot. Because the cast is much better.

"Men of Steel" really has a good deal of character as a production. It was made against the authentic background of one of the country's greatest plants for providing the metal of commerce and progress. It has a sweep in this background that takes one from the iron mines to the giant crucibles and their molten content and incidentally avoids all the possible discomforts of what is generally supposed to be literally a very grimy industry.

Milton Sills is the star, and it is the first outright character part that he has been seen in lately. As Jan Bokak, the foreign worker in the mines of Minnesota, he is called upon to play what is distinctly a type.

On the whole it is an uneven characterization, but one that at its best is exceptionally good. The early portion of his performance is somewhat better in the acting than the latter, which is done practically straight. There are creditable and occasionally very effectual moments all the way through, and on the whole the opportunity is better than any that Sills has enjoyed lately.

Evidently First National gave large efforts to this production. It has a quality of reality. The great gaunt frame of the steel plant, the huge smoke stacks, the moving cars with the great mechanical shovels for carrying ore and slag, the transportation of the crude material to its destination at the plant from the mines—all these things give a value that is unusual.

"Men of Steel" could have been a greater picture, however, if it had had a less trite and made-according-to-specifications plot, and better drawn characters each and all considered. Worst of all, I feel, is the impression that is given of the head of the steel plant, with his sappy attitude toward the labor problem, and particularly as regards the recognition that he gives Sills as one of the workmen.

The scene in which this business magnate's daughter manicures the nails of said workman is one of the most preposterously foolish that has ever been screened. Since when have the daughters of our leading commercial figures gone in for manicuring with all the appurtenances that one finds in a barber's shop.

Doris Kenyon characterized her role quite pleasingly in the earlier scenes and as a whole sustained it effectually. One thing that Miss Kenyon has yet to learn to do and that is to look attractively tearful in pictures. The one sob scene that she has seems very badly photographed and directed, too.

George Fawcett amuses typically and effectively. He has all his tricks in the foreground. Frank Currier, despite a bad role, manages well as the magnate. Mae Allison has the wretched part of the daughter, and isn't suited to it. Victor McLaglen and Taylor Graves are satisfactory. George Archainbaud directed, sometimes quite effectually.

The Fanchon and Marco Roman Idea is staged with ample beauty, and Rube Wolf as usual amuses. Vera Van seems to please. The Idea, with its Roman burlesque, at the start is quite a good part of the show.

CONDUCTOR LAUDED ON FINAL OFFERING

Van Hoogstraten Triumphs Before Large Audience; Crowd Enthused

Regrettably, because Los Angeles music lovers have been particularly responsive to his programs, Willem Van Hoogstraten conducted his "farewell" summer concert last night at the Hollywood Bowl. The programs under his baton were all too few, and it is with rare anticipation that one looks forward to the pleasure of hearing music in the future under his leadership—probably during the season next year.

Brahms, Symphony No. 1 in C Minor, Opus 68, was an effectual opening to last night's offering. The number was unusually well received. From the first movement of the Symphony to the last, the audience was held spellbound.

The second half of the program was opened by Mozart's delightful Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," which was received with the customary enthusiasm of all lovers of the quaint Mozart style.

Of special interest on last night's program was the Andante (from an unfinished symphony) by Roy Harris of Los Angeles. This number afforded a decided contrast to the melodic compositions of Brahms, Mozart and Liszt. The security of Mr. Harris in this work was evident. In gaining tonal and instrumental effects, however, he sometimes lost sight of his original purpose, leaving the listener stranded in a maze of conflicting elements.

The symphonic poem, "Les Preludes," made a light and interesting finale. After this a reception to which all bowl patrons were invited, was held in the Green Room for the purpose of bidding farewell to Mr. Hoogstraten.

Tonight's program will be conducted by Henry Eichheim, internationally known composer, who makes his home in Santa Barbara. Mr. Eichheim will present his latest work, "Chinese Impressions," which is uniquely scored for orchestra, and fifteen bells and Chinese instruments. Violin and viola players not used in the string section of the piece will join the percussion section in playing the weird instruments.

The work has been heard in Boston and in Paris under Koussevitzky this year.

NOT WHAT SHE EXPECTED

Louise Fazenda commences her fourth week of fun making as "Aunt Katherine," maiden aunt of Doris Kenyon in "Ladies at Play," for First National. Louise has some of her most amusing scenes these next few days when she comes into possession of her legacy—a dozen bottles of port wine. She had expected $1,000,000.

STERLING SHINES IN "SHOW-OFF"

BY HERBERT MOULTON

"Sign right on the dotted line folks!"

This admonition, familiar to theatergoers a season ago, now reappears in the guise of a subtitle at the Metropolitan, where the picture version of George Kelly's poignant comedy of American domestic life, "The Show-Off," opened yesterday.

The "line," which promised to have something of a popular vogue as a result of the stage presentation, has suffered considerably—as most choice morsels of stage dialogue do—in the transformation to the screen.

And this "line" is not the only element in the play that falls short of expectations. The vigor of the original version is lost to a great extent and the splendid climaxing of the plot has been turned into a cheap melodramatic "Stop-I-have-the-mortgage-money!" moment.

This, of course, is inevitable when one begins to compare a motion picture with the stage play on which it is based. Regarded solely as screen entertainment and forgetting the delineation given by Robert Cavanaugh in the title role at the Biltmore last summer, "The Show-Off" ranks as interesting material.

The particular bright spot of the picture, as might be expected, is Ford Sterling, in the principal role—a role that virtually amounts to a star part.

Sterling is ideally suited to the character of Aubrey Piper, the bombastic gentleman who pretends to be what he isn't and wards off life's tribulations with a colossal bluff. There is pathos in the character, and Sterling cleverly permits it to show from beneath the "front" he habitually puts up.

Sterling's ability as a pantomimist, too, comes in to good effect, particularly at that moment when he reveals to his wife how he smashed his newly-won automobile to save a baby's life. This scene is immense.

And what a mother Claire McDowell makes!

She is a sorrow-burdened figure after her husband's death, but from underneath the weight of it all her contempt for Sterling is given no unmistakable revelation. Here is a splendid portrayal.

Lois Wilson, too, gave a highly commendable performance as Sterling's uncomplaining wife—the sole person in the world who believes in him.

The sweetheart of the brother is played by Louise Brooks, who does well in a negligible role. The brother is portrayed by Gregory Kelly and the father by C. W. Goodrich.

Malcolm St. Clair, who directed, has made a fairly creditable picture out of what was a notable stage success. He was handicapped, of course, in the transferral to the screen, as any director would have been.

The stage divertisement at the Metropolitan is still under the pleasant dictatorship of Eddie Peabody. His act this week is called "Rays of Sunshine," which is more or less apropos if sunshine is supposed to make one happy.

Midnight Show Ends Long Run for Morrissey

Sixteen weeks of packed houses establishes a new record for musical shows in Los Angeles, according to Michael Corper who bids farewell tonight to Will Morrissey's Music Hall Revue at the Majestic. A gala ceremony has been planned to take place at the end of the Bohemian midnight matinee at the Majestic tonight when Morrissey's show exits to make way for Olsen and Johnson in Corper's new musical revue "Monkey Business," which opens Wednesday evening.

Will Morrissey's Music Hall Revue has been in this city for sixteen consecutive weeks, the larger portion of the engagement spent at the Majestic, according to Corper. The revue, Mr. Corper declared, was one of the most popular attractions the Majestic has had in a long time and he looks forward to some future time when Morrissey will again produce another show at the local playhouse.

Following the closing of the Morrissey show tonight, the Majestic will be dark for three days during which time many new scenes, settings and curtains will be erected to accommodate the "Monkey Business" revue.

'Barbara Worth' Unit Returns From Location

After spending eight weeks under the Nevada sun in a temperature of 120 deg., 200 extras, 150 carpenters, a technical staff of 100 and Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky will return to Los Angeles tomorrow morning at 8:30 a.m., by special train, having completed exterior shooting on the Henry King production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," for Samuel Goldwyn.

Deserted on the sands of the Black Rock desert in Nevada, the film troupe has left the movie city of "Barbara Worth," which sheltered them during their eight weeks' pilgrimage. Although all tents and valuable equipment have been removed, the frame shacks and buildings have been left desolate on the desert, fitting companions to a half score of deserted Nevada mining towns which likewise stand uninhabited — a memento to days that are gone.

Metropolitan Plays Host to War Veterans

Disabled, unemployed and other veterans of the World War will be the guests of Victory Post No. 54 of the American Legion, at the Metropolitan Theater during the month of August as the result of courtesies extended by Managing Director Frank L. Newman of the Los Angeles Publix houses.

These arrangements were made with Mr. Newman by C. A. Pollock, adjutant, and Paul Cramer, chairman of the hospitalization committee of Victory Post. Pollock and Cramer pointed out to Mr. Newman that there were many disabled, unemployed and other war veterans who lacked the means for getting entertainment. He immediately offered to take care of these men at the Metropolitan.

All veterans who desire to take advantage of this offer are advised to call at the headquarters of Victory Post, 327 1-2 South Hill street, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. where tickets to the Metropolitan will be given them. These tickets are good till 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"PALM BEACH GIRL" SHOWING AT RIALTO

Bebe Daniels in "The Palm Beach Girl" is now playing at Rialto, Bebe's role is that of a naive country girl who comes to Palm Beach to visit her wealthy aunts and becomes involved in a series of adventures.

The wrecking of a hand car by a speeding train, Bebe's fight with bootleggers, her experience with the Sheriff and her involuntary efforts to operate a speed boat are a few of the episodes in the picture.

LA MONICA SPONSORS CONTEST FOR WALTZES

Management of La Monica Ballroom will sponsor, starting next Friday evening, a waltz festival, when preliminaries will be held for the purpose of selecting ten couples who will participate in the grand finals. From the group will be chosen the finest couple of waltzers in Southern California.

Trophies will be awarded the winners in this event and Carol Laughder's La Monica Ballroom orchestra has provided a special score of new waltz numbers.

FLASHES

SUITABLE TITLE

LAURA LA PLANTE IS CAST IN "BRIDE" PICTURE

By Grace Kingsley

Think what you like about it, William Seiter is just bound and determined to direct Laura La Plante in "Brides Will Be Brides." As you know, Mr. Seiter and Miss La Plante are betrothed and are to be married some time in the fall, probably in October, so we may imagine with what zest the director will enter on the direction of a picture with the above title. And as for Miss La Plante, can't you imagine how she will put her soul into her work in such a picture?

LAURA LA PLANTE

However, no matter how impatient Mr. Seiter may be to get to work on this feature, he has first to direct Reginald Denny in "The Cheerful Fraud," with Gertrude Olmstead playing opposite the star. Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy, and Charles Gerrard also have important parts. This is the first time Miss Olmstead has played in a Universal picture in some time. She is now loaned by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the feature.

Indeed not until "Brides Will Be Brides" will Miss La Plante and Mr. Seiter be professionally united. In the meantime Miss La Plante oddly enought is to reverse life's experiences judging from titles and is to appear in "Beware of Widows," which Millarde Webb will direct.

"Beware of Widows" is from a play by Owen Davis, and "Brides Will Be Brides" is adapted from a newspaper serial by Lucille Van Slyke.

Lila Lee With Fox

At last the selection has been made. Lila Lee it is who will play the leading feminine role in the Fox production of A. S. M. Hutchinson's "One Increasing Purpose," which is to be made in England.

Edmund Lowe has the masculine lead, and the company will depart August 18 for England. Lilyan Tashman will accompany her husband, Edmund Lowe, on the trip.

Miss Lee in private life, as you know, is Mrs. James Kirkwood. She has lately been appearing on the stage in New York, but, along with her husband, is returning to pictures.

Schenck Goes East

Joseph M. Schenck will leave for New York on Sunday to complete plans for the proposed $20,000,000 chain of preview theaters in which he, as chairman of the United Artists' Corporation's board of directors, and Sid Grauman, Lee Shubert and others are interested. Mr. Schenck will remain away from Hollywood a month, and when he returns the Pickford-Fairbanks studio, home of the Schenck organization and United Artists units, is expected to witness a tremendous building and production activity.

One of the objects of Mr. Schenck's trip to New York is to complete arrangements with Gloria Swanson for the launching of that star's first picture for United Artists. Miss Swanson is the only member of the United Artists corps who will produce in the east. With the exception of Chaplin and Keaton, who have their own studios, and Goldwyn, who at present is producing his pictures co-starring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky at the De Mille studios, all other Pacific Coast activities of United Artists will be centered on the Pickford-Fairbanks lot.

Roy D'Arcy Another Menace

Once more Roy D'Arcy is to be the menace in a Mae Murray picture. Just as he made existence miserable for Miss Murray in "The Merry Widow," so Mr. D'Arcy is once again to threaten her happiness in the M.-G.-M picture, "Valencia," which Dimitri Buchowetzki is to direct. Oh, yes! Irving G. Thalberg makes the announcement.

Margaret Morris Plays Lead

Margaret Morris, it was announced yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky, will play the feminine lead with Jack Holt in "The Man of the Forest," the Zane Grey picture which John Waters will direct, and on which work will be started early in September.

Arlette Marchal In It

It turns out that Adolphe Menjou is to have two leading women in one picture. Arlette Marchal, the beautiful young French actress, has just been assigned one of the leads in "An Angel Passes," which is to be Adolphe Menjou's next starring vehicle to follow "The Ace of Cads."

ARLETTE MARCHAL

Gretta Nissen, you may remember, has been assigned the other feminine lead.

Miss Marchal will leave for New York early next month.

Von Stroheim Set on Mountain

According to word received yesterday by Erich Von Stroheim, now producing "The Wedding March" for Paramount, work has been completed on the camp which, for a number of weeks has been under construction on Mt. Whitney, and on a number of remarkable settings which have been erected for use in the picture.

Here on the highest peak in the United States, and at an elevation of more than 12,000 feet, an entire Tyrolean village has been constructed on the mountainside to serve as the background for several important scenes. An imposing hunting lodge, perched on the crest of the High Sierras, has also been erected, and it is here that scenes will be made with many important members of the cast taking part, including Von Stroheim himself, Fay Wray, Mathew Betz and Zasu Pitts.

Three thousand feet down the mountain, the Von Stroheim construction department has completed a beautiful chateau, and at a still lower elevation the gatekeeper's lodge at the entrance to the mountain estate.

Though a supplementary camp has been established adjacent to the chateau, the main camp lies at the crest of the mountains and only a short distance from the hunting-lodge set, where the more important sequences will be photographed. A miniature town has been laid out, with accommodations for 100 people in its rows of tents, and with water piped from one of the many lakes nearby.

OUSTER ORDER TO BE FOUGHT

Bannier Woman Will Oppose Her Deportation

Attorney Plans to Sue Out Habeas Corpus Writ

Property Valued at $75,000 Involved in Case

Jeanne Berthe Bannier, scorned companion of Pablo Santos, is coming to Los Angeles to fight deportation to France on charges of being an undesirable alien.

Her attorney, J. Edward Keating, yesterday informed United States immigration officials that he had wired her to leave work in a canning factory at San Jose and be here ready to leave for Ellis Island today with the regular Kline East-bound party.

"I may resort to appeal from the government's action by filing a writ of habeas corpus, but that depends entirely upon what my client says when she reaches the city," Keating informed immigration authorities.

CAST ASIDE

When Pablo Santos married a young girl whom he brought to Los Angeles from Canada a few months ago, the Bannier woman was flung aside. Subsequently Santos was arrested and deported to Marseilles because of his asserted connection with a nation-wide ring of women procurers who dealt in French-Canadian maidens brought across the border to the Pacific Coast. The Bannier woman was the principal witness against him.

Though Santos has been delivered to his native soil by immigration operatives, local officials are keeping a close watch for him in Los Angeles because of his announced intention to return and "get even" with the woman who betrayed him.

The duel of wits involves more than the wounded feelings of Mrs. Bannier and Santos, for the latter had $75,000 worth of Los Angeles property that fell into the woman's possession when he was deported.

PROPERTY MAY REVERT

Should she be deported the property in all probability will revert to the United States government—unless Santos succeeds in sneaking back into the country and wresting it from Mrs. Bannier or whomever she empowers to hold it for her during her enforced absence.

The disappearance of Mrs. Bannier ten days ago in the face of impending deportation caused immigration officials no little concern. Acting under instructions from the Commissioner-General at Washington, E. M. Kline, in charge of the deportation party, requested Attorney Keating to deliver the woman, and the bonding company that had insured her appearance for $500 joined in the request.

"I'm not sure that I know where she is," Keating laconically commented, adding: "I expect to obtain a stay of several days from Washington."

Should Mrs. Bannier succeed in escaping the deportation order she will have at least gained a temporary moral and financial victory over the man who was her self-admitted companion for more than ten years and who spurned her when he married a younger woman.

Eichheim Will be Conductor at Bowl Tonight

Henry Eichheim, conductor-composer, will direct the Hollywood Bowl orchestra tonight.

HENRY EICHHEIM

Now living in Santa Barbara, Eichheim was associated as first violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra for many years and later directed the symphony orchestra of Winchester, Mass. Of late years he has devoted himself to study and composition.

As a guest conductor with the Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles in 1923 and 1924, he performed his "Oriental Impressions," musical sketches of wanderings in eastern lands. On his program tonight, which is a popularly varied one, he will include his latest oriental interpretation "Chinese Legend, 600 A.D."

Eichheim arrived in Los Angeles from Santa Barbara yesterday and will direct only one concert at the Bowl. Eugene Goossens of Rochester is the director next week.

Tonight's program:

Overture—Egmont	Beethoven
Forest Murmurs—"Siegfried"	Wagner
Danse Macabre	Saint-Saens
(a) Nuages	Debussy
(b) Alborada del Gracioso	Ravel
Intermission.
Symphonic Poem—Chinese Legend	Eichheim
Overture 1812	Tschaikowsky

Funeral for Mrs. Messer to be Monday

Mrs. Margaret Boyes Messer, mother of Mrs. Margaret Messer Morris, well-known singer, died at the Monte Sano Hospital yesterday after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p.m., Monday, at the chapel in Hollywood Cemetery under direction of Reed Brothers Company.

Mrs. Messer was 58 years of age. She was the widow of the late James J. Messer of Hamilton, Ont., Can. Besides her daughter, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Isabel B. De Lipkau of Van Nuys.

AD CLUB'S COUNSEL TO ADDRESS EXCHANGE

Ray E. Nimmo, attorney and counsel for the Advertising Club of Los Angeles and its affiliated organization, the Better Business Bureau, will speak before the luncheon meeting of the Los Angeles Exchange Club today at the Biltmore. He will speak on the methods and activities of the Better Business Bureau.

LIGHTING POSTS ASKED

Property owners yesterday asked the City Council to order the installation of ornamental lighting posts on Bixel street from Crown Hill avenue to Sixth street.

Australian Statesman Seeks Reclamation Data

Distinguished Guests Here For First Time

Occupant Due Soon in Nursery at Hughes Home

Toward the end of fall a nursery now being prepared in the home of Lloyd Hughes, film actor, is expected to have an occupant, it was revealed yesterday by Hughes.

GLORIA HOPE.

The actor and Mrs. Hughes, formerly Gloria Hope, have kept so quiet about the approaching event that only their intimate friends in Hollywood are aware of it.

Hughes proudly confirmed the rumor, however, when questioned yesterday at the First National studio, where he is appearing in a picture.

DIVORCE DENIED TO LONG-MARRIED PAIR

Maria Provost and Anthony Provost, who lived together twenty years and then decided they wanted to divorce each other, were still husband and wife yesterday, Judge Hazlett having denied each of them a decree. Mrs. Provost instituted the proceedings with a complaint charging desertion and failure to provide, and Provost retaliated with a cross-complaint accusing his wife of mental cruelty. In giving his decision Judge Hazlett held the testimony was not sufficiently corroborated to warrant granting either a divorce.

MARCELL SELECTION CONFIRMED BY COUNCIL

The appointment by Mayor Cryer of George Marcell as a member of the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation was confirmed by the City Council yesterday. Mr. Marcell, who is a retired banker, succeeds Irwin W. Camp, who declined reappointment.

TRUCK TRAFFIC PROTESTED

The use of streets in the Victoria Park residential section by heavy trucks was protested yesterday in a letter received by the City Council from the Greater Western Los Angeles Improvement Association. The heavy trucks endanger the lives of women and children at the park, the letter said.

FORMER PREMIER ON VISIT

Sir Joseph Carruthers of New South Wales Declares His Nation Indebted to United States

Sir Joseph Carruthers, K.C.M.G., former Premier of New South Wales and one of the most distinguished of Australia's statesmen, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday for his first glimpse of the United States. Sir Joseph, accompanied by Lady Carruthers and their three daughters, together with Miss Rhoda Burnett, sister of the statesman, were passengers on the liner City of Los Angeles.

Retiring from his position as leader of the Upper House of Parliament last year, Sir Joseph is in California for a two-months' inspection of American methods of reclamation and irrigation and agricultural methods in general.

SUCCESS COPIED

"Your reclaimed desert land is known all over the world," said Sir Joseph, "and it is pointed to as a great example. We in Australia have followed your methods closely."

"I was instrumental in getting Elwood Mead of your United States Reclamation Service to come to Australia two years ago to help our work along these lines. Our first interchange with your methods came thirty years ago when the Chafee brothers visited the United States and studied your agricultural methods. Your citrus culture has been followed closely in Australia and we are copying your successes. We have done so well that for two consecutive years our oranges have won the international prize.

"I am also interested in studying your political methods," continued the statesman, "particularly your primary elections. It is somewhat of a new thing to us."

Sir Joseph has had a distinguished political career. First known for his fifteen years of service as Minister of Public Instruction, he followed for a period as Minister of Public Lands.

SERVED AS PREMIER

Following this he was Premier from 1904 to 1908 and then retired to become vice-president of the executive council and leader of the Upper House. He retired last year from this high office and has come to the United States in an unofficial capacity to make observations as a private citizen.

Not only along political lines has the Australian become famous, but also in his particular hobby — the study and dissemination of information about the activities of Capt. Crok, the first white man to visit Australia, New Zealand and many of the Pacific islands.

"There was never a greater sailor-explorer than Capt. Cook," said Sir Joseph, "and I am trying to correct public misunderstanding of his work and career. He was a particularly bloodless explorer, probably not killing one native a year in his expeditions in contrast to some of his contemporaries who slew hundreds at a time."

The Australian probably is the leading living authority on Capt. Cook and his three globe-circling expeditions.

The Carruthers party first will study the Southland and then proceed to San Francisco for an inspection of the Central California region.

Goodcell Makes Last Southland Speech Tonight

Rex B. Goodcell, Republican candidate for Governor, will conclude a two weeks' campaign tour in Southern California this evening with an address at the Bar-de-Duc Club under the auspices of members of the American Legion at 955 South Olive street. Mr. Goodcell has termed his tour a success from every standpoint. During the past two weeks he has filled many speaking engagements in the vicinity of Los Angeles as well as many engagements within the city. Several mass meetings were held with the candidate being given an enthusiastic reception in all instances.

Monday he will begin another tour of the San Joaquin Valley with meetings in Bakersfield and Taft. During this tour he will also visit the Sacramento Valley and San Francisco Bay region in the interests of his campaign. Many mass meetings have been arranged and a busy speaking program has been mapped out for the candidate.

From every section of the north come reports of growing strength in the candidacy of Mr. Goodcell. Many Goodcell-for-Governor clubs have been formed throughout the north and it is now predicted that he will show an amazing strength in this section at the State-wide primary on August 31.

SILBERBERG-CALHOUN MARRIAGE ANNULLED

Annulment of the marriage of Mendel B. Silberberg, Los Angeles attorney, to Mrs. Alice Silberberg, formerly Alice Calhoun, motion-picture actress, was granted in Superior Court by Judge Gates on the petition of Mr. Silberberg. Mrs. Silberberg, who did not contest the action, was represented in court by her brother, John Calhoun, attorney of New York.

CITY HALTS PAVING WORK

Proceedings for Patented Surfacing Abandoned As Result of Appeal Court Victory

The City Council yesterday announced its intention of abandoning proceedings for approximately $1,000,000 patented street paving improvements which have been started during the past year. This action will be the result of the victory won by the city in the recent decision of the Court of Appeal upholding the restrictive provisions in the new charter designed to destroy the monopoly and high prices for patented pavement.

The Council started by abandoning the proceedings for the paving with Warrenite patented pavement of Mullen avenue between Country Club Drive and Pico street. Property owners had filed a majority petition against the patented pavement, and they offered yesterday to pay the city's $500 expenses to date for the engineering work in preparing the ordinances but the Council said, "Keep your money. We are going to abandon all pending patented paving proceedings, so there is no reason why you should pay the cost of your proceedings."

Councilman Randall announced that the Council will soon receive from the City Engineer a complete list of all pending patented paving proceedings started since the new charter went into effect, so that the entire list of proceedings could be abandoned.

The INTERVIEWER

"Flo Ziegfeld still prefers blondes no matter what's recently been said to the contrary," said Art Hickman, Ziegfeld's personal representative on the Pacific Coast, who is at the Ambassador.

"It peeves me to see all the bunk that's come out within the last couple of months to the effect that Ziegfeld has switched from blondes to brunettes for his Follies when I know there isn't any foundation for it. Ziegfeld's shows always have featured blondes, and the show to be opened by him in October will be no exception.

"All of Ziegfeld's most noted stars have been blondes of the most pronounced type, among them Dolores, Alta King, Mary, Pearl and Doris Eaton, and others. In the Follies group of girls that will appear this fall, there is only one brunette but that's no uncommon thing. I believe the yarn about Ziegfeld's having changed from blondes to brunettes originated in the camp of his enemies."

LION FARM DRAWS PRAISE OF VISITOR

"Funny nobody in Los Angeles seems to take any interest in the fact that the world's only lion farm is operated here," said Capt. W. F. Dunn, of Sydney, Minister of Agriculture for New South Wales, who is at the Biltmore.

"The lion farm is the first place I visited upon my arrival, and I found it the most interesting stock-raising establishment I have ever seen in my life. I had heard of this farm before coming but had always regarded it as more or less of a myth. Now that I have seen it, I know that lions may be raised with not much more difficulty than we raise sheep in Australia.

"We have no lion farms in New South Wales, but we are going in heavily for fruit farming, citrus, peaches, apricots and pears. We have recently completed one of the largest irrigation projects in the world in our State, Burrenjuck Dam, which impounds a third more water than is contained in the harbor of Sydney, known as one of the most magnificent harbors on earth. The project will irrigate more than 250,000 acres, a large amount of which will be planted to fruit trees. More than 3000 new settlers have already taken up lands under the Burrenjuck project."

FAST LINER WILL MAKE HAWAII RUN

"Honolulu will be brought nearer Los Angeles by about two days when the new liner Malolo, now under construction in Philadelphia, is placed in commission next May," said J. J. Makin, Honolulu hotel man, who is at the Biltmore.

"The Malolo, which means flying fish in Hawaiian, will make the trip from the Pacific Coast to Honolulu in four and a half days. The boats now employed in the Hawaiian service require from six to seven days. The boat will be as speedy and as luxuriously appointed as any liner now in the Atlantic service.

"To take care of the increased tourist traffic which will result from the addition to the service of the Malolo, the company with which I am connected is now erecting a new hotel at Waikiki Beach, to be known as the Royal Hawaiian. It will contain 400 rooms, will be modern throughout and will be situated in a tract of fifteen acres planted to tropical trees, shrubs and flowers. The new hotel will open January 1, next.

"The hotel interests of Hawaii contemplate following the example of Southern California in making the islands an all-year resort. Our summers are no less pleasant than our winters but the bulk of our tourists depart about the first of April. When the Malolo is placed in commission, it is probable that she will ply between Honolulu and the ports of Australia and New Zealand during the summer to encourage tourist traffic from those countries during the season which constitutes their winter."

Clinton Mosher Funeral Service Will be Monday

Funeral services for Clinton L. Mosher, retired, formerly a grain merchant of the city, whose death occurred Thursday at the family home, 307 South Virgil avenue, will be conducted Monday at 11 a.m. from the Reed Brothers' chapel, 721 West Washington street. Burial will be in Inglewood Cemetery.

Mr. Mosher, who was 63 years of age, had been a resident of Los Angeles county for the last thirty-two years. Born in New York, June 30, 1863, he came to California in 1894, settling in Los Angeles county. He had lived in the city the last twenty-five years. He retired from active business about ten years ago and the ten years prior to that he conducted a place of business at Thirty-eighth and Roff streets, Vernon. He had been ill about four months.

Besides his widow he leaves one son and one daughter, William M. Mosher and Mrs. George W. Smith; two sisters, Mrs. A. M. Roach and Mrs. P. V. King, and one brother, H. A. Mosher, all of this city.

Vollmer Called by Detroit for Advisory Post

August Vollmer, fomrer Chief of Police of Los Angeles, present Chief of Berkeley and a professor of criminology of the University of California, has been called to Detroit in an advisory capacity and will arrive there early in September, coming from Havana where he has been reorganizing the police department of that city.

Vollmer's service here was of a year's duration. He resigned at the end of that time to return to Berkeley. He succeeded Chief Louis Oaks and was succeeded by Chief R. Lee Heath. His appointment here was the result of a clean-up campaign conducted by the Los Angeles Crime Commission and was generally conceded to have resulted in a considerable increase both in morale and efficiency of the police department.

Boos Provides for Education of Children

The will of Horace Boos, cafeteria company owner, who died July 25, was filed for probate before Judge Reeve by Attorneys J. Karl Lobbell and H. L. Watt yesterday. The amount of the estate was not given.

The sum of $100,000 is left in trust for the support and education of his children, Mary Louise, 16 years of age, Robert William, 9 years of age, and Horace, Jr., 7 years of age. They are each to receive a third of the income until the age of 30 years is reached, when each will receive a third of the principal.

The residue goes to the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Boos, 104 South Hudson avenue, who is named executrix.

STRONG TRIBUTE FOR SHORTRIDGE

Farm and Civic Leader in New Indorsement

Return to Senate Declared Vital to State

Conspicuous Work at Capital Set Forth

"Senator Shortridge's return to the United States Senate is vital to California's welfare. He carries an influence of tremendous importance and he is needed there to safeguard our industries and to further our State development."

W. S. Rosecrans, prominent in farm and civic organizations, including the California Farm Bureau, yesterday prefaced a tribute to Senator Shortridge with the foregoing statement, adding:

"Senator Shortridge is a member of the very important Senate Finance Committee, and also a member of the Senate Committee on Reclamation and Irrigation. As a member of these committees he has on many occasions used his influence to great benefit of California. Under the well-known seniority rules of the Senate no new Senator would succeed to these committee assignments. By failure to re-elect Senator Shortridge we would sacrifice representation on two most important committees and would materially lessen the State's prestige and influence.

"It has been my duty many times in the last few years to present officially matters of legislation to the Senator. In every case, whether the matter was large or small, he has given it prompt attention and action. Anyone coming into frequent contact with our various public officers will appreciate this quality in Senator Shortridge.

IMPORTANT PROBLEM

"The most important problem to California's agriculture is the question of water conservation. Senator Shortridge has not only been a strong advocate for the protection of our water resources but has done conspicuous work in this regard in Congress.

"It was my good fortune to be in Washington for some weeks during the last session, and while there I observed the very fine work which the Senator was doing in behalf of better fire prevention for our mountain watersheds. I was particularly impressed with the fact that no matter whether the legislation carried his name or not, if he thought it was good he worked for it. I was also impressed with the fact that he could be found 'on the job' whenever he was wanted and was at work, either in the Capitol or the Senate Office Building, from early morning hours until, frequently late in the evening. Senator Shortridge's practice of staying on the job is highly commendable in a public official, and during the last three months of the last session was of great benefit to California, as there were many absentees among the California representation, and those who remained in Washington had a greater responsibility to carry.

QUARANTINE ADVOCATE

"Senator Shortridge has always been a strong advocate of protective quarantine for the benefit of California agriculture, and in many instances has been of special service, not only in legislation, but in carrying out regulations.

"While in Washington I was also privileged to observe that the Senator was very highly regarded, and stood very high in the councils of the administration. It is my opinion that if he is returned to office he can continue to serve the best interests of California very effectively.

"Senator Shortridge stands consistently for tariff protection for the benefit of California's industries, including agriculture. He is also in favor of the utmost development of the Colorado River for the maximum benefit to the people of the Southwest."

MANY TO LEAVE CITY SOON ON WORLD TRIP

Under the direction of the D. F. Robertson Travel Bureau the following Angelenos will shortly leave on a six-months' cruise around the world: Mrs. Virginia Hutchason, Miss Exa Kerns, Mr. and Mrs. Don A. Goodwin, Miss H. L. Ewing, Mrs. Charles W. Luvell, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Myers, Mrs. W. K. Russell, Miss Elizabeth Russell, Miss R. Pearl Ellis, Mrs. Ida W. Heise, B. L. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. King, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Marsh, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Rawlings, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Carden, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Cox, Prof. and Mrs. Carl W. Gehrkens and others. On arrival in Europe the party will proceed in an automobile.

ENTERTAINING NOT APPLIED TO HOME

Mrs. Ella M. Pench

Ella Mae Pench was given a divorce from Albert Pench, a professional entertainer, yesterday. Mrs. Pench intimated her husband did not work at his professional entertaining very hard.

One day, she said, they had a quarrel over his failure to go to work. When she returned home that evening, she reported, her husband had moved away.

LONG-WED COUPLE TO CELEBRATE

Mr. and Mrs. Schneck of Altadena Will Observe Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schneck of 2325 North Allen avenue, Altadena, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary by entertaining a party of old friends Tuesday night at dinner at the Vista Del Arroyo, Pasadena. The couple were married fifty years ago in Milwaukee, where Mr. Schneck was in the furniture business. Mr. Schneck was married over his place of business in the house where he was born.

F. W. SCHNECK

MRS. F. W. SCHNECK

Mr. Schneck is 73 years of age and his wife is 69.

Mrs. Schneck was born in Des Moines but went to Milwaukee when she was a child.

They have three sons, Clarence, William and George, who reside in Milwaukee. Mr. Schneck retired seven years ago and the couple came to California to live.

In their party Tuesday will be Mr. and Mrs. W. Lawless, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. M. Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. E. Stump, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Buel, Mr. and Mrs. John Huber, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Exley and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pfeifer, old Milwaukee friends who now reside in California.

Man Caught in Cave-in of Wall Reported Dying

Unconscious and with serious injuries received when a brick wall fell on him, a man believed to be R. F. Rains, 60 years of age, reputed owner of two buildings at Alhambra and La Mar avenues, was reported near death in the General Hospital late last night.

The man said to be Rains was wrecking the buildings in question yesterday afternoon when a portion of a brick wall caved in and fell on him. At th Receiving Hospital he was found to have a fractured pelvis, internal injuries, a broken leg and concussion of the brain. He was later removed to the General Hospital.

Guard Battery to be Reviewed by Richardson

Three hundred and fifty of Southern California's "finest" will pass in review before Gov. Richardson today when the Three Hundred and Fifty-first Coast Artillery, California National Guard, marches before its commander-in-chief at Fort MacArthur.

The artillerymen are in the midst of their two weeks' encampment on the upper reservation of the fort.

They turned out yesterday for inspection by Col. R. E. Mittelstaedt, adjutant-general of the California National Guard, who flew to Los Angeles from San Francisco yesterday morning and motored to the post at the harbor.

FIREMEN DEFEAT SUICIDE ATTEMPT

An inhalator in the hands of firemen at the harbor yesterday defeated John Gomez of 733 South Grand avenue, San Pedro, in his efforts at suicide from gas. Neighbors found him unconscious at his home at 1 p.m. He was revived a half-hour later by Senior Battalion Chief Baly and Firemen Hartmen and Hanson. Domestic troubles inspired his act, according to police, and a letter addressed to his wife was found on him while he was unconscious.

RENEW ROW ON ASSESSMENTS

War on City Department Levies Holds Up Work

Action on Proposed Parks Balked in Council

Question of Taxation for Costs to be Decided

The old war of the City Council against the park, playground and library departments to compel these departments, if possible, to pay public-improvement assessments against their own property broke out again yesterday in the Council. The Council declined to take action yesterday starting under way three important district park projects until members can be informed as to the amount of pending and probable street and other assessments against the proposed parks.

During the debate, Councilman Sanborn announced that William Mead, who was a member of the Board of Freeholders which drafted the new charter, had told him (Sanborn) that Mr. Mead intends to ask the Council to place on the November ballot a charter amendment compelling the park, library and playground departments to pay public-improvement assessments. These departments are supported by direct allocations from taxes.

PROPOSED PARKS

The proposed new parks to be paid for by assessments on large districts which were under consideration yesterday are:

Fifteen acres of land to cost $100,000 and to be used as an addition to the fifteen-acre park at Sixty-second street, Western avenue and Normandie avenue; 10,000 parcels of land in the assessment district; approximate assessment on each lot, $10.

Seven and one-half acres of land at Seventy-first street, West Boulevard, Florence avenue and Mesa Drive.

Seven and one-half acres of land at Sixty-seventh street, Eighth avenue, Florence avenue and Manchester avenue.

Approximate total cost of the land for the two latter parks, $125,000; 9000 parcels of land in the assessment district; approximate assessment on each lot, $10 to $15.

ACTION BALKED

Councilmen Colden and Moore asked immediate action to start proceedings, but Councilman Hall, who has worked unceasingly to compel the park, playground and library departments to pay their assessments, and President Workman, who cited pending assessments which the city must pay against park and playground departments, were successful in delaying action until the question of payment of the assessments on the street park sites is decided.

THREE BOYS ARRAIGNED IN FORGERY

One Lad Held for Trial, Second Sent to Preston, Third Gets Release

Declared to have obtained more than $900 on a series of checks forged on the A. Thiele Fibre Mills, three youths, all under 18 years of age, were arraigned before Judge Keeler in Juvenile Court yesterday.

Edward Toomey, charged with forgery, was remanded by Judge Keele, for trial in the regular criminal department of Superior Court, while Frank Romar, also charged with forgery, was committed to the Preston State School at Lone.

George Girnus, the third youth in the case, who was before the court on a charge of grand larceny preferred in a previous case, was given a suspended sentence to Ione and released to his parents.

The three youths were asserted to have had in their possession a blank checkbook and a check-protecting device belonging to the fibre mills, which they were said to have employed in forging the checks.

FALSE FIRE ALARMS GET BOYS IN BAD

Two Youngsters Must Face Juvenile Court as Result of Asserted Pranks

An asserted desire to see red fire engines go screaming down the street, yesterday resulted disastrously for Gerald Cord, 12 years of age, and Billie Lewis, 10. The boys were charged with violating the city's fire-alarm box ordinance in complaints filed in Judge Keeler's Juvenile Court.

According to the police report in the case the boys turned in four false alarms last Thursday from boxes located in the vicinity of Third and Mariposa and Third and Normandie streets. After the second false alarm was registered at fire department headquarters police officers were stationed in the district and the boys were captured as they were asserted to have attempted to turn in a fifth alarm.

They will be brought before Judge Keeler next week for hearing.

Nine Suspended Sentences Given in Lunch Sales

Nine managers of companies selling box lunches were given suspended fines of $50 in Municipal Judge Pope's Court yesterday on charges of employing minor children in violation of the child-labor law. The children, it was said, had permits from their schools to sell the lunches during the vacation season.

Those given the suspended fines were William Paire, of Tate's; Henry P. Simon, Best Yet Company; W. D. Fulk, Blue Ribbon Company; Herbert Wells, Ever Fresh Company; F. H. Chesney, Mission Box Lunch Company; R. L. James, Herbert's; Carl Miller, Blue Bird Company; Helen Allen, Holly Box Lunch Companies; Mrs. G. W. Bernard, Blue Seal Company.

BROADWAY TO GET NEW STRUCTURE

Investment Company Will Erect Height-Limit Building and Enlarge Another

The Los Angeles Investment Company will erect a new structure on Broadway. Coincident with the announcement late yesterday of the purchase of fifty feet of frontage adjoining its sixty-eight feet just south of its Western Pacific Building between Tenth and Eleventh streets, W. H. Harrison, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Investment Company, declared that a 118-foot south wing will be added to its present height-limit structure.

This addition will give the Western Pacific Building a 200-foot frontage on Broadway, and increase the present investment to be more than $2,000,000, he said.

The south fifty feet was purchased for $135,000 from John W. and Estella Vaughan, Carrie N. Nolan, and the A. H. Busch Company, owners, and construction work on the twelve-story $750,000 addition will start about November 1, R. F. Ingold, auditor of the concern, announced. The Los Angeles Investment Company will build the structure. Architects Walker & Eisen are designing the wing.

When the wing is completed, the Western Pacific Building will have a total floor area approximating 288,000 feet, Mr. Ingold declared. He said that the present site of the building was valued by banking interests at $3500 per front foot.

The deal was made direct. Frank P. Flint is president of the Los Angeles Investment Company.

Passionists Get New Provincial Election Report

The Passionist Fathers at Sierra Madre have received word of the election of Very Rev. Father Jerome as Provincial of the Western Province at the triennial chapter conducted at Louisville, Ky. Fathers Silvan and Michael were chosen as consultors and Father Denis as master of novices.

Rectors of the monasteries were elected as follow: Chicago, Father Doninic; St. Louis, Father Boniface; Louisville, Father Edward; St. Paul, Kan., Father George, Des Moines, Iowa, Father Cletus, retiring consultor; Cincinnati, Father Bertrand. The chapter was presided over by the Most Rev. Father General, Father Leo, C.P., who came from Rome for the Eucharistic Congress at Chicago.

The superior of the Southern California foundation, will be appointed by the Father Provincial, the house not having yet been canonically erected into a monstery.

Luncheon for Sorority Party Planned Today

About 100 members of Kappa Kappa Gamma, national college sorority, headed by Mrs. Mary Westerman, national president, spent yesterday seeing the sights of Hollywood, and today will have luncheon at the Casa Del Mar. Members of the party were delegates to a recent sorority convention at Mills College, Oakland. They are making their headquarters at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel.

Yesterday afternoon they went to Universal City; Thursday evening a portion of the party were entertained at the Writers' Club with a preview. At the luncheon today the following will be hostesses: Mrs. F. S. Albertson, Mrs. Fred Cox, Mrs. Phoebe Woodhead, Mrs. Harry Cubit, Mary Louise Lacy, Ellen Andrews and Mrs. J. J. Canaven.

Two Boys Hurt by Automobile; Motorist Held

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 6.—Two youths, Walter and Paul Stinson, brothers, of 1517 Nineteenth street, were injured when they were knocked down by an automobile driven by Julio Gryalvo, who lives at One Hundred and Ninth street and Wilshire Boulevard, Sawtelle, today, according to the police report. The youths were waiting to board a car at Nineteenth street and Santa Monica Boulevard.

They were taken to Martins Hospital. Gryalvo was arrested by E. L. Jones, deputy city prosecutor of Los Angeles, who was at the scene, police said.
